ADMIRERS SAY WOMAN FOUND SLAIN TALKED ABOUT SUICIDE

Sol Hohenthal at Inquest Testifies Pearl Potoskey
Had Threatened to Kill Him and Herself.

SHOT, SKULL BROKEN

St. Louis Beauty Shop Operator Had Been Spending Week-Ends With Suitor at De Soto, Mo.

Sol Hohenthal, wealthy dry goods merchant who divided his time between St. Louis and De Soto, Mo., testified before a Coroner's jury at De Soto today concerning his relations with Miss Pearl Potoskey, young St. Louis beauty shop owner, whose body was found in his apartment there yesterday with a bullet hole above her right ear, a multiple fracture of the skull and a bruised left eye.

Sister Tells of Threats.
Mrs. Pauline Hammel, of 799
Boyard avenue, a sister of Miss Potoskey, testified at the afternoon session of the inquest that she had frequently heard Hohenthal threaten to kill her sister.

The fact that Miss Potoskey's skull had been fractured in two places was discovered by the autopsy physician, Dr. W. E. Gibson, father of the Coroner, K. E. Gibson Jr., Dr. Gibson, expressed the opinion, however, that the fractures had been inflicted at least a week ago in some manner not now entirely evident. He also told the Coroner's jury that he found slight powder burns about the bullet wound.

De Soto is in Jefferson County,
45 miles south of St. Louis.
Miss Potoskey, who was 25 years old, conducted the Pearl Beauty Shops at 609 North Taylor avenue, in the Dundas Apartments, and resided with her mother at 6124 Alaska avenue. She had been keeping company with Hohenthal for nine years and visited him twice a week at his De Soto apartment in a commercial building which he owns on Main street, opposite the depot. Hohenthal was a frequent caller at her place of business. When in the city, he stayed at the Missouri Athletic association, of which he is a member. He is 37 years old.

Tells of Her Threats.
"I loved Pearl," Hohenthal testified at the inquest. "I promised to marry her, but we set no date, (her relatives had said they were to be married Christmas).
"She was always afraid I was going to leave her. When obsessed with that feeling, she used to threaten to take my life and kill herself."
Hohenthal called for Miss Potoskey at her shop Saturday and took her with him to De Soto, arriving at 2 a. m. yesterday. They went to his apartment and he reminded her of a dispute that had occurred at the shop.
Hohenthal's testimony follows:
"I said to her: 'You gave me hell over that discussion you had with your sister. Why did you do it?'
"She said: 'I love you because you don't talk back to me.'
"I don't believe that—you're stalling," I said.
"She went into another room and put on a pair of my orchid pajamas and my bathrobe. She came out to the dining room and we drank some beer. I told her
I was tired and was going to bed.
I left her and went into my bedroom and fell asleep.
"Thought She Was Drunk.
"I woke up about 4 p. m., and started across the dining room to go to her room and wake her up.
I saw her lying on the floor of the dining room, fully dressed, with her coat on.
"Babe, are you dead?" I asked.
She didn't answer.
"Get up; you'll catch cold," I said.
Here Hohenthal turned to the Coroner's jury and remarked: "To be honest with you, I thought she was polluted."
"I reached down to shake her," Hohenthal continued, "and saw blood all around her. It flashed through my mind that she had cut her throat with a butcher knife.
I cried out: 'My God, she said she'd do it and now she's done it.'
"I tried to telephone the Coroner, but had some trouble making a connection. I ran out and called in some friends."

The body was found near a chair.
A trusty 32-caliber automatic pistol, in which there was no magazine lay beside the body, but deputies who examined it declared they

8 Below Zero at Bismarck, N. D.
By the Associated Press.
CHICAGO, Dec. 3.—Subzero temperatures that prevailed in Montana and the Dakotas overnight were riding east and south on winds of gale force today. The frigid wave was attended by snow flurries, and a heavy fall was reported about Duluth, Minn., while snow was forecast as south as Kansas City. Bismarck, N. D., was the cold spot of the United States, with a temperature of 8 degrees below zero. At Edmonton, Alberta, thermometers registered 24 degrees below.

DUKE OF YORK'S STAMMER
CURED BY AUSTRIAN DOCTOR

London Paper Says He "No Longer Fears to Meet People in Becoming Good Mixer."

Copyright, 1928, by the Press and Publishing Co. (The New York World and Post-Dispatch).
LONDON, Dec. 3.—The Duke of York's painful stammer has disappeared, cured by Lionel Logue, famous Australian specialist in speech defects, according to the London Daily Express.
The newspaper tells how for years the Duke has dodged speech making and avoided meeting people as much as possible, because of his stammer, and then how Dr.
Logue cured him after treating him an hour a day for several months. Dr. Logue declined to discuss the Daily Express story. The paper says grammatical records of the Duke's speeches in Australia show he now speaks normally and adds that "he no longer fears to meet people. He is becoming, like the Prince of Wales, a good mixer."

ROTHSTEIN COULD HAVE PAID DEBTS BY ELECTION WINNINGS

Administrators Disclose His Wages on Hoover and Roosevelt.
Netted $500,000.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Dec. 3.—Arnold Rothstein's winnings on the recent election would more than have paid the losses he suffered at the high-stake poker game which led to his death, temporary administrators of his estate disclosed today.
The Broadway gambler had placed $1,700,000 on Hoover and Roosevelt, the administrators said, which at the odds at which the money was bet would have returned about $500,000 in winnings.
Rothstein was said to have lost $380,000 in the card game, giving him a net of $112,000. He was refused to make good the paper has been given as the reason for the shooting.

Rothstein was shot the Sunday night preceding election and died today. His winnings on his bets are supposed to be still in the hand of stakeholders and presumably will be paid to his estate.

SEVERAL PASSENGERS HURT
IN MO.-PAC. TRAIN WRECK

Wife of Lieut. Hunt of Jefferson Barracks Among Injured at Arkansas City, Kan.
Special to the Post-Dispatch.
ARKANSAS CITY, Kan., Dec. 3.—
A Missouri Pacific train from St.
Louis was derailed about 40 miles east of this city this afternoon, injuring several passengers, among them Mrs. Percy E. Hunt, wife of Lieut. Hunt of Jefferson Barracks, Mo., who was on her way to this city for a Christmas visit. No one was seriously hurt.
The cause of the wreck is said to have been an open switch. The injured were taken to a local hospital on the arrival of the train here. The engine overturned, striking an automobile driven by a resident of Sedan.
Four Drowned as Auto Sinks.
MEMPHIS, Tenn., Dec. 3.—Four persons were drowned today at Merrill, Miss., when their automobile crashed through a safety chain and sank in 15 feet of water. The travellers were Mrs. Eugene Daily, 22 years old; her child, Monelle,
2; Roy Heaton, 18, and Steiner
Heaton, 27, all of Bay Minnette, Ala. One occupant of the car,
Houston Heaton, 18, escaped.

70TH CONGRESS OPENS SESSION FOR SHORT TERM

Farm Relief-Tariff Bill Introduced in the House by Williamson of South Dakota.

BOULDER DAM
REPORT RECEIVED

House Ways and Means Committee Majority Votes to Take Up Tariff Revision Jan. 7.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Dec. 3.—The House Ways and Means Committee today voted to hold hearings on tariff revision next Jan. 7. Only the Republican members were present. All voted in the affirmative.
Representative Tilson of Connecticut, the majority leader, and Speaker Longworth were present at the hearing and concurred in the decision.

By CHARLES G. ROSS
Chief Washington Correspondent
The Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3.—The final session of the seventieth Congress opened at noon today with usual handshaking scenes in both chambers. "Lame ducks," members defeated in the recent election—were present in unusual numbers. From the way in which Senators went about greeting one another, one would never have known that a bitter election campaign had ended less than a month ago.

Senator Curtis the Vice President-elect, was in his usual place on the aisle at the rear of the Senate Chamber. He is still the Senate leader and will be until he sees fit to resign some time before the 4th of March. Curtis walked up the aisle and shook hands cordially with his defeated opponent Senator Robinson, the Democratic leader. They are personal friends of long standing.

Simmons Greets Robinson.
One of the Democratic bolters, the venerable Simmons of North Carolina, whose stand against Smith was the chief factor in winning that State into the Hoover column, wore a broad smile as he circulated among the Democratic colleagues. He and Robinson greeted each other with a show of great cordiality.

The other bolter, Tom Heflin, gleaming white waistcoat and all,
was in his accustomed place. Norris and Blaine, the two Republicans who supported Smith, had their regular seats among those who wear the Republican label. Alongside Norris was Borah. These men are together on many questions and their break in the campaign was seen by each of them as a personal tragedy. They viewed the brief proceedings today with graver faces than most of their colleagues.
Senator Jim Watson of Indiana, the hard-boiled regular, who aspires to be the Republican floor leader, beamed on everybody. He was not at all the same Jim Watson who delivered savage philippics against Herbert Hoover until the nomination was made at Kansas City.

Two members of the Cabinet were on the floor—Attorney-General Clegg and Secretary of State Kellogg. Kellogg, who used to be a Senator and knows from experience how it feels to be a lame duck, fraternized with golfing companions on both sides of the aisle.
Kellogg has a special interest in this Senate which will have up for consideration the multilateral treaty bearing his name. Sargent shall next to Senator Shipstead, the Farmer-Labor member from Minnesota.

Senator Cole Blease of South Carolina was resplendent in a wine colored waistcoat.

New Senators Sworn In.
The new Senators, all Republicans, were sworn in—Thomas of Idaho, who succeeds the late Senator Gooding, Glen of Illinois, elected to fill the seat for which Frank Smith was rejected, and Valgren of Michigan, who succeeds himself to fill out the unexpired term of the late Senator Ferris.

The Senate then adjourned out of respect to the memory of Senator Gooding who died during the recess.

The Boulder Dam bill, left over from last session, is the first item of legislative business on the Senate's calendar.

President's Message Tomorrow.
The House also adjourned as a mark of respect to deceased members. The President's message will be read tomorrow.
Representative John C. Box of Jacksonville, Tex., was selected as Democratic whip. To succeed Representative Box on Dec. 2, Column 2.

ART JURY VERDICT ON BEST PAINTINGS VETOED BY PUBLIC

Not One of Six Chosen by Experts at Pittsburgh Meets Popular Favor.

By the Associated Press.
PITTSBURGH, Pa., Dec. 3.—The general public, called upon to select the best painting entered in the international exhibition of paintings at Carnegie Institute here, does not agree with the distinguished jury of artists which awarded the original prizes. The general public selected "Margery and Little Edmund," by Edmund C.
Tarbell of Boston, who today received the $200 popular prize. Not one of the six paintings selected by visitors at the exhibition was included in the list chosen by the jury of artists.

Other paintings, in the order of popular preference, were "Betty as a Gypsy," by H. E. Schnakenberg; "Evening," by Frederick J.
Waugh; "Sweeping Streets," by Waugh; "Apricot," by Pietro Gau-denzi; and "Antonia," by Gaudenzi.
Tarbell, a native of West Groton, Mass., has won three Carnegie international prizes—third in 1901, second in 1904 and first in 1909.
He was trained in the art school of the Boston Museum of Fine Arts, and for years was principal of the Corcoran School of Art, Washington.

LAKE WALES, FLA., CARILLON PLAYED FOR THE FIRST TIME

Set of 61 Bells Given by Edward W. Bok as a Memorial to His Grandfather.

LAKE WALES, Fla., Dec. 3.— Nearly 20,000 people heard the first playing of the carillon of 61 bells at Mountain Lake Sanctuary yesterday. The bells weigh an average of one ton each and were set up by Edward W. Bok as a memorial to his grandparents and as a gift to the people of Florida. Anton Brees, Belgian carillonneur, was at the keyboard. Bok and Josef Hofman, pianist, were among those present. The bells were heard for many miles as the familiar strains of "Lead, Kindly Light," floated through the air from the seven-story tower that houses the bells. For one hour the recital was continued. The program was broadcast.

Debts, reports will be played.
Formal dedication ceremonies are set for Feb. 1.

HALF BILLION GAIN IN MONTH
IN NEW YORK BROKERS' LOANS

$6,391,644,000 Total Sets New Record—Depression on Market Near End of Session.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Dec. 3.—The New York Stock Exchange today reported that total member loans at the end of November were $6,- 391,644,000, a new high record and an increase of $511,923,202 over the end of October.
Broad and, in many cases, sharp depression in prices on the stock exchange finally was checked in the last hour of trading today, when "bulls" made a violent demonstration in a handful of issues despite a jump in the call loan rate to one per cent for the fourth time this year.

Wright Aero, which had dropped about $8.50, was hurried up $27 from its low mark to $274. A. M.
Byers was boosted nearly $16, to a record high price at $121.75.
Prices today were carried down quite generally from $1 to a maximum of nearly $15. The late railway, however, diminished and in some cases dropped. The late railroad, Green Canada sold at one time $13 lower, but was able to cancel about half its loss at the close.
Packard, which had sold off more than $5, closed with a small gain.
Baltimore & Ohio, which had been touching a peak price of $125.50, and General Motors closed more than $2 higher. Radio, Montgomery-Ward, General Electric, Sears and Roebuck and Canadian Pacific lost from $2.50 to $3.75 a share.
The day's transactions totaled nearly 4,500,000 shares.

IN CRASH ON WAY TO HOSPITAL
Five Injured in Collision Experience Second Accident.

A police patrol carrying five injured persons to St. Luke's Hospital at 9 o'clock this morning, following an automobile accident, was rammed from behind by a Union boulevard street car at Brown avenue.

Thomas Curly, 67-year-old prison guard in charge of the patrol, was cut and lacerated. One of the injured was further hurt. $5.50 had been cut and bruised in a collision of two trucks at Oriole and Thelia avenues. Nicholas Giacopelli, 9 years old, of 910 E. Palmer street, was injured. A fractured left arm in the first accident.

HUNTER DIES OF EXPOSURE

MARQUETTE, Mich., Dec. 3.—
The body of August J. Kleit Jr., wealthy Pontiac (Mich.) businessman, missing since Nov. 14, was found yesterday in the woods south of Crichton, about three miles from the hunting camp Kleit started for when he left his home.
For seven days a posse of more than 150 men had been searching for him. It is thought that he was lost and died from exposure. His death is the ninth deer season fatality in Michigan, eight of which occurred in the Upper Peninsula.

KING IMPROVES, BUT HEART CAUSES ANXIETY

BANK HELD UP AT MANCHESTER; $3664 IS TAKEN

Assistant Cashier Shoots at Robbers as They Escape in Auto and They Return Fire.

BARBER IN WAY
HIT WITH PISTOL

Six Persons in Depository Near City Herded in Corner While Money Is Scooped Up.

Two robbers raided the Bank of Manchester, at Manchester, St.
Louis County, 11 miles west of St.
Louis, at 9:10 a. m., today, held up three employees and three customers and escaped with $3664 in cash, after slugging the village barber, who stood in their path as they ran to an automobile in which a third man waited.

As they drove off in the direction of Kirkwood and St. Louis, Robert F. Bloom, assistant cashier, ran out and emptied a revolver at the rear of the machine. One of the robbers returned the fire, but no one on the street was hurt.
Bloom's bullets smashed the rear glass of the automobile.

Bloom and Charles Scholl, cashier of the bank, were in the cas-hier's cage waiting on the three customers, and Miss Cecile Kruemer, 19 years old, the bank bookkeeper, was at her desk, when the robbers parked their automobile, a blue-painted roadster, about 25 feet from the door of the bank, a one-story brick building fronting on the south side of Manchester road.

Enter With Pistols Drawn.
With pistols drawn and with handkerchiefs held over their faces, two of the men entered the banking room. One of the robbers covered the three customers, while his companion took charge of the employees.
With hands raised, the six persons were ordered into a corner where they were permitted to lower their hands and enjoined to keep quiet. One man guarded them while the other ran behind the counter and scooped up the money.

Although the banking room is plainly lighted, the road through a large plate glass window, no one observed that a robbery was in progress. In less than two minutes, the robbers were outside again, running toward their automobile.

Harvey Scheuer, the barber, who was passing, stopped to stare in amazement. One of the robbers struck him on the head with his pistol. Scheuer dropped to the sidewalk, but suffered only a minor scalp wound.
Bloom was outside with his revolver as the robbers' car pulled toward the road. He fired six shots.
Witnesses said every bullet hit the automobile, smashing the rear glass and denting the body.

Cashier Scholl described the robbers as a tall, yellow-faced man of 28 years, wearing a cap and gray overcoat, and a shorter man of dark complexion, about the same age, wearing a dark overcoat.

Everything but Change Taken.
"I wasn't particularly frightened," Scholl said. "They used a lot of profanity when they told us to raise our hands and I told them to cut out the profanity and get on with it. They took everything but the small change."
"Bloom and I have been practicing with revolvers for years, expecting something like this to happen," he was the first time the bank was held up."

Scholl obtained his revolver and followed Bloom, but was too late to do any shooting. He jumped into an automobile with Earl Rose, a garage man, and trailed the robbers. At Denny road he was told that the machine had turned north at a speed of about 50 miles an hour.

King Boris' Pay Raised to $45,000.

SOFIA, Dec. 3.—King Boris, who is the lowest salaried monarch in the world, has received a 50 per cent increase in his allowance, bringing it to 6,000,000 leva, or about $4,000 a year. This is the third increase he has received in the last 10 years.

How King George's Sons Are Hastening to Father's Bedside

THE Prince of Wales, on board a fast British cruiser, which picked him up at Dar-es-Salaam, on the east coast of Africa, will go through the Suez Canal to Port Said, thence by train to Alexandria, Egypt, and home by the quickest available route. The Duke of Gloucester, the third son, is making his way as rapidly as possible from his hunting camp in North Rhodesia to Cape Town, where he will embark for London direct.

12 IN PLANE KILLED PRINCE OF WALES IN CRASH IN BAY LEAVES AFRICA, AT RIO DE JANEIRO DUE HOME DEC. 13

Distinguished Members of Reception Committee to Returning Brazilian Aviator Lose Lives.

By the Associated Press.
RIO DE JANEIRO, Dec. 3.— Twelve lives were lost when the hydroplane Santos Dumont plunged into the harbor of Rio de Janeiro this morning. The machine was carrying a reception committee made up of six Brazilians distinguished in social and political life who were to give first greetings to the homecoming of the noted Brazilian aviator, Aldeberto Santos-Dumont.

Besides the reception committee the plane carried two pilots, two mechanics and an officer of the Kondor Syndicate, owners of the machine, and the latter's wife.

All were carried below the surface in the crash except one mechanic. He was picked up by a launch but died shortly afterwards in a hospital.

The occupants of the hydro-plane were Prof. Tobias Mooscoso, noted hygienic authority; Prof.
Antonio Amoroso Costa, an astronomer; Ferdinand Laboriau, director of the Journal Imparcial; Amaury de Medeiros, a deputy from Pernambuco; Prof. Pablo Castro Maia, a representative of the newspaper Journal de Brasil; Senor Araujo and his wife; an officer of the Kondor company; Pilots Pachete and Enel and Mechanics Haschaff and Butzke.

The machine was on the way to the Circle Capraona, where Santos-Dumont was to be received.
Witnesses of the accident said that the plane was about 300 feet up and was banking into the wind when it went into a tail-spin and plunged into the water.

Because of the accident, the welcoming ceremonies for the returning aviator were curtailed. He returned through the streets in the

OXYGEN USED TO STIMULATE ORGAN; FEVER GOING DOWN

Slight Change for Better in General Condition Continues, Says Night Bulletin of Physicians.

FOUR MEDICAL MEN
ATTEND AT BEDSIDE

One Doctor Calls on Patient
Four Times in Day, Others Less Frequently—Crowds Wait in Rain.

By the Associated Press.
LONDON, Dec. 3.—King George's physicians tonight issued the following bulletin on the King's condition:

"A slight improvement in his majesty's condition noted this morning has been maintained.
His temperature is near normal, but it is necessary to emphasize that the anxiety concerning the heart still persists."

The bulletin was signed by Sir
Stanley Hewitt, Sir E. Farquhar Buzard, Sir Humphrey Rolleston and Lord Dawson of Penn.
Fears for the King, which had been the British public since it was learned last night that oxygen had been administered to the patient and that his long illness menaced his heart, were somewhat allayed by the doctor's report issued this morning. The report said that the King's condition was slightly improved.

There remained in the public mind, however, a conviction that the King was fighting for his life with the issue still very much in doubt. This was intensified by the knowledge that oxygen was being used, although Buckingham Palace authorities minimized the importance of this and explained it was customary to administer oxygen for its tonic effect in such cases.

Morning Report of Doctors.
Sir Stanley Hewitt and Lord Dawson of Penn, the King's physicians, issued this medical bulletin at 10:30 a. m.:

"The King has had three hours of quiet sleep since the issuing of the last bulletin. The temperature is now 99.8 and there is a slight improvement in the condition."

The doctors' morning visit, their statement and its result seemed to have a reassuring effect at Buckingham Palace, and there appeared an appreciable lessening of the tension which had prevailed there since the last bulletin. The King's temperature is now 99.8 and there is a slight improvement in the condition."

The doctor, paid a second visit to the palace early this afternoon.
Lord Dawson stayed only a short time, but Sir Stanley remained about an hour. Lord Dawson paid his third visit of the day to the palace at 2:45 p. m., staying a half hour.

Lord Dawson and Sir Stanley returned to the palace at 4 o'clock.
This evening and saw King George again. It was Lord Dawson's fourth visit of the day and Sir Stanley's third.

Sir E. Farquhar Buzard, consulting neurologist to the Hospital for Disease of the Throat and phrenological extraordinary to the King, joined the other doctors in their consultation at the Palace at 7:15 p. m. He was one of the four physicians who signed last midnight's bulletin.

The Duke and Duchess of York, who had been at the palace, departed at about the time of Dr.
Buzard's arrival.

Several members of the Government also called at the palace, among whom were Sir William Jowson-Hicks, the home secretary, for the second time today—the Dominions secretary and the first Lord of the Admiralty.

Lord Davidson, former Archbishop of Canterbury, also returned to the palace again at twilight.
Queen Waits All Night.
Her side, with Princess Mary at her knee, spent a trying night anxiously awaiting the next development, with knowledge of the hard struggle her husband was having at this serious stage of his illness. She was the first to receive the doctor's report, and was greatly relieved to hear that he had made what appeared to be a remarkable rally since the critical hours around midnight.

SOLDAN GRADUATE EXHAUSTED, DIES ON MOUNTAIN HIKE

Herbert Judson Young, Dartmouth College Freshman, Collapses Near Whitefield, N. H.

CARRIED FOR HOURS BY COMPANIONS

Student, Transported on Shoulders by Members of Party, Succumbs Before They Reach Base.

By the Associated Press. HANOVER, N. H., Dec. 3.—A hiking trip up the snow-clad slopes of Mt. Washington proved a fatal exertion for Herbert Judson Young, formerly of St. Louis, Dartmouth College freshman. The companions carried him down the mountain in a vain attempt to reach medical aid before death came. His parents now reside in Salem, Mo.

The story of their adventure was told here today by the survivors, who, like Young, were members of the Dartmouth Outing Club. The party left college Wednesday afternoon for a walking tour of the nearby White Mountains over the Thanksgiving vacation. Young collapsed Saturday morning. Three of the youths descended to the base station at the foot of the mountain for a sled on which they hoped to be able to bring him out of the woods.

They worked their way back several hours later only to find that the sled was useless and immediately started a forced march down the slope with Young on their shoulders. They reached the base late at night but Young was dead.

Sam H. Allen of Akron, O., a junior, led the party. The others were R. D. Fairchild of Rutland, Vt., a senior; D. M. Lawrence of Williamsport, Pa., a sophomore; H. Elchler of Dixon, Ill., and R. Williams of Chattanooga, Tenn., freshmen.

Young's body was held in the town of Whitefield pending directions from his parents.

Young Graduated From Soldan High School Last June.

Herbert Judson Young, 18 years old, was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert A. Young of Salem, Mo., who resided here with him for five years until last September, when he went to Dartmouth and returned to Salem, where the elder Young is part owner of an automobile agency. He attended Soldan High School, graduating last June, obtaining a scholarship from Dartmouth on the basis of his high grades. The family lived here at 5402 South Kingshighway.

Word of his son's death from the college authorities reached the family late last night. Young told the Post-Dispatch over the telephone today from Salem, and the funeral plans are in abeyance until Mrs. Young's brother, who is on the way, arrives at Manchester.

Young was a member of the Flier-Petty Auto Supply Co., 2823 Locust boulevard, and of other firms while here.

than his brother. He was almost equidistant from the east and west coasts of Africa when word of the situation at Buckingham palace reached him. Choosing the longer journey through Cape Town, because of transportation facilities, he immediately made a dash by canoe to Kapalla, in the Belgian Congo, where he joined a mail train for Salento. He planned to go on to Victoria Falls from Broken Hill.

The Duke was in excellent health and had put on weight during his trip. In his hunt he shot three lions and 22 different species of other game.

Prince George, the youngest son of the King, is now stationed at Hamilton, Bermuda, with the British training ship Durban. It was not known whether he had been recalled yet but it was assumed that his father's condition was likely to result in his return.

SWISS VOTE TO LEGALIZE GAMBLING AT RESORTS

Referendum for Restoration of Gaming Tables Carries 200,000 to 270,000.

By the Associated Press. GENEVA, Dec. 3.—The Swiss people yesterday voted favorably on a referendum whereby the various cantons shall have the right to install gaming tables in the casinos of tourist resorts. These licensed gambling places had been abolished several years ago.

Fourteen and a half cantons voted in favor of restoration of gambling tables with seven and a half against. There were about 250,000 votes for and 270,000 against the restoration of the gaming privilege.

St. Vincent de Paul Retreat. The annual retreat for members of the St. Vincent de Paul Society opened last night at St. Anthony's Church, Compton avenue and Marquette street.

Representative William A. Oldfield of Arkansas, who died recently.

Before the session was half an hour old, Congress had received the report on Boulder Canyon dam estimating the cost of the project at $155,000,000. The Boulder Canyon bill has right of way in the Senate.

Farm Relief-Tariff Bill. The farm relief-tariff issue showed itself immediately with the introduction of a bill by Representative William (Rep.), South Dakota, to revise the duties on certain grains, and Senator Edge (Rep.), New Jersey, urged agricultural legislation at the present session.

O. E. Larrazo, Republican, of New Mexico, who was elected to finish the term of the late Senator Jones of New Mexico, was not present. Representative Burton, Republican, of Ohio, who will take the place of the late Senator Williams, was also present.

Vice President Dawes named the two men who fought for his job in the last campaign. Senators Curtis of Kansas and Robinson of Arkansas, as the committee to represent the Senate in notifying President Coolidge that Congress was in session.

All four women Representatives were on the floor of the House. Mrs. Florence P. Kahn, California; Mrs. Katherine Langley, Kentucky; Mrs. Edith Nourse Rogers, Massachusetts; and Mrs. Mary T. Norton, New Jersey, Democrat. All of them were dressed in black.

The unfinished and routine business promises to keep both branches of Congress busy well into the new year. The Senate will have before it this week the recently negotiated Kellogg anti-war treaty. The President is expected to send it up for the necessary ratification of the Senate by Tuesday and Chairman Borah of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee already has issued a call for the committee to assemble Wednesday for the first consideration of the famous peace pact which has the signatures of most of the nations of the world.

Boulder Canyon Fight. But the Kellogg treaty, as well as the administration's navy bill, proposing the construction of 15 cruisers, must await the termination of the row in the Senate over Boulder Canyon dam legislation.

Arizona's Senators, supported by those from Utah, successfully blocked any vote on the Colorado River legislation last session and another bitter fight, lasting at least until Christmas, appears to be in prospect.

Even after the Senate disposal of Boulder dam, two other bills remain on the preferred status calendar hanging over from last session—the proposal to regulate interstate shipments of prisoner labor goods and the measure to increase penalties for prohibition law violations.

The House starts its first session of the Seventieth Congress with almost a clean slate. Its first attention will be bent upon the measures appropriating the several billions of dollars necessary to run the Government during the approaching fiscal year. The House has passed both the Boulder Dam and the Navy Cruiser bills.

DEATH FOR HUSBAND SLAYERS

NEW ORLEANS, La., Dec. 3.—Dr. Thomas E. Dreher and Mrs. Ada Bonner Leboeuf, convicted of killing the woman's husband near Morgan City two years ago, will be hanged on Dec. 21, unless reprieved by Gov. Long.

The State Board of Pardons refused their plea for clemency today.

230 KILLED, 400 INJURED IN CHILE BY EARTHQUAKE

Talca, City of 36,000, Worst Damaged—90 Per Cent of Its Houses Destroyed.

By the Associated Press.

SANTIAGO, Chile, Dec. 3.—President Ibanez today was on scene directing relief measures for the survivors of an earthquake which devastated a large area 150 miles to the south of Santiago. A casualty list compiled from various unofficial sources placed the deaths at 230, with more than 400 injured.

Military rule was established in Talca, an industrial city of 36,000, which apparently bore the brunt of the quake. Official advices from there said that only 10 per cent of the houses were habitable. Buildings not already razed to the ground were being demolished to avert further danger from a sudden collapse. The deaths at Talca were estimated at 108, with 300 injured.

Relief trains were speeding into the stricken area, regular railway schedules having been canceled to give them the right of way.

President Ibanez, who had been in the south of Chile, hurried to Talca as soon as he learned of the disaster. He found that relief work had been set in motion by Minister of War Blanco, who flew to Talca by airplane from the capital. Firemen and various organizations of young men aided the mounted police in caring for sufferers and as guards. Aid offered by the Red Cross was also accepted.

Marauders to Be Shot.

Soldiers were ordered to shoot on sight any marauders. Troops took over most of the food supply to prevent looting. Thus any effort on the part of speculators to take advantage of an emergency by raising prices was blocked.

Refugees arriving from Talca estimated that the damage there would amount to 100,000,000 pesos (about $12,000,000). The hospital there was burned after the earthquake and more than 200 persons had to be cared for in emergency shelter.

Ten hospitals were established throughout the stricken region by the Red Cross when suitable buildings were not available. The naval commander at Port Constitution said 54 were dead there and about 100 injured. Three cruisers were sent to the port by the Government. The officers found the damage there was widespread.

Sleeping in Tents.

Inhabitants were sleeping in tents in the public squares and in a dozen other cities and villages in the region, many slept in parks and in open spaces on the outskirts of the ruined towns.

The unofficial casualty list for the other places was: Chillan, 30 dead, 30 injured; Temente, 17 dead, many injured; Pileque, 17 dead, many injured; Santa Cruz, 30 dead; Concepcion, two injured; Rancagua, one dead; Curico, two dead, four injured, and San Vicente, four injured.

The whole vicinity presented a desolate picture. Roads were blocked by trees and wires. Long lines of refugees were moving over them in various conveyances with their belongings.

Government engineers are making a survey of the region so that relief work and rehabilitation might be more effectively organized.

Tremors Continued Four Hours, Seismograph Shows.

LIMA, Peru, Dec. 3.—Study of the seismograph record at the local observatory shows that the tremors which did such damage in Southern Chile began 11:11 a. m. Friday, and continued until 2:10 a. m. Saturday. The epicenter was estimated to be about 1500 miles from here. The scientists reported that there was a slight movement of the earth about four hours before the strong and more distant earthquake began.

SUIT TO ENJOIN POLICE FAILS

Progressive Realty Club Sought to Prevent Raids on Rooms. Members of the Progressive Realty Club, 303 Missouri Hotel, must take their chances with police raiders if they gamble in the club rooms.

Circuit Judge Ossing today dismissed a petition for an injunction against the Police Department, which the club members sought to obtain following a raid last July in which police used tear gas to gain entrance to the club rooms. At a recent hearing, detectives of the gambling squad testified that the Realty Club was an organization for gambling and that dice and card games were played in the club rooms. Members of the organization denied the charge and sought to have police restrained from raiding the club.

ENDS LIFE AFTER QUARREL

HORACE L. VARNER, 39 years old, a switchman, shot himself with a revolver at his home, 2229 Cherokee street, last night.

Varnar sat on a bed and shot himself through the head, according to his wife, Ida, who said her husband had quarreled with her upon returning home from work.

BALDWIN SHARES BRITTEN'S DESIRE FOR NAVY LIMIT

But British Premier Avoids Direct View as to Conference, in Deference to Executive Function.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Dec. 3.—Stanley Baldwin, Prime Minister of England, told Fred A. Britten, British chairman of the Naval Affairs Committee of the United States House of Representatives, that the latter's proposal for a conference on naval affairs by legislative committees was "interesting" but that he could not express definite opinion on it because the United States Government had not been consulted.

This came out in the House of Commons today when Baldwin made the reply. It stressed the fact, too, that, when he spoke on Nov. 12 of the lack of personal interest in a steady stream of proposals on the two sides of the Atlantic, he was referring to executives and not to legislators.

Anglo-American relations also were the subject of remarks by Sir William Johnson-Hicks, Secretary for Home Affairs, in a speech at the Constitutional Club today. He deprecated the "tendency in some quarters to dig up the roots of our friendship, to see how the plant was growing." He followed this with a hope that talk about comparative naval strengths would die down and be replaced by the old friendship between the two nations.

Baldwin's reply to Britten said: "I have learned with great interest of your proposal for joint meetings of members of the United States Congress and members of the British Parliament for a friendly discussion on the question of the limitation of naval armaments."

"I cordially reciprocate the spirit which inspired your suggestion, and I share your earnest desire for a complete understanding between our two countries. In my speech of Nov. 12 I was speaking not of legislators, but of the executives of governments, and it was the absence of facility for personal intercourse between ministers which I regretted."

"Except to remove the possibility of misunderstanding, I feel it would not be consistent with the courtesy which I owe to the United States Government to express any further opinion on the proposal on which, as I understand it, they have not been consulted."

Reply Direct to Britten. Baldwin, answering an inquiry from Commander Kenworthy, Labor member from Hull, said he had sent his reply direct to Britten.

Later it was announced that Commander Kenworthy called Britten directly, stating that he had the matter of the proposal. The Premier had been warmly received by a great number of the members of Parliament, who believed that nothing but good could come of such a meeting, which they hoped would materialize.

The result of the conversations between Sir Esme Howard, British Ambassador at Washington, and Secretary of State Kellogg regarding Premier Baldwin's reply to Representative Britten's proposal has been received in London.

It was still under consideration at the Foreign Office today and Government spokesmen were unable to say what the next step in the situation. Reports that Kellogg refused to accept the Premier's letter replying to Britten were not substantiated at the Foreign Office.

DRIVER BLAMED FOR DEATH OF WOMAN HIS TAXI STRUCK

Thomas P. Cook, a taxi driver of 3958 Elaine avenue, was charged with criminal carelessness by a coroner's jury following an inquest today in the case of Mrs. Emma Niehouse, 62 years old, of 2314 Montgomery street, who was killed Saturday night by a cab driven by Cook when she attempted to cross St. Louis avenue at Twenty-third street.

Conflicting testimony concerning the speed at which Cook was driving was given by witnesses, the estimates varying from 20 miles to 50 miles an hour. Witnesses agreed that Mrs. Niehouse was dragged 70 feet before the machine was stopped. Cook, who was released on $5000 bond, did not testify.

Older Male Graduate Dies.

BALTIMORE, Dec. 3.—Capt. John Donnell Smith, 29 years old, distinguished botanist and oldest graduate of Yale University, died here yesterday at the home of his niece, Mrs. James W. Wilson, after an illness of two days with pneumonia. Capt. Smith was graduated from Yale in 1847, when he was 18 years old. He was descended from a pioneer American family and served in the Confederate army during the entire Civil War.

RABBI WHO RESIGNED GETS $24,000 BONUS

Committees Approve Merger of Three Congregations After
Dr. Louis Witt Quits.

In accepting the resignation of Dr. Louis Witt, Rabbi of Temple Shaare Emeth, Vandeventer avenue and Lindell boulevard, the congregation has voted him a bonus of two years' salary, amounting to $24,000, in recognition of his services.

His resignation, it was learned today, will become effective Feb. 1, when he will assume the pastorate of Temple B'Nai Yeshurun, Dayton, O. He came here from a temple in Little Rock, Ark., in 1912.

Meanwhile, committees representing Temple Shaare Emeth, Israel and B'Nai El, and their trustees, have approved the proposed merger of the congregations. To become effective, the scheme, involving a new $100,000 temple in the West End, must be ratified by the congregations. Temple Israel is without a pastor since the death of Rabbi Leon Harrison but serves with B'Nai El, and has been conducted by Rabbi Julian H. Miller of the latter.

ANTON SCHULER IS SWORN IN AS PUBLIC ADMINISTRATOR

Announces He Will Appoint Chas. H. Daves As His Attorney.

Anton Schuler was sworn in today as Public Administrator, furnishing a $200,000 surety bond as required by law. He succeeds Otto Hampe, having resigned as Sheriff last Friday in order to take the new office today.

Schuler announced he would appoint Charles H. Daves, Judge of the St. Louis Court of Appeals, as his attorney on Jan. 1, when Daves' resignation as Judge becomes effective. The attorney's fees are understood to run between $6000 and $10,000 a year.

ROBBER TALKED OUT OF HOLDUP AND INTO JAIL

Raymond Fishell Makes
Failure of Attempt to Rob Walgreen Drug Store at 6100 Easton Avenue.

ALLOWS MANAGER
WAIT ON CUSTOMERS

The Last of These Is a Policeman Who Scares Intruder Into Giving Up His Pistol.

"Cutie" Fishell, who has a weakness for listening to folks when he ought to be doing things, tried to hold up a Walgreen drug store at 6100 Easton avenue this morning. There was $1500 in the safe, but all "cutie" got was conversation, and a ride to the nearest police station in one of the new blue patrol wagons.

It was William J. Demmer, manager of the store, who started the conversation by rolling by talking "Cutie" into letting him wait on three customers while "Cutie" was trying to hold up the store. Then Detective Sergeant Tom Moran, with his hands over his head and staring into the barrel of "Cutie's" revolver, talked the holdup man out of the weapon.

After that it didn't take much persuasion to persuade Fishell to get into the shiny patrol wagon that one of Moran's detective assistants called when "Cutie" gave up his revolver.

At the Page boulevard police station Fishell who had $37 in his pocket told Moran he intended to use the money derived from the holdup to pay attorneys' fees in a case in which he is a defendant and on which he was to have appeared this morning in United States District Court. He is charged with interstate transportation of a stolen automobile.

Robber Protests in Vain
Fishell, whose first name is Raymond, strolled into the drug store a few minutes after it opened at 1:30 o'clock, and walking behind the prescription counter, put his revolver against Demmer's side and told him to "stick 'em up and open that safe."

Demmer had already unlocked the safe but he didn't intend to tell "Cutie" so he could help it. Just as Fishell gave the order, a customer entered the store, and Demmer began to temporize.

"I've got to wait on that man," he said. "Wait a minute."

"Cutie" waited while Demmer made a sale, and came back to the counter. The manager fumbled nervously at the safe combination while Fishell hoarsely urged him to "get a wiggle." Twice Demmer got up to wait on customers who came in, each time disregarding the robber's protest.

As the manager went back to his friend attempt to open the safe, Detective-Sergeant Moran walked into the store on a round of the vicinity in which the police had been on special lookout for a hold-up since Saturday night when three men with police records were seen in the neighborhood.

Talked Out of His Pistol
"Another customer," explained Demmer, as he hurried to the front of the store and stood in front of Moran. Fishell kept behind the counter and didn't see the detective as he asked: "Everything all right?"

Demmer inclined his head toward the back of the store.

"There's a stickup man in there," he whispered.

At this juncture Fishell looked around the corner of the counter, saw the visitor and came toward him with his revolver leveled. He had the drop on the detective, who slowly raised his hands.

"What's you trying to do, Fishell?" Moran demanded, with his hands up. "You're sunk. I know you and you know me. This place is surrounded and if you fire a shot you'll be killed before you get out. We've got you where we want you."

At first Fishell couldn't understand that a man whom he had at his revolver's muzzle, had him where he wanted him, but Moran talked fast and convincingly. Fishell's revolver began to droop indecisively, and at that moment Detective Edward Fabick of Moran's squad strolled into the store looking for his chief.

were confident it could not be fired. The slide was so deeply rusted as to be immovable.

The bullet which struck Miss Potosky had passed through the head, struck a window casement and fallen to the floor. It was of .32 caliber. The empty shell, near the pistol, was not corroded. Holenthal testified that he had kept the pistol concealed under a pair of trousers in a dresser drawer in his bedroom.

Put Poison in Beer
"I had to hide it on account of Pearl," Holenthal said. "She was continually threatening my life."

"When we were last together," he said, "I saw her last threat made. Inquired of her if she had drunk some beer. Returning to the shop, he said, Miss Potosky 'disputed about something' with her sister, Mrs. Hammel.

Mrs. Hammel, who also operates a beauty shop, testified this afternoon that she had urged her sister to pay more attention to business and that Miss Potosky had complained that Holenthal visited the shop too often.

"I reproved Pearl because she wasn't paying attention to her business," she said.

Mrs. Hammel, who also operates a beauty shop, testified this afternoon that she had urged her sister to pay more attention to business and that Miss Potosky had complained that Holenthal visited the shop too often.

Employees at the beauty shop told reporters that Mrs. Hammel was there at the time. Pearl said attention to business and told Holenthal, Miss Potosky was quoted as boasting several times that she had "tired of Holenthal" and intended to "give him a vacation."

She went during the discussion with her sister. Holenthal, in his inquest testimony, said the sisters' dispute "put Pearl in a bad mood."

"She called me every name she could think of," he continued. "I didn't say anything back."

"I took her to her mother's home because she wanted to put on a black dress and borrow some beads," he suggested. I buy her mother some fish and I did. On our way to De Soto, we stopped at Melville to eat."

Saw Signs of Struggle
Holenthal was followed on the witness stand by Constable Bryan, who told of going to the Holenthal apartment and finding Miss Potosky's body. The Constable said the apartment was in order and he saw no signs of a struggle.

Harry W. Hammel, a paper hanger, and husband of Miss Potosky's sister, testified that he, his wife and her sister often had visits.

Told of Beatings
Two weeks ago, Mrs. Hammel said, she also reproved her sister for neglecting her beauty shop, to which Miss Potosky replied that her eyes were so badly blackened she was ashamed to greet her customers. The conversation took place after her disagreement with Holenthal at De Soto.

"She told me that Holenthal had beaten her and that he frequently beat her," Mrs. Hammel testified. "I have often heard him say in his angry fits, 'I'm going to kill her some day,' referring to my sister."

Mrs. Hammel testified that her sister was "just a little girl in a skirt and middle" when she first met Holenthal, and charged that Holenthal took her to places where drinks were served, and gave her a ring.

"She always believed he would marry her," she added.

POLICEMAN FIRES AT TRUCK; MAN WOUNDED IN BACK

Patient in Serious Condition at City Hospital, Denies Fleeing From Officer or Fighting.

Patrolmen Kearns and Shay saw three men scuffling at Broadway and Gratiot street at 2:30 a. m. yesterday and attempted to arrest them. Two drove away on a truck. Kearns fired three shots at the truck.

An hour and a half later a man who said he was Fred Wuerz, 29 years old, 107 West Tremoulay street, applied at City Hospital for treatment of two bullet wounds in the back and foot. His condition is serious. He said he was shot as he was sitting on a truck at Broadway and Gratiot. He denied fighting with anyone or fleeing from police.

A truck with a bullet hole in the frame was seized at the home of Charles Ehrhart, 23, 402 Robert avenue, and Ehrhart was arrested. He denied that either he or the truck had been out.

her daily work with injuries of such nature.

The wound, he said, was slightly powder burned, contradicting the testimony of the coroner and deputies who had declared they could find no trace of burns.

To Test Rusty Pistol
William Batusa, Deputy Sheriff, testified that, in his opinion, the pistol found near Miss Potosky's body had not recently been fired, and pointed out that its slide was rusted fast, although it would have to give to eject a shell.

The pistol, bullet and shell found in the room have been brought to St. Louis for examination by police firearms experts who will be asked to determine whether the bullet was fired from the rusty automatic.

El Lewis, the De Soto night marshal, told the coroner's jury of meeting Miss Potosky on the street in front of Holenthal's apartment more than two weeks ago, after the fight in which she was struck by Holenthal.

"Both her eyes were blackened," she testified, "and she cried, and she said she wanted to get a warrant against Holenthal for beating her, but after we had looked for a Justice of the Peace for awhile, she changed her mind and asked me to go back with her while she got her coat and hat."

"She was pretty mad and she said: 'I'll kill him if he does that to you. You have a murder up there don't you surprised?'"

"But when I went back to Holenthal's place with her they made up. Holenthal told me at the time she had pushed her hand through a mirror and that she had hit him with a shoe."

GIRL, 13, IS KIDNAPED AND ATTACKED BY MAN

Found on Street by Policeman at 2:30 a. m. She Tells of Abuse.

A 13-year-old girl was found crying at Taylor avenue and Olive street at 2:30 o'clock this morning by a policeman, and reported she had just been out of a life insurance machine by a man who had attacked her.

The girl said she was walking near her home at 7 o'clock last night when a machine drove up and a man seized her, held his hand over her mouth, forced her into the car and drove away.

The man drove around town during the evening and early morning and attacked her several times, she said. He then drove to the vicinity of Taylor avenue and Olive street and put her out of the car, and she was chained at City Hospital, where physicians said she had been criminally attacked.

NEGATIVE REPORT ON POISON
IN BODY OF MEEKER'S SON
Father of Boy, 14, Now in Jail
Charged With Killing Him to Get Insurance.

Dr. R. B. H. Gradwohl, biological chemist, reported to the coroner today that a thorough analysis showed no trace of any poison in the body of Michael Meeker Jr., 11 years old, whose body was exhumed in Calvary cemetery recently.

The examination was made at the request of Prosecuting Attorney Mueller of St. Louis County, who is preparing his case against the boy's father, in jail at Clayton, charged with shooting his son July 4, 1927, to collect a $4500 life insurance.

Meeker's wife, stepmother of the boy, declared in affidavits that her husband told her he killed the boy before Michael Jr. died July 19, 1927, apparently of tetanus. Meeker insists his son was shot by robbers.

ARMED MAN HOLDS UP SHOP
AT 510 WASHINGTON AV.
An armed robber entered the Star Credit Clothing Co., on the second floor of a building at 510 Washington avenue, shortly after 8 o'clock this morning and took about $75 from the office safe, which was open.

He forced the owner, D. A. Finckel, an employe, to lie on the floor while he made his escape.

FATHER KILLED SELF, VERDICT
A verdict of suicide in the death of James M. McGuffey, 49 years old, returned by a coroner's jury today. Father and son were found in the gas-filled kitchen of McGuffey's home at 2621 Texas avenue Saturday night.

Red Holenthal at his De Soto apartment.

After performing an autopsy last night, Coroner Gibson sent the viscera to Dr. B. H. Gradwohl, St. Louis pathologist, for further examination and an official report.

Miss Potosky had conducted the Pearl Beauty Shoppe for six months, buying out her predecessor. Her relatives denied she had received the money for the shop from Holenthal. They said she had inherited the money from an uncle.

Holenthal, when in St. Louis, spent much of his time at the shop, sitting there for hours at a time, watching Pearl and her customers.

Miss Potosky formerly was Pearl Puczkowski, but changed her name. As a child she attended St. Hedwig's School at Compton and Pulaski street, and later took a "beauty college" course.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. Wednesday from an undertaking establishment at 2201 South Grand boulevard to St. Peter and Paul's cemetery.

In order to be with Holenthal Saturday night, Miss Potosky had declined an invitation to a dinner dance at the Coronado Hotel, extended by her sister, Mrs. Johnson.

In Miss Potosky's handbag, found in the bachelor's apartment, was a card reading: "In case of accident call St. Louis, Riverside 2334W." This is the telephone number of the Alaska avenue flat where she lived with her mother.

At Washington, Meeker was received by President Roosevelt, who expressed great interest in the undertaking and went with the pioneer alone to view his strange traveling outfit. After visiting Philadelphia and Cincinnati, Meeker shipped his cattle and wagon to St. Louis. From there he drove to Kansas City, Topeka and St. Joseph, tracing the branches of the old Oregon trail. The return to Oregon was by train, the aged pioneer reaching Portland June 6, 1908.

Born in Ohio
Ezra Meeker was born in Hamilton County, O., Dec. 29, 1820, and spent his early boyhood as an apprentice in printing offices at Indianapolis, Ind. At the age of 21 he was married and started, by ox team, with his wife, for Iowa, to obtain the farm which he had always coveted. A winter in Iowa of unusual severity induced the young pair to cast in their lot with the thousands who were pressing forward to California and the Northwest, the flood of plains travel reaching its height in the year 1842. The first baby of the Meekers was but 7 weeks old at the time the start was made. Portland, a straggling frontier town, was reached Oct. 1, 1842.

Meeker was the author of several books of pioneer life. His career in Oregon and Washington was notable for its many activities, ranging from participation in Indian wars to spending four years at London as agent of the hop-growers of the Northwest.

Spent 54 Years in West
At the age of 76 years and after an active career of 54 years in Oregon and Washington, Meeker formed the plan of duplicating as fully as possible the outfit with which he had crossed the plains in 1842 and proceeding therewith alone over the same route to its terminus at the Missouri River and thence on to New York and Washington. In February, 1906, he made actual start east.

Meeker's outfit consisted of a yoke of steers, selected with the greatest care, and a wagon made up of parts of three wagons which were used on the plains in the early days. With this he drove all the way to Washington, consuming 22 months on the way. As far as the Missouri River he traveled every mile of the Oregon trail and succeeded in interesting the residents of a large number of towns and villages in the erection of permanent markers. The journey to Washington was for the purpose of inducing Congress to make an appropriation to aid in the work.

At Washington, Meeker was re-

EZRA MEEKER, 97, OLD OREGON TRAIL BLAZER SUCCEUMBS

Dies in Seattle After Illness of Several Months—Too Weak for Removal to Hospital.

By the Associated Press.
SEATTLE, Wash., Dec. 3.—Ezra Meeker, 97 years old, one of the few survivors of the pioneers of the covered wagon era, died here this morning after an illness of several months.

Meeker clung tenaciously to life holding on by sheer will power after physicians and relatives had abandoned hope for his recovery. He had been at the point of death in a Detroit hospital for two months before, returning here eight weeks ago. He had grown gradually weaker and weaker.

Last Thursday he was reported to have shown great improvement, and hope was held momentarily by his doctors that he would live to reach his 98th birthday this month. He was in fine spirits over the week-end and his pulse and temperature were about normal. Late yesterday there was a turn for the worse and he sank rapidly.

A son, Marion J. Meeker, and three daughters, Mrs. Carrie Osborne and Mrs. Ella Templeton of Seattle, and Mrs. Frederick McDonald of Peshastin, Wash., survive him.

Crossed Country in Plane
Among the first few hundred men to cross the American continent by ox team and actually the last man to make the journey by that mode of travel, Meeker also was among the first passengers to cross the continent in an airplane. The last trip was made when he was nearly 84 years old.

The venerable pioneer's first exploit in crossing the continent by ox team came about through necessity and love of adventure. The second, more than half a century later, was undertaken in an effort to perpetuate the history of the early migrations and suitably mark the course of the once famous Oregon trail.

The airplane trip, made in October, 1924, was taken as a means of contrasting the first mode of travel across the country with the most modern way. Meeker thus attained the distinction of being the only person to make the journey by ox team and airplane.

Whereas Meeker's pilgrimages by ox team, particularly the first, were arduous, the second, on the occasion of his airplane trip 24 hours of actual flying brought him from Seattle to Washington. He arrived at the National Capital Oct. 6, 1924, having attended an aviation meet at Dayton, O., en route. He was piloted by Lieut. Oakley G. Kelley.

ceived by President Roosevelt, who expressed great interest in the undertaking and went with the pioneer alone to view his strange traveling outfit. After visiting Philadelphia and Cincinnati, Meeker shipped his cattle and wagon to St. Louis. From there he drove to Kansas City, Topeka and St. Joseph, tracing the branches of the old Oregon trail. The return to Oregon was by train, the aged pioneer reaching Portland June 6, 1908.

Born in Ohio
Ezra Meeker was born in Hamilton County, O., Dec. 29, 1820, and spent his early boyhood as an apprentice in printing offices at Indianapolis, Ind. At the age of 21 he was married and started, by ox team, with his wife, for Iowa, to obtain the farm which he had always coveted. A winter in Iowa of unusual severity induced the young pair to cast in their lot with the thousands who were pressing forward to California and the Northwest, the flood of plains travel reaching its height in the year 1842. The first baby of the Meekers was but 7 weeks old at the time the start was made. Portland, a straggling frontier town, was reached Oct. 1, 1842.

Meeker was the author of several books of pioneer life. His career in Oregon and Washington was notable for its many activities, ranging from participation in Indian wars to spending four years at London as agent of the hop-growers of the Northwest.

Spent 54 Years in West
At the age of 76 years and after an active career of 54 years in Oregon and Washington, Meeker formed the plan of duplicating as fully as possible the outfit with which he had crossed the plains in 1842 and proceeding therewith alone over the same route to its terminus at the Missouri River and thence on to New York and Washington. In February, 1906, he made actual start east.

JEWISH CAMPAIGN FOR $500,000 ON $125,000 PLEDGED

Federation Is Making Canvass to Get Funds for 26 Institutions, Local and National.

33 TEAMS SEEKING
6000 CONTRIBUTORS

Money Promised to Charities May Be Paid in Quarterly Installments—Solicitation to Last Week.

With over one-fourth of its objective subscribed as the result of pre-campaign pledges, the campaign to raise $500,000 for the Jewish Federation of St. Louis got under way last night at a dinner at the Columbian Club. Mark C. Steinberg, chairman of the campaign, announced that more than $125,000 had been pledged.

"Our purpose in this canvass is two-fold," Steinberg told the 400 workers, "first, to persuade those who are already contributors to the Federation to give, annually, from 50 to 100 per cent more than they have been giving in the past, and, second, to add new names to the honor roll of the Federation."

"There are 4000 contributors to the Federation at the present time. This campaign will not have been the success I am hoping it will be unless, at the end, at least 1500 and possibly 2000 new names have been added to its roster."

Circuit Judge Harry Fisher of Chicago was a guest speaker. He praised the work of the Federation which supports, in whole or part, 26 institutions, local and national. The campaign is expected to end next Sunday. It will be carried on by 33 teams. The women's division, comprising 19 teams is headed by Mrs. Charles M. Rice and Mrs. Alvin L. Bauman; the men's division of 14 teams by Ed Platt, David Eisenman and Frank Dubinsky.

To Canvass 1200 Prospects. Workers will canvass 1200 prospects whose names have been listed during the last few weeks at campaign headquarters, 804 Equitable Building. A first report luncheon will be held at Hotel Statler at noon tomorrow. Former Judge O'Neill Ryan will speak. The institutions which will benefit during 1929 from the fund collected this week are: The Jewish Hospital, the Jewish Sanatorium, the Miriam Convalescent and Rose Dry Homes, the Jewish Community Center, the Jewish Orphans' Home, the Dorothy Drey Sommers Shelter Home, the Welfare Bureau for Jewish Children, the Jewish Orthodox Old Folks' Home, the Home for Aged and Infirm Israelites, the Gertrude Boys' Home, the Associated Hebrew Schools, the Jewish Loan Association and the Young Men's Hebrew Association, the Bureau of Social Research, New York, the National Conference of Jewish Social Service, New York, the Cleveland Orphans' Home, Cleveland, O., the Training School for Jewish Social Service, New York, the Jewish Welfare Board, New York, the National Desertion Bureau, New York, the Leo N. Levi Memorial Hospital, Hot Springs, Ark., and the National Jewish Farm School, Bucks County, Pa.

Subscriptions pledged in the current campaign may be paid in full or in quarterly installments. The committee has announced that all present contributors who are not reached by personal solicitation will be carried on the books of the Federation as annual contributors for the amount they gave last year.

Campaign Subscriptions. Pre-campaign subscriptions of $1000 or more, announced last night, follow:
$20,000—Aaron Waldheim.
$12,500—Sidney Schoenberg.
$7500—Charles M. Rice, Sigmond Baer, Aaron Fuller, Julius Baer.

SUNDAY HUNTERS ARRESTED
Four From Kansas City Released After Depositing Money and Weapons.

By the Associated Press. PITTSVILLE, Mo., Dec. 3.—A Missouri blue law, which forbids Sunday hunting, was enforced here yesterday, when four youths were arrested in Johnson County. They were John White, Orville Moran, Paul Solscheld and Joe Solscheld, all of Kansas City, Mo. They were released after depositing $5 and their four weapons. The youths were hunting on the 400-acre farm of Mrs. William Rokey, whom they were visiting near Pittsville. Numerous other arrests of Sunday hunters have been made in this vicinity recently.

ARCHBISHOP ASSAILS WASTE IN GAMBLING

Does Not Condemn Taking Chance as Immoral, but Warns Against Its Result.

Disapproval of gambling, not as an immoral act, but as a waste of time and money, was expressed by Archbishop Glennon in a sermon at St. Louis Cathedral yesterday in which he discussed horse races, dog races, stock speculation and other means of risking money.

"The Catholic theology does not condemn or commend the act of gambling," he declared. "It is what we might call an 'indifferent' act. But, because of the evils that result, the church practically and constantly dissuades people from the gambling habit. All gamblers are not criminals, but pretty nearly all criminals are gamblers."

"Gambling is as old as the human race. The older the civilization the more addicted it appears to be to gambling. And new means of gambling are being devised every day."

"That is particularly condemnable in gambling in the loss of money or property which is yours only in trust. The father risks his weekly wages on a horse or a dog or some other animal, while his wife is waiting for that money and his children expecting it, so they may eat. But the money is gone. There gambling becomes criminal. Oftentimes crimes against property and human life are the last resort of the gambler who needs money for the table of the gaming resort. The man with the gambling habit cannot be put in an asylum. He walks the streets until he drifts into the penitentiary or becomes an object of pity."

"A form of gambling that is sweeping the country is that in stocks. To invest in stock representing value is perfectly legitimate, but speculation has the gambling intent."

CONGRESSMAN TO INTRODUCE 13-MONTH YEAR RESOLUTION

Chairman Porter of House Committee to Propose International Conference.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2.—A thirteenth month would be added to the calendar under a resolution which Chairman Porter of the House Foreign Affairs Committee has drafted for introduction in the House. Porter said the resolution would propose the calling by the President of an international conference to take up the question. If his plan should carry through, the first 13-month year would be 1932.

The chairman said a number of other nations were anxious for such a change and he proposed to press for action in this session on his resolution because of the strong movement headed by George Eastman in this country for the simplified calendar.

Porter contends the 13-month year would eliminate inequality in divisions of the year, want of fixity and disadvantages both from a civil and religious point of view. Under the new calendar, all the months would have the same number of work days, Saturdays and Sundays, and each month the same number of whole weeks. Dates for Eastern and other religious celebrations would be permanently fixed.

ITALIAN PRESS TIRADES EVOKE BITTER RETORTS IN FRANCE

Paris Editor Blames Mussolini for Outbursts Over Assassins' Light Sentence.

Copyright, 1923, by the Press and Publishing Co., Inc., New York World and Post-Dispatch.

PARIS, Dec. 2.—Anti-French manifestations in Italy following the light sentence imposed by the Paris courts upon Serge di Modugno, Italian communist, who assassinated Vice Consul Count Carlo Nardini, in 1927, have evoked bitter retorts in France.

Petit Parisien, Le Journal and Le Matin print the Fascist newspaper outbursts without comment, but Le Quotidien says the jury gave Di Modugno only two years' imprisonment because he was a victim of Fascism. It cites violent tirades, such as that the Popolo di Roma printed, saying the verdict was one of hate, "which asks for hate in return," and comments that this newspaper is under control of Mussolini's brother. It draws attention to the Italian newspaper's remark that "the hour of vengeance and revenge will sound."

Le Quotidien's editor, Pierre Bertrand, writes: "It is evident that all this passionate indignation has been ordered, and in reality Mussolini has seized the first pretext to poison French-Italian relations. But we are not his dupes. We don't consider his comic imperialism as a faithful expression of national wishes. . . . Between the Italian people and ourselves there is no conflict. The only conflict is between Mussolini and universal conscience."

The Story of a Business and a Profession

It is hard to tell the story of a service which all must eventually use but which no one is willing to discuss.

It's just a question then of ignoring the story now and being troubled later or investigating and planning now and being prepared later.

Even slight investigation will disclose the fact that the Funeral Service Bureau of America emblem stands for that assurance in selection that everyone seeks when the inevitable end occurs.

This Bureau has already set up the same high standards that the public itself would set up if it were to investigate and determine funeral service values.

MOTORMAN KILLED BY AUTO; THREE DIE OF INJURIES

Russell W. Brockman Run Down When Crossing Hodiament Avenue South of Plymouth.

Russell W. Brockman, 59 years old, a street car motorman, was killed at 6:45 o'clock last night when he was struck by an automobile driven by Webe H. Naunheim of 3301 Waterman avenue, while crossing Hodiament avenue 50 feet south of Plymouth avenue.

Brockman, who lived at 6223 Julian avenue, was taken to St. Luke's Hospital, where he was pronounced dead. He sustained a fractured skull and leg. Naunheim told police Brockman walked into the side of his machine.

A coroner's verdict of accident was returned in the death of Brockman following an inquest today.

Fred Heninger, 55, 219 South Second street, died at city hospital early today of a fractured skull and internal injuries, suffered on Nov. 7, when he was struck by an automobile driven by Orman McCawley, a real estate dealer, 5558A Page boulevard, at Theresa avenue and Olive street.

Miss Estelle Murray, 50 years old, 5618 Clemens avenue, died at St. Luke's Hospital yesterday of pneumonia resulting from injuries suffered Nov. 15, when she was struck by an automobile driven by Louis Calcaterra, 5146 Pattison avenue, while crossing Union boulevard, near Enright avenue.

Miss Murray, a stenographer, suffered internal injuries, a fractured collar bone and lacerations. An open verdict was returned by the coroner in the death of Miss Murray, as police were unable to find any witnesses who saw her struck.

Second Victim of Crash Dies. Isadore Dubois, 28 years old, a salesman, of Westville, Mo., died at St. Luke's Hospital Saturday night of a fractured skull suffered Nov. 21 when an automobile in which he was a passenger was crushed between two street cars on the Delmar viaduct.

Norman A. Green, 24 years old, a photographer, of Hannibal, Mo., driver of the car, was killed in the crash, and Hubert A. Davis of Brooklyn, N. Y., was seriously hurt.

The deaths bring the number of motor vehicle fatalities in St. Louis since Jan. 1 to 188, as compared with 126 at the same time last year.

John Diehl, an electrician, 2709 Cass avenue, suffered a fractured skull and contusions at 7:30 p. m. yesterday when he drove his automobile down a 50-foot embankment at the foot of Myerme street.

Mrs. Edna Dorris, 1908 Hubert street, suffered a probable fracture of the skull last night when she was struck by an automobile, the driver of which failed to stop, at Fifteenth and Wright streets.

Injured Man Left in Street. Frank Kozietek, 4708 Wren avenue, was struck by a machine while standing in a safety zone at Union boulevard and Wabada avenue early today and left lying in the street as the driver increased speed and escaped. Kozietek was picked up by the crew of a street car and taken home, where it was found both legs had been injured.

TAXICAB DRIVER BEATS PASSENGER; BOTH ARRESTED. Chauffeur Says Man Refused to Pay His Fare and Tried to Get Away.

Gil Blankenship, Black and White taxicab driver, pulled up to the Page Boulevard Police Station early yesterday and turned a badly beaten passenger over to the desk sergeant.

The passenger, who said he was Arthur Lee, 27 years old, 4100A North Grand boulevard, was treated at City Hospital for a lacerated scalp, fractured finger, alcoholism and closed eye. He was charged with refusing to pay his taxi fare, $2.45.

Blankenship, who said he was 23 and gave his address as 1911 North Grand boulevard, also was locked up and charged with assault to kill.

"That fellow hailed me at Grand and Olive and I rode him about town," Blankenship explained. "Finally, in the 5500 block of Marquette avenue, he tells me he hasn't got any money, but he says his mother lives there and he'll get the money from her."

"He goes in the hall way, and doesn't come out. The house is dark and I figure something is wrong. I take an ax handle out of my tool box and investigate. I find him hiding in the back yard, ready to lamb it down the alley. I give him the ax handle a couple of times and then take him to the station."

LADY HEATH FAILS IN FLIGHT. NEW YORK, Dec. 3.—Clad in four flying suits and a coat and cap of the skin of a leopard which she said she shot herself, Lady Heath, British aviator, failed yesterday to better her own unofficial altitude—24,300 feet—record for women, being forced to descend after reaching a height of barely 15,000 feet.

She took off at Curtiss Field, L. I., in her De Havilland Gypsy Moth at 9:08 o'clock yesterday morning and came down again at 10:48. Lady Heath laid her failure to the fact that the extreme cold made the motor miss.

DIES AT 84

THEODORE SHELTON, HAT MERCHANT, DIES

Retired Six Years Ago—Funeral in Sedalia, Mo., Tomorrow.

Theodore Shelton, a wholesale hat merchant here for 55 years, until his retirement, six years ago, died yesterday at St. Luke's Hospital following an operation Saturday for a bladder ailment. He was 84 years old and had been ill for a month.

Mr. Shelton was vice president of the White-Branch-Shelton Hat Co. at the time it merged with the Langenberg Hat Co. in 1922. In recent years he spent much of his time at his country home, "Grasslands," near Sedalia, Mo., although he maintained his residence at 4467 Lindell boulevard.

Funeral services will be held at Sedalia tomorrow afternoon, with interment in the family plot where his wife was buried in 1926.

Mr. Shelton was born in Sheltonville, Ga., named after his father, Z. B. Shelton. He was educated in Georgia and in Bonville, Mo. In 1868 he was married to Miss Jane Gentry, daughter of Maj. William Gentry. Beginning his business career as a clerk with Cloney, Crawford & Co., Sedalia, he came to St. Louis in 1886, entering the employ of Henderson, Ridgely & Co., a wholesale dry goods firm. The next year he became connected with Gauss-Iron-Stock & Co., a wholesale hat company.

In 1874 he became a partner and the firm name was changed to the Gauss-Shelton Hat Co. In 1901 he sold his interest in this company and became vice president of the White-Branch-Shelton Hat Co.

From early manhood Mr. Shelton was interested in thoroughbred horses. At the time of his death he owned a good-sized herd of cattle and horses at his country place.

He is survived by two sons, Richard T. Shelton, 4532 Westminster place, president of the Richard T. Shelton Co., hat importers, and William G. Shelton, head of an electrical manufacturing company, and one sister, Mrs. M. L. Robbins of Houston, Tex.

WOMAN, 50, WEDS FORMER SUNDAY SCHOOL PUPIL, 21

Bridegroom's Parents Against Marriage to Widow. Once Assistant Pastor in Lynn, Mass.

BOSTON, Dec. 3.—A 50-year-old bride, formerly assistant pastor of First Christian Church in Lynn, Mass., and her 21-year-old husband and former Sunday school pupil, were on a honeymoon today. Leonard Clarke Wade of Swampscott and Mrs. Theresa Eliza Deane made no comment on criticism of their marriage.

"There is nothing we care to say," the bride said as their train left. Her husband, looking more like her son, said to reporters: "Yes, you are dismissed."

In Swampscott, Wade's parents were endeavoring to find some grounds for annulment, but without much success since both principals had complied with legal formalities. The marriage was performed late Saturday night at West Newbury by the Rev. Glen Morse, who occasioned momentary confusion by failing to identify Wade as the bridegroom and by addressing his opening remarks to the comparatively elderly best man, Samuel D. Twombly of Salem. Twombly's wife attended the bride.

Mrs. Wade, a widow, with two adult children, first met young Wade when he entered her Sunday school class at the age of 14. Wade became 21 years old a week before his marriage.

NEW CATHEDRAL FOR CHICAGO

CHICAGO, Dec. 3.—Plans for a cathedral to rival in beauty any of the famous ones of Europe were outlined yesterday by Bishop Charles P. Anderson at the dedication of St. James Church as the cathedral church of the Episcopal Diocese of Chicago.

The cathedral, Bishop Anderson said, would be erected at a cost of several millions of dollars on the present site of St. James Church.

COOLIDGE BACK IN CAPITAL FROM THANKSGIVING VISIT

President and Wife Stop Off at Staunton, Va., to Attend Church.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3.—President and Mrs. Coolidge returned to Washington last night from their Thanksgiving visit at the Swannanoa Country Club near Waynesboro, Va.

The trip from Waynesboro was uneventful. A single stop was made at Charlottesville, where the President attended church on Thanksgiving day. A good-sized crowd had gathered at the station for a glimpse of the chief executive but he did not appear. Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge dined on their special train.

Yesterday the Coolidges attended church services in the First Presbyterian Church of Staunton, where Woodrow Wilson's father once was the pastor and heard a sermon on the necessity of humility preached by the Rev. Thornton Whaling of Louisville, Ky.

Mr. Coolidge seemed to have profited physically by the rest and outdoor recreation afforded by his brief sojourn in the Blue Ridge mountains.

FEDERAL POWER REPORT REFUTES UTILITY CLAIMS

Gas and Electric Interests Argued That Interstate Transfer of Electricity Was Negligible.

Post-Dispatch Bureau. WASHINGTON, Dec. 2.—In calling the attention of Congress to the need for governmental regulation of interstate transfers of electrical energy the Federal Power Commission in its annual report, made public yesterday, refuted arguments of the gas and electric power interests to the effect that such transfers were a negligible part of the industry's operations.

"The cases of interstate energy transfers to which the Federal water power act apply are, of course, only a very small part of all those which exist," the report said. "Such transfers are, however, becoming increasingly more numerous, and their importance is not to be determined merely by percentage relations for the United States as a whole any more than the fact that a certain utility company may be selling its output at an average of 1.5 cents a kilowatt hour means that its entire rate structure must therefore be satisfactory and that there is no need to have its operations subject to public regulation."

Attorneys who appeared before the Senate committee last winter in opposition to the Walsh resolution for investigation of the power industries made much of the findings of the Harvard University Bureau of Business Research that in 1925 the power sent across state lines was only 9 per cent of the total generated.

"Specific states show very different proportions," the commission's report said. "For example: the percentage of generated power exported from Alabama is 25 per cent, from Georgia 38 per cent, from West Virginia 43 per cent, from Iowa 48 per cent, from Idaho 63 per cent and from Vermont 94 per cent."

The percentage of power imported to power generated within the states is 29 per cent in North Carolina, 37 per cent in Arkansas, 58 per cent in Rhode Island, 40 per cent in Kentucky, 75 per cent in Maryland, 98 per cent in Mississippi, 116 per cent in Missouri, 121 per cent in Utah and 126 per cent in Nevada.

The report stated that under the decision of the United States Supreme Court in the Attleboro Steam and Electric Co. case state commissions could exercise no regulation of interstate transfers of power if the power was delivered wholesale, but that under the decision of the court in the Pennsylvania Gas Co. case state commissions were allowed "indirect" regulation of retail interstate transfers until Congress decreed otherwise.

"Since under the decisions of the Supreme Court," the report said, "the states may not confer upon their commissions authority to enforce requirements over wholesale interstate transactions in electric energy, and since they could not make valid joint agreements about matters over which they had no individual authority, the Federal Power Commission appears to have exclusive jurisdiction over such wholesale transactions of its licensees. But where, on the other hand, regulation has to do with local services or with rates for energy brought into the state by a licensee who sells and delivers it there, the Federal Power Commission has jurisdiction only where there is no state commission or where the state commission has no authority over the particular matter which requires regulation."

No Complaint Yet Filed. As yet the commission has not directly exercised its jurisdiction over rates charged by licensees, although the Federal water power act states that the commission shall exercise its authority "upon complaint of any person aggrieved" or "upon the request of any state concerned."

"No complaint of any person has yet been filed," the report said, "but in the Conowingo case, where the commission co-operated with the states of Maryland and Pennsylvania, the character and the amount of securities issued were determined by the committee with the concurrence of the two state commissions, and the price at which the power was to be sold at the state line was indirectly fixed in certain inter-company contracts which were concurrently approved by the three commissions."

The commission reports that no state commissions for the regulation of the operations of electric power corporations have been provided in Delaware, Florida, Kentucky, Minnesota, Mississippi, South Dakota or Texas; that only a limited jurisdiction over such corporations has been given to state commissions of Arkansas, Iowa, Louisiana, Nebraska and New Mexico, and that only one-half the states have given their commissions control over the security issues of such corporations.

Wherever possible, states should be given the regulation of power operations, the report concluded. On this point the commission said: "While the ultimate authority to regulate interstate commerce in electric energy is in all cases in the Federal Government, and in the case of wholesale transfers exclusively in the Federal Government, nevertheless to attempt complete exercise of regulation in hundreds of isolated cases scattered all over the United States, through the medium of a commission located in Washington, would almost necessarily involve complications, large expense and long delays.

"On the other hand, to confer complete authority on the states would be likely to result in inter-state conflicts or deadlocks or inaction. While the commission has no definite recommendation to make at this time, it has been suggested that this dilemma might be avoided by adopting a procedure similar to that provided in the Federal water power act—that is, by conferring upon the states plenary jurisdiction to act individually in cases of the Pennsylvania Gas Co. class, and original jurisdiction to act jointly in cases of the Attleboro class, and by conferring upon some Federal agency jurisdiction to review on appeal the findings of state agencies in the latter class of cases.

"State agencies, more familiar with local conditions than any Federal agency is likely to be, could hold hearings, take testimony, assemble evidence and determine the issues. The Federal agency having only appellate jurisdiction would render its decisions upon the record presented without the necessity of taking new testimony or admitting new evidence.

"A procedure of this character would leave the final authority in cases involving more than one state where it properly belongs, in the hands of the Federal Government; would give to individual states the right to settle their own local problems; would give to two or more states the opportunity of adjusting their own differences; and would avoid the necessity of overloading Federal agencies with details or with matters that the states had better decide for themselves.

"The adoption of any such procedure would, of course, require new Federal legislation, scarcely to be justified unless it is to be applied to interstate energy transfers in general, for the number of cases likely to arise under the Federal water power act alone do not appear sufficient to warrant changing the procedure already prescribed by that act."

20 INJURED IN OREGON EXPRESS TRAIN WRECK

Flyer Traveling 35 Miles an Hour Jumps Track Near Roseburg.

By the Associated Press.

ROSEBURG, Ore., Dec. 2.—About 20 passengers were injured yesterday in the derailment of the Southern Pacific train Shasta Limited, seven miles north of here.

Two passenger coaches, a mail car and a baggage car, plunged down a six-foot embankment and rolled over into a field. The locomotive remained on the track. The train was bound for San Francisco from Portland, Ore.

The train was traveling between 35 and 40 miles an hour when Engineer P. E. Prettyman of Portland felt the tire give way and he applied the brakes. The baggage car jumped off the rails and the others followed.

A group of vaudeville players and volunteers from among the other passengers, led by Dr. Malcolm T. McEachern of Chicago administered first aid. Ambulances brought the more seriously injured to Roseburg. None of the injured was thought to have been fatally hurt.

Mrs. R. N. Jackson of San Point, Ida., who suffered a broken collar bone and scalp injuries was the only one to remain in the hospital today.

After the Candles Have Burned Out...

The many little gifts of sentiment, that bespeak friendships and happy associations, are vital to the spirit of Christmas.

But after the candles have burned out, after ordinary gifts have been laid aside, then the Maytag will more and more reveal itself as the outstanding gift—practical, helpful, a joy for years to come.

Plan together for this practical gift—the Maytag. Let it be the crowning, lasting remembrance of the yuletide.

The Maytag seamless, non-breakable, cast-aluminum tub and the gyrafoam action revolutionized washing speed and thoroughness. An average washing takes about an hour, and even the stubborn edge-dirt of collars and cuffs is removed without hand-rubbing. The sediment trap in the cone-shaped bottom of the tub, collects the loosened dirt and keeps the water clean.

The new-type Roller Water Remover has a deep, flexible top roll and a hard bottom roll. It wrings everything evenly dry and spares buttons, snaps and ornaments. It is the last word in safe, handy, careful and efficient wringing.

Precision-cut steel gears make the Maytag quiet and smooth running. Perfection of material and workmanship are assured by 544 factory inspections given each washer.

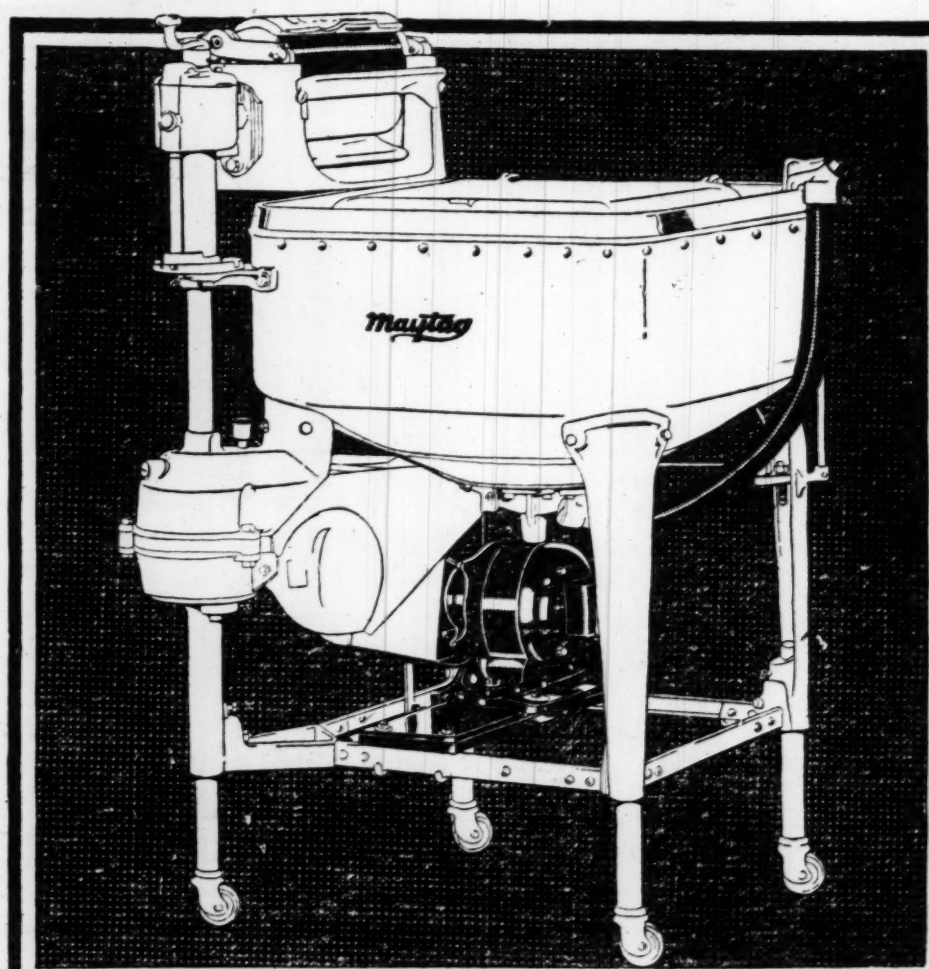

These and many other Maytag qualities give it lasting value, make it the perfect gift.

News for Men—An Important Tuesday Featuring of Winter Suits & Overcoats 2 for $29

One of the Most Popular Offerings in the Basement Economy Store

Furnishings and accessories for men in timely offerings! Several items for boys, too. Women will do well to shop with gift needs in mind!

Men's White Shirts

1800 of Them—In a Lustrous Quality of Broadcloth, at $1.29

Shirts of white broadcloth are preferred by men—here is an opportunity to choose them from unusually complete assortments. Neckband or collar-attached styles—each in an attractive gift box. Sizes 14 to 17.

Men's $2.50 to $2.95 Mufflers
Offered at $1.95

Of pure silk—or silk and rayon. In many varied patterns. Each in a gift box.

Boys' Good Blouses
"Model Make" Blouses, so popular with mothers who want to dress their boys well for little. 77c
Sizes 6 to 14.

Special Offer! Men's Gloves Seconds at 79c

Leather and fabric Gloves for dress, work or driving. Lined and unlined styles. Plain and stitched backs.

Boys' Good Shirts
"Model Make" Shirts, for the boy of 6 to 18. Cut full, and carefully sewn. 95c Large variety.

More and more men, of all ages and builds, are taking advantage of this special offer! And it is easy to understand why—they may choose TWO new Winter Suits, or TWO new Overcoats—or a suit AND an Overcoat—and pay just $29. Well-cut, well-tailored new Suits in richly patterned fabrics—big, burly double-breasted Overcoats in thru-and-thru and plaid back patterns.

Maybitt Suits, Topcoats and Overcoats

Extreme Value at $21.50

Fabrics are all-wool—styles invariably correct—tailoring careful and thorough! Certainly a clothing group that any man who wears sizes 33 to 50 should inspect Tuesday.

Men's Trousers
In Sizes 32 to 42 $2.95

ON BOARD THE BARK CITY OF NEW YORK AT SEA, Dec. 2.

The bark City of New York and the steamship Eleanor Bolling are sailing along toward Ross Sea, and the Bay of Whales tonight in latitude 48.35 south, longitude 170.55 east.

ON BOARD THE BARK CITY OF NEW YORK, AT SEA, Sunday, Dec. 2 (By Wire).—Both ships of the Byrd expedition left Dunedin for the Antarctic this morning at 6 o'clock and had a perfect day at sea, with no wind, but heavy swells from the gale of yesterday. Consequently, the Eleanor Bolling is towing the City of New York as far as the ice, or until the wind makes better speed possible under sail.

Under a warm sun and smiling sky, a good omen for the trip, the crew has been busy all day stowing dogs and stores and making ready for heavy weather. We are Jane, the aviator, says we are a going use to dogs, and Harold, bowing success.

Expedition Starting Most Difficult Voyage in World.

NEW YORK, Dec. 2. — Nearly 2000 miles of ocean lie between Commander Richard E. Byrd and his immediate objective, the Ross Sea ice barrier of the Antarctic continent.

As the City of New York and the freighter Eleanor Bolling cast off from Dunedin Wharf, and pointed southward, they faced a voyage that is among the most difficult on the globe.

For a few hundred miles they should have comparatively easy sailing toward the glaciated South Polar continent, which now is enjoying its poor apology for summer. But sooner or later the expedition ships will bump into the ice pack, that shifting blanket which shrouds the sea for vast distances off the shores of Antarctica.

The ice, more or less broken up at this time of the year, is itself a formidable obstacle in the path of the expedition, but the ships of other explorers, among them Amundsen and Scott, have plowed through it and beyond and these men think they can find a way, too.

In the Antarctic Ocean are the world's largest bergs—ponderous blocks of ice that break off from the ice cliffs, which mark the continental terminal of Antarctic glaciers. In general, these South Polar bergs do not assume the fantastic, spired shape of their Arctic relatives; rather, they take the forms of huge tables—long, broad and flat topped. They are truly tremendous in size. The largest on record had an estimated length of five miles, and their numbers, too, are impressive, one observer having reported that 200 were in his view at once.

Although these bergs rarely drift into the part of the Southern ocean most frequently traveled by steamers, they do move slowly and majestically through the Antarctic ice pack and become another problem for the navigator of those waters. The pack itself, driven off the shores of the continent by gales, eventually meets the winds that sweep down from the middle latitudes and becomes tightly wedged.

However, during the Antarctic summer—it would not be recognized as summer by Americans, so persistently frigid is this part of the world—the action of the ocean currents, moving the pack slowly westward, tends to develop weak places in the ice, and these are the points of vantage the perennial whalers and the occasional explorers seek. Although the location of such vulnerable spots is apt to change from season to season, their general whereabouts is known; and Byrd

Mrs. Willebrandt Reports 75 Pct. Gain in Volume of Liquor Smuggled Across Canadian Border Into U. S.

Large Increase Since 1925 Shown by Customs Figures of Dominion, She Says—Rate Now $2,000,000 Worth a Month.

Post-Dispatch Bureau, 201-205 Kellogg Building.
WASHINGTON, Dec. 2.—A steady increase in the volume of liquor flowing into the United States directly from Canada is noted by Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt, assistant Attorney-General in charge of prohibition cases, in her annual report, made public today.

Mrs. Willebrandt says frankly that the problem of checking the liquor traffic across the Canadian boundary remains unsolved, though she thinks that some progress has been made toward reducing the traffic from the high seas.

"It is possible," she says, "to gauge the volume of liquor smuggled across our Northern boundary a little more accurately than that occurring in other places because a substantial amount of the liquor passes through Canadian customs and official record is made thereof. In practice, the liquor runner clears his cargo regularly through the Canadian customs before proceeding to evade the United States customs in making delivery."

Says Traffic Is Immense.
"No one would contend that all of the liquor which is smuggled across the Canadian boundary passes regularly through the Canadian customs. The volume is probably much greater than those records will show. However, available data taken from statistical bulletins issued by the Department of Trade and Commerce of Canada indicates that this traffic is immense in its proportions and is increasing."

The report then gives figures from Canadian official records showing a progressive increase in whisky exports to the United States since 1925. For the year ending June 30, 1927, the amount was 1,053,213 gallons, of a Canadian value of $17,171,484, and for the following 12 months it was 1,169,002 gallons, valued at $18,882,541.

"The figures thus given," Mrs. Willebrandt continues, "cover the exportation of whisky only, and the same records show that the total value of all alcoholic beverages exported in the United States from Canada during the year ending June 30, 1928, amounted to $29,918."

"As observed heretofore, these records show only the liquor which was regularly cleared through Canadian customs. Some of it may be short-circuited for consumption in Canada. On the other hand, it is believed a substantial amount of liquor enters the United States across the northern boundary of which year Canadian customs has no record."

75 Per Cent Gain in Three Years.
"Based on the figures supplied by the Canadian Department of skippers will be seeking one of them.

On the voyage South, the scientists of the expedition plan to gather data on such subjects as the salinity, depth and temperature of the water, the nature of the ocean bottom, the structure of the pack ice, and the direction of currents and ice movement. They will have plenty of time for their studies, for the ships will require several weeks for the plodding trip between New Zealand and the Ross Sea.

Arriving at the ice barrier—a great glacier of ice that chokes the coastal indentation for a distance of perhaps 400 miles—Commander Byrd and his men will face the problem of landing their airplanes and supplies as well as themselves, on the ice. The barrier terminates in a sheer cliff, in places very high, but the commander has in mind a landing at a spot not so difficult. When the New York has planned to make his Antarctic base near the Bay of Whales, where Amundsen established headquarters for his famous dash to the pole. There the barrier's end is only a few feet high, but it will nevertheless be an exacting task to debark the precious stores and equipment.

Once on the barrier, the party will set up the portable town which will be its base of operations for at least a year and a half, and will hurry to take advantage of what is left of the short South Polar summer for some flying. December and January probably are the best months for flying in the sector to be visited by Byrd, since the winds there are comparatively amiable.

It's a long time since the American flag has flown from a ship, if adventure, is planned to make his purpose of exploration. Not in nearly 90 years has a band of Americans, seeking to extend scientific and geographical knowledge, made for the land of the South Pole.

In December, 1939, Capt. Charles Wilkes, United States Navy, sailed from Sydney, N. S. W., into the Antarctic Ocean on a voyage of discovery. On Jan. 9, 1840, he sighted for the first time the land now known as the Antarctic continent. Since then, South Polar exploration has been carried on by Australian, British, Swedish, French and other scientists of European nationality.

HOOVER DEPARTS FOR PERU AFTER VISIT IN ECUADOR

President-Elect Plans to Land Wednesday at Callao and Will Motor to Lima, the Capital.

PERUVIAN FLAGSHIP ACTS AS CONVOY

U. S. S. Maryland to Call at Antofagasta, Chile to Receive Delegation of Bolivian Officials.

By the Associated Press.

ABOARD THE U. S. S. MARYLAND, EN ROUTE TO CALLAO, Peru, Dec. 2.—Conveyed by the flagship of the Peruvian navy, the Almirante Grau, this battleship speeded southward today through smooth seas for Callao, where President-elect Hoover will make the second call of his South American good will tour on Wednesday.

Upon arrival at 9 a. m., Hoover will be greeted on the Maryland by the Peruvian Foreign Minister, personally representing President Leguia. He will be welcomed on landing by the Mayor of Callao, who will extend to him the freedom of the city. After this ceremony, the President-elect and members of his party will motor 10 miles to Lima, the capital, and go directly to the American Embassy, where greetings will be exchanged with members of the American colony. A rest will intervene before the party goes to the presidential palace to meet Leguia.

After the exchange of felicitations and expressions of esteem between the people of the United States and Peru, Hoover and Leguia will return to the city. In the afternoon, Hoover will receive the Mayor of Lima and other municipal officials at the embassy, and afterwards will take an automobile ride to inspect the city.

Returning to the embassy, Hoover will receive members of the American Society of Engineers' Club and then host before going to the presidential palace for dinner as guest of the Peruvian executive. After dinner there will be a reception and dance for the Hoovers before they continue their voyage southward.

Greetings From President Ayora.
The President-elect was accompanied on the 70-mile ride on the cruiser Cleveland from the Chilean harbor to the Maryland by President Ayora, who through newspaper men sent greetings to the American people. He said he was pleased because of Hoover's visit, declaring it would create better feeling and improve relations between the United States and South America.

After reviewing financial, sanitary and other reforms which his government had accomplished, Ayora asserted that Ecuador maintained friendly relations with all countries.

"There are some boundary disputes," he said, "My Government favors early and friendly settlement of these on the basis of justice with equality and wants to deal with them through direct negotiations with the governments concerned."

The principal boundary dispute is with Peru, where also is one pending with Colombia.

Discuss Aid From America.
Ayora, who traveled to Guayaquil to welcome Hoover Sunday, talked with the President-elect on the Cleveland for more than two hours, discussing financial and economic affairs of Ecuador and the manner in which the United States might assist the republic.

Ayora seems proud of the fact that Ecuador's finances had been restored to a gold basis, with a central bank system fashioned somewhat along the lines of the United States Federal Reserve Bank. There also is a farm bank in Ecuador, Ayora said his government had established a board of social welfare to improve conditions of labor and to enact laws for the welfare of women and children. Hoover was especially interested in the operation of these laws.

Jose Ayora, 16-year-old son of the President of Ecuador, regards Hoover as "very sympathetic" (most agreeable). The President's little son gave his characterization when newspaper men asked him what he thought of the American President-elect, while they were journeying together on the cruiser Cleveland.

"The same as all Ecuadorians," Jose added. "I like him because he is a friend of my country. Then, also, he is my father's friend. Papa told me we will be a happier country because Mr. Hoover came to see us and now knows us and will help us in the future."

The Foreign Minister of Ecuador, Homero Viteri Lafronte, was especially thrilled with the character of the Hoover visit. He gave his impressions while Hoover and President Ayora were exchanging farewells by embracing each other in Latin style.

"After this astounding and thrilling occasion," said Lafronte, "when republics of the Western world unite in bonds of friendship, I think of the animals which have done something that is historic and may be transcendental in world affairs. I believe he has this day inaugurated a new era, in that he has set an example which hereafter will make it difficult for nations to quarrel seriously."

"In other words, if they do, the people will say 'look what Mr. Hoover did. Why cannot you do likewise?'"

"Popular moral pressure will thus force a solution of the differences by peaceful methods, rather than by brute strength."

"I think, too, that Mr. Hoover is establishing a new situation through the friendly solidarity of all republics of the Western world."

Besides Ayora, Hoover was accompanied to the Maryland by Lafronte, Finance Minister Tejada and the American Minister, Gerhard A. Bading.

The President-elect looked back today with pleasure and satisfaction on his visit to Guayaquil.

Animal Tracks 100,000,000 Years Old Found in U. S.

Yale Scientists Make Discoveries in Connecticut—Footprints of Dinosaur Imprinted in Mud.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
NEW HAVEN, Conn., Dec. 2.—Footprints of animals which inhabited the world 100,000,000 years ago have been found at North Branford, Conn., in the reservoir being built there. Prof. Malcolm R. Thorpe, curator of vertebrate paleontology in the Peabody Museum, and a group of Yale scientists made the discoveries.

Through discoveries made in about two years, it has become possible for science to study forms of life in a comparatively dark part of the Triassic period, 100,000,000 years ago, and to learn many things about animal life and geology of the times hitherto unknown. Prof. Thorpe said.

The presence of certain forms of animal life has been established as having existed in this region many thousands of years earlier than had been supposed; forms of animals never known to have existed in this part of the continent before are shown to have lived in the region, and an obscure section of the Triassic period has been opened to observation.

The most noteworthy finds were over 50 clearly marked footprints of dinosaurs. None ever was found so far south before. Of these footprints seven were of different genera, and the animals which left them imprinted in the mud 100,000,000 years ago ranged in length from about 15 inches to approximately 30 feet.

One is thought to have been the print of a pre-historic amphibian called the shepardia, and only one other such specimen has been found in the country. There is one specimen of the footprints of a bathacopus, a parasaurian animal. The others are all those of the carnivorous dinosaur group, and include several prints made by an archisauripus, one by a gigantipus, several by eubrontes, one by grallator, and one by triacropus.

Of these, the gigantipus, one form of eubrontes, and a species of archisauripus tracks, are new to Connecticut. Of all these, the largest was gigantipus, which was from 25 to 30 feet long, with a footprint nearly two feet long, and a stride of six feet.

In addition to the animal forms, there have been found many fish of two different genera, and a series of tree forms imbedded in rock.

Engineers' Association, of which he is an honorary member, will receive him. In the evening, Mr. and Mrs. Hoover will be the guests of honor at a dinner tendered by the President at the Government palace, which will be followed by a dance.

The Hoover party then will return to Callao, accompanied by the President and the Reception Committee. On arrival at the port, the forts again will give a presidential salute.

The law making the day of Mr. Hoover's visit a national holiday was published yesterday. It says: "The visit to Peru of the statesman who has been called to the highest post in his country, is a cause for the deepest rejoicing for the Peruvian Republic and her Government; it has therefore been decided to decree his excellency, Herbert Clark Hoover, President-elect of the United States, the honorary guest of the nation."

CAMPAIGN COST WILSON $9150
Defeated Candidate for Governorship Lists No Contributions.
Special to the Post-Dispatch.
JEFFERSON CITY, Dec. 2.—Francis M. Wilson of Kansas City, defeated Democratic candidate for Governor of Missouri, today filed a campaign expense account with the Secretary of State, showing expenditure of $9150. No contributions to his campaign fund were listed. The principal items were: $2500 paid to the Democratic State Committee, $2000 to the Platt County Wilson-for-Governor Club, $1500 to C. A. Leedy Jr., Wilson's campaign manager, for services, and $650 to a Kansas City newspaper for use of its radio station in broadcasting two campaign speeches. Another item was $400 for subscription to rural newspapers of Missouri.

Eugene C. Bland (Dem.), Kansas City, who was elected Judge of the Kansas City Court of Appeals, reported expenditure of $4942, of which approximately $4000 was for newspaper advertising.

$20,418,260 FOR 1929 MISSISSIPPI SYSTEM PROJECTS

Estimate for Fiscal Year, Exclusive of Flood Control Submitted to Congress by Gen. Jadwin.

RIVER AND HARBOR TOTAL $50,781,880

For Improvement and Maintenance on Missouri From Kansas City East $5,000,000 Is Required.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2.—Improvement of river and harbor projects throughout the country and their maintenance will require $50,781,880, exclusive of Mississippi River flood control work, during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1929.

Major-General Edgar Jadwin, chief of the Army Engineering Corps, submitted estimates of the various projects to Congress today with his annual report showing that $47,295,276 was expended on these projects in the year which ended June 30, 1928, and that $72,181,490 was available for the work during the current year which ends June 30, 1929.

Seacoast harbors and channels will require $20,418,260, while the Mississippi River system will require $20,033,000. Lake harbors and channels will require $4,837,500 and internal waterways $2,491,500.

New York harbor and adjacent bays and river channels including the Hudson have been listed for an aggregate of more than $4,600,000; Philadelphia, including the Delaware River to the sea, $4,455,000; Baltimore harbor and channels, $371,200; Norfolk harbor and Hampton Roads channels, $912,000; the St. John's River from Jacksonville to the sea, $450,000; the Savannah River system, $2,000,000; Mobile harbor, $325,000; the Sabine-Neches waterway in Texas, $975,000; Galveston harbor and channels, $210,000; Texas City channel, $1,600,000; Houston ship channel, $568,700; Los Angeles harbor, $245,600.

For Mississippi System.
For the Mississippi River system, which calls for $20,033,000, it is estimated $2,500,000 will be required between the Ohio and Missouri Rivers and $4,000,000 between the Missouri River and Minneapolis for the Missouri River, $5,000,000 between Kansas City and the mouth and $1,000,000 between Kansas City and Sioux City. The Tennessee River will require $210,000; the Ohio River, $1,500,000; the Monongahela River, $500,000; the Allegheny River, $1,300,000; the Illinois River, $700,000, and the St. Mary's River in Michigan, $212,500.

On the Great Lakes, Milwaukee harbor will require $630,000; Sandusky harbor $280,000, and Buffalo harbor $105,000.

For internal waterways, the land waterway from Delaware Bay to Chesapeake Bay will require $1,000,000 and that between Beaufort and the Cape Fear River in North Carolina, $1,000,000.

Estimates for 1930.
The estimates of the amounts that can be profitably expended on the various projects during the fiscal year 1929, beginning July 1, 1929, and the amount remaining unexpended on each project on July 1, 1928, for the fiscal year of 1929, include:

MISSISSIPPI RIVER—Kansas City to the mouth, $5,000,000 and $4,262,152; Kansas City to Sioux City, $1,000,000 and $507,950; Sioux City to Fort Benton, $50,000 and $31,812.

MISSISSIPPI RIVER—Between Ohio and Missouri Rivers, $2,500,000 and $2,765,147; between Missouri River and Minneapolis, $4,000,000 and $4,325,273.

Seacoast Harbors: Mississippi River, Louisiana, $375,000 and $53,486. Totals:

Sea coast harbors and channels, $20,418,260 and $22,682,267; Mississippi River system, $20,033,000 and $27,784,827; lake harbors and channels, $4,837,500 and $5,364,755; internal waterways, $2,491,500 and $2,977,756; specified surveys, $1,500,000 and $1,937,466; examinations, surveys and contingencies of rivers and harbors, $250,000 and $250,000; departmental service, allotment roll, $191,620 and $193,612; total, $50,781,880 and $73,181,490.

15 Injured by Bomb at Melbourne.
MELBOURNE, Australia, Dec. 2.—Fifteen persons were injured when a bomb exploded at the Greek Club here Saturday night. Police arrested five suspects and announced that they hoped soon to detain others believed to be responsible for recent outrages in connection with the labor shipping troubles.

The Veiled Prophet Parade.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
As a matter of civic pride and perhaps duty, I watch the Veiled Prophet's parade each year, only to find that my interest wanes more and more as time passes. I have questioned many others as to their opinion and impression of the parade and find a general dissatisfaction prevailing.

To this observer, the following statements bring out what the parade lacks in the matter of holding the interest of the masses of people (if this array of floats is meant for children—well and good, but I am sure that they will be a small percentage of the reputed 300,000 who attend.)

1. For such a large public outdoor entertainment, which costs lots of money, and brings money and buses to St. Louis, it should be made worthwhile and interesting. The parade is in dire need of showmanship. Instead of groups of masked individuals, making silly, meaningless pantomime gestures, why not work in something that has a modern touch to it.

2. The parade lacks appealing variety to young and old. Mingle with many different types of people, just after they have seen the floats and they will hear, "Oh, the same old stuff every year—I'm sorry I came downtown to see it; it's all right for the kids and the kids."

3. There is not enough music. They mark time more to the accompaniment of the writer feels that, in point of contrast, even correctly considering the types of audience to be entertained, the V. P. Ball would rather should be credited about 30 per cent compared with 10 per cent for the parade.

In this letter, the author means to be entirely constructive in his criticism. The idea of getting thousands of people out of their homes, changing and giving them new ideas, entertaining them with floats and music, with a carnival spirit prevailing, is to be commended. But instead of putting on a drab, dreary show—a make it a wow, with perhaps such men as William Goldman, Skouras Brothers, Ed Lowry and Frank Fay promoting the affair.

St. Louis Building Costs.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
STATISTICS are like sausage. It all depends on who makes them. According to recent figures of the Labor Bureau at Washington, St. Louis building costs in comparison with Washington are cheaper by $5000 on one-family dwellings. The Washington Bureau says the cost of one-family dwellings in St. Louis averages $3210. Holy mackerel! The builders must make a profit of $3000 to $5000.

You can buy a one-family dwelling cheaply built for about $6400. For a five-room cottage, $6500. Should you desire a well-built bungalow, you absolutely cannot buy one for less than $10,000. Why, you cannot buy a frame shack for $2410 unless you find it in some hole. The person that made the foregoing statement at the Labor Bureau should take a day off and try to buy one of those $3510 dwellings. He'd get cockeyed looking.

R. K. MAJINO.

Mr. Caulfield's St. Louis Advisers.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
GOVERNOR-ELECT CAULFIELD is being tendered a generous portion of gratuitous advice from the big Republican town which chose to accord him its approval by a thousand less majority than it gave the Democratic candidate for President. He may extract what consolation there is from the fact that if St. Louis had erased its overwhelming Republican majority and handed him the air, the State at large would still have elected him by more than 35,000 votes. Venturing no forecast of his administration, there is more than a suspicion that thousands of citizens in the so-called "hinterland" voted for him because of the very thing that ran him behind the Democratic candidate for President in St. Louis—namely, that he has something of the bearing of a well-bred gentleman and during the campaign gave expression to some sentiments which rather confirmed the inference.

Now some of these St. Louis fair weather friends graciously offer their services to select his Board of Police Commissioners. There must be something in Mr. Caulfield's past life and record which arouses a grave apprehension that he may not appoint a board that is "right"—that he may really do a little something to discredit the fond theory that law cannot be measurably enforced. But let these people learn something. They should know that if Mr. Caulfield snags his finger in their faces, the people of Missouri will go out of their way to find additional honors for him. Let them chew upon the casual item that the historic Democratic county of Pike gave Hoover a majority of more than 500, and defeated a notoriously bad candidate for Sheriff by more than 1100 votes.

THE LAME DUCK SESSION PROGRAM.

Four measures of leading importance are on the program for action in the short session of Congress which opens today. They are the naval bill, providing for 15 cruisers and one airplane carrier; the Kellogg treaty, farm relief and Boulder Dam.

President Coolidge has indicated his desire to clear his desk of the World Court question. One of the five reservations of the Senate in voting for our participation in the Permanent Court of International Justice was not approved by the other members of the court. This was reservation number five, which forbade the court, without the consent of the United States, to entertain any request for an advisory opinion touching "any dispute or question in which the United States has or claims an interest." The other members of the court objected to this reservation because it put it in the power of the United States to veto any request or advisory opinion from the court on the ground that the United States had an interest or a claim. The point seems to be well taken against at least the sweeping nature of the reservation, and we believe that it could be modified or reworded in such a way as to be satisfactory to both the United States and the other Powers.

There is no indication of action by the Senate on the World Court at this session. It is not expected to be taken up by the Senate, but it would be an excellent thing if, with the approval of the Kellogg treaty renouncing war the Senate would settle the question of our participation in the World Court by adopting a reservation satisfactory to the other Powers that support the court. It would vastly strengthen our attitude toward peace and the orderly peaceful settlement of disputes by court decisions. The Kellogg treaty is a fine gesture against war and for peace, but it contains no guarantee of peace and leaves an open door for war by a reservation in favor of defensive war. On the other hand, the World Court sets up a tribunal for the settlement of judicable disputes and is a permanent institution working for the establishment of international law and for the submission of disputed questions to the court to be settled under law.

We do not share the opinion of many individuals and organizations working for peace that the adoption of the naval bill would nullify the Kellogg treaty or would indicate a warlike intention on the part of the United States. We do not share the opinion that it would be a move to build up a navy against England. In the sense of an aggressive move. The bill provides for the replacement of obsolete cruisers and is well within the limits of naval strength agreed upon by the Washington conference. The bill is designed to give us a navy in a measure adequate for defense and for sea policing, but which would be wholly inadequate for aggression against either England or Japan. There is no threat of naval competition, because with the completion of the naval program the United States would still be well within the limits fixed by the Washington conference.

So long as we have no guarantees against war, it is necessary and fully in accord with sound judgment to have an adequate defensive navy. The United States made the greatest sacrifices under the Washington treaty, and has done less than either Great Britain or Japan to maintain the proportionate naval strength agreed upon in the treaty. The naval bill is likely to pass because it received a five-to-one majority in the House, was favorably reported to the Senate, but a vote on it was prevented by the filibuster against the Boulder Dam bill.

The Boulder Dam bill is in a similar situation. It was passed by the House, but was blocked in the Senate by the filibuster.

The Muscle Shoals bill awaits the decision of the Supreme Court on another bill involving the question of whether a pocket veto by the President between sessions of the same Congress is valid. Senator Norris says not. He declares that the bill passed at the last session has become a law, but believes that it is impossible in the short session to pass the bill over the President's veto, and will await the decision of the court or action by the next Congress.

The press of business before the short session and the fact that it has an unusual number of lame ducks do not encourage hope of a prolific session. It does not offer much hope that farm relief, which is also on the program, will be disposed of in accordance with either Mr. Coolidge's or Mr. Hoover's view. If it would move to abolish lame-duck sessions of Congress it would make a notable contribution to progress.

THE TRAFFIC RELIEF BOULEVARD.

From the standpoint of the disinterested observer there appears to be no cogent reason why the Board of Public Service should approve the City Plan Commission's proposal for the construction of a traffic relief boulevard 450 feet west of Grand boulevard from Page to Forest Park boulevards.

Property owners whose taxes would be affected by the improvement point out that it would be far more expensive than the widening of Spring avenue and that it would not accomplish the purpose as adequately as would a boulevard following the present route of Spring avenue.

DOINGS IN THE RHINELAND.

How Allied military authorities are amusing themselves in the Rhineland is disclosed by George Glasgow in the English Contemporary Review. Some time ago, it seems, the Graf Zeppelin was observed flying over occupied territory, whereupon the Inter-Allied Rhineland High Commission (which is, obviously, just as Gilbertian as its name) sent a formal notification of that dreadful breach of the Versailles treaty to the German Government. Could anything be more querulous or petty? A solemn apology was forthcoming from the German authorities, who explained that Dr. Eckener had flown over occupied territory because of an error of navigation. If the apology were not written tongue in cheek, the Germans have no sense of humor.

Apparently the fact that the war is over has not permeated the dense skulls of the Allied authorities; that, or the inexpressible boredom and futility of the occupation has made them slightly daft.

THE JEWISH FEDERATION DRIVE.

Last night the Jewish Federation of St. Louis began its drive for $500,000, the sum required to provide for the needs of Jewish charitable, medical and educational institutions for the coming year. In asking for $500,000, an increase of $150,000 in its present annual income, the Federation has in mind not only a deficit of $100,000 that must be reduced, but the growing needs of the community. This deficit was caused by a reduction of the Federation's income by deaths, removals and business reverses, depriving it of annual contributions of $55,000.

A glimpse of the Federation's requirements for the coming year may be had from the following table:

For aged and infirm.....	$ 57,000
For local relief work.....	70,000
Health work.....	150,000
Work among children.....	70,000
Education.....	30,000
Recreation.....	30,000
Outside organizations.....	7,250
Administration.....	20,000
Deficit.....	100,000

Among the important problems facing the Federation are maintenance of the Nurses' Home at the new Jewish Hospital, care of the increasing population at the two homes for the aged, provision for the new orphan's home and support of Jewish education.

As in the past, the Federation's campaign for funds is being confined to the Jewish population of St. Louis, but, while nothing is asked from the remainder of the community, it is the custom of many non-Jews to aid in the Federation's work. Its useful work invites the co-operation of all citizens.

A WITCHCRAFT TRAGEDY.

Like some tale from medieval times is the murder of Nelson D. Rehmyer, a farmer who lived near Shrewsbury, Pa. Two youths, John Curry and Wilbert G. Hess, have confessed that they, with one John Blymere, an alleged voodoo doctor of York, Pa., killed Rehmyer and burned his body. It seems that Hess' family had been bewitched and they had sought Blymere's aid to cast off the spell.

Rehmyer was thought to have been an instrument of the witchery and, after consultation with the voodoo doctor, it was decided to obtain a lock of Rehmyer's hair. This lock of hair was to be buried eight feet under ground, a ceremony which would liberate and disenchanted the Hess family. Curry, Hess and Blymere visited Rehmyer at night to get the lock of hair, but Rehmyer put up a stubborn resistance. A fight ensued, according to the youths, and Rehmyer was beaten to death.

Investigation of the case discloses that witchcraft, sorcery and the practice of charms enjoy great favor in certain parts of rural Pennsylvania, just as they did 100 years ago in the Pennsylvania Dutch colonies. That Rehmyer, himself a believer in witchcraft, should be murdered over a lock of hair illustrates how seriously these old superstitions are accepted.

Among those who marvel that such a thing could happen in the twentieth century, however, are many who believe that seven years' bad luck follows the breaking of a mirror; that numbers like "13" and "7" have an extraordinary effect on human destiny; that breaking a chickenbone has something to do with the fulfillment of wishes; and that hairs from a horse's tail, planted in the rain-barrel, will develop into tadpoles, or mayhap snakes. And, after all, the weird beliefs of the Shrewsbury witchcraft colony are not much more nonsensical than these.

GO SOUTH, YOUNG MAN!

Mr. Hoover's trip to Latin-America could not fail to stir up a tremendous interest in our sister continent. Not the least remarkable thing which is being brought out by a flood of commercial and financial statistics is that, while we as a nation have been negligent of South America, our business men have been keenly alive to its possibilities. Says John Walker Harrington in the New York Herald Tribune:

Commercial and financial relations between Latin America and the United States have been increasing constantly since the beginning of the World War. In the last five years the gain has been so great that only business interests engaged in heavy export trade have sensed it. The Year Book of the Department of Commerce sets forth that, of all the large trade regions in the world, Latin America stands now only second to Europe as a market for the products of the United States. Latin America is third in supplying us with commodities, being surpassed only by Europe and Asia. Although there was a slight drop in 1927, as compared with 1926, there are gains in 1928 which are most significant. They show that South American commerce with this country has been steadily increasing, while that with other important trade regions, such as Europe and the Orient, has been receding.

South America, Central America, Mexico and the West Indies form an area of at least 9,000,000 square miles. In many regions there is hardly more than one inhabitant to the square mile. Here are forests of fine woods, scarcely touched by the mineral riches, which are most significant. In some of these southern republics the population could be increased tenfold without crowding. While it is true that Europe still does a large share of South America's business, the United States is rapidly diminishing trade advantages gained by France, Great Britain and Germany while we, as it were, were looking out of the window. For instance, American money has been pouring into South America at an ever-increasing rate. A table published in the New York Times illustrates this point. It shows American investments have increased from $177,000,000 in 1912 to more than $2,000,000,000 in 1928, thus:

Argentina.....	$ 484,000,000	$ 45,000,000
Bolivia.....	110,000,000	10,000,000
Brazil.....	417,000,000	15,000,000
Chile.....	520,000,000	5,000,000
Colombia.....	211,000,000	2,000,000
Ecuador.....	30,000,000	10,000,000
Guatemala.....	9,000,000	1,000,000
Paraguay.....	15,000,000	1,000,000
Peru.....	150,000,000	35,000,000
Venezuela.....	47,000,000	5,000,000
Uruguay.....	172,000,000	3,000,000
Total.....	$2,215,000,000	$177,000,000

Seventy-five years ago or more Horace Greeley told young men to go West. Apparently this should now be changed to the injunction, "Young man, go South." Latin-America, a country of amazing resources, is in the very infancy of its development. With such pleasing overtures toward a new neighborliness as are now being made by Mr. Hoover, we may reasonably assume that we are at the dawn of a new day in the Western Hemisphere.

BECOMING MORE AND MORE RIDICULOUS.

The Lame Duck Session

Although the only excuse for this session lay in the difficulties of travel in the early days of our government, it persists today because of the opportunity for political plunder which it affords; it is a direct incentive to irresponsibility and bootlicking and it is always likely to cause a condition of legislative paralysis.

From the New York World

THERE will be a reassembly in Washington today some 430 Senators and Representatives who were elected to Congress not on Nov. 6, 1928, but on Nov. 2, 1926. It has been 25 months since this Congress received a mandate from the public, and in the meantime the new Congress has been elected. But the old Congress is back in Washington again and the biennial lame duck session is about to start.

Every schoolboy knows the explanation of these lame duck sessions. Travel was slow and uncertain in the days when the fathers of the Constitution planned a Government for the United States. It seemed probable that gentlemen who had to travel far to Washington might have difficulty in putting their affairs in order in time to attend a session of Congress beginning only a few weeks after the date of their election. Largely for this reason it was decided that members of Congress elected in November should not take office until the first of March of the year following. If no special session were called in March or during the summer the new member would not actually take his seat until the following December.

This decision was written into the Constitution and for a hundred and forty years it has been the law of the land, despite the fact that the development of railways here has long since solved the problem which the authors of the Constitution had in mind. Though it is now possible for any newly-elected member of Congress, except delegates from Alaska and the outlying islands, to reach Washington within five days, the machinery of Government continues to operate on the theory that the Conestoga is still the fastest vehicle on wheels. The result is the anomaly of a lame duck session every alternate year.

In two respects this lame duck session is a cause of mischief. In the first place, it brings to Washington a number of defeated members of Congress who know that they have already been voted out of office and whose sense of responsibility has not been sharpened by that knowledge. Some of these gentlemen will shake the tree for as many plums as they can gather. Others will sit back comfortably and do no work. Still others will scrap any personal convictions they happen to possess and blindly support the administration in a frantic effort to win the reward of an appointment which will take care of them when their term of office ends. The lame duck session is a direct incentive to irresponsibility and bootlicking.

Even worse than this, however, is the mischief caused by the fact that the lame duck session necessarily ends in March, when the terms of one-third of the members of the Senate and all the members of the House expire. The result is that the session is limited by law to some three months of life. In the present complexities of Government this is barely enough time to consider and adopt the regular appropriation bills. All other legislation is, therefore, in a jam with a premium put on log-rolling and the threat of filibusters. No bill of any importance can be put through without buying votes. At any moment the Senate may find itself paralyzed by an endless flow of talk.

It is an absurd situation, and a situation all the more absurd because it is permitted to continue despite the fact that the remedy is so obvious. This remedy is an amendment to the Constitution providing that each new Congress take office within a short time after its election, in a regular session to begin either in December or in January.

Four times the Senate has adopted the Norris bill embodying this plan. Each time the House has either ignored the Senate's action or refused to comply with it.

Now a lame duck session begins again today. It continues to be part of the American system of Government because a handful of influential members of the House prize the opportunities for political plunder which it gives them.

The Railroads and the Rivers

From the Kansas City Star.

THE Interstate Commerce Commission has made a sweeping and comprehensive decision in denying flatly the plea of the railroads that there should be public hearings on joint river-rail rate schedules. The commission evidently has considered the vital point that such hearings, which might necessitate long delays, could be made to frustrate the entire plan of joint rate agreements provided for in the Denison barge line extension bill enacted at the last session of Congress. That possibility was all the more apparent in view of the previous railroad opposition to the bill.

Yet, as is emphasized by Representative Homer Hoch of Kansas, the rate arrangement is absolutely essential to success of the barge lines, now in operation and to be established. For a primary purpose of the lines is to afford cheaper transportation not simply for river cities but for urban and farming areas at a distance; and it is only through the linking up of rail and water shipping that these communities can hope to profit by an inland waterways system. It is legitimate to consider, as Representative Hoch suggests, whether the railroads are not simply short-sighted in such a policy of obstruction, that is, from the standpoint of the ultimate interests of the road themselves.

The issue is not that the roads should make sacrifices that would endanger their own security; no reasonable person expects that. But it is rather, that when considering their own interests the roads should go the full way and consider the interests of the public with which they are vitally linked.

SENATOR HIRSH JOHNSON came back from California with a severe case of influenza. Being a true Californian, he declined to admit that he got it at home. "Arizona," said the senator, in reply to a reporter's query, "Arizona is to blame."

A GREAT gash has been cut in F Street by the flappers' parade—to make way for a new department store building. One of the structures being razed is the old Wyatt Building, the home for many years of the Post-Dispatch and the World Bureau and other newspaper offices. Balfanz's long established book store—one of the last dwindling number of book stores run by bookish people has had to find a new location down the street.

So the ancient landmarks are wiped out or modified. The newly-erected statue press building occupies the site of the Ebbitt House. Harvey's restaurant survives, but only in name. Made's Hotel, on Pennsylvania avenue, where guests used to catch their own frogs in a pond in the back yard, passed out not long ago.

Hancock's, Shoemaker's, Fritz Reuter's—these famous old eating and drinking places—live only in fragmentary memory. The Statler and the Elcom, favorite resort of Democratic politicians during the Wilson administration, is being torn down. The Willard still stands, and you can still get the best seafood in town at Herzog's on the wharf.

AULINA coats for very small girls are being shown in Washington department stores. They are named—need it be added?—for the interesting daughter of Nicholas and Alice Longworth.

CONGRESS has lost its only Negro committee clerk in the demotion of Frank A. Byron to assistant clerk of the House Naval Affairs Committee. Byron, a Pennsylvanian, was made clerk of this committee shortly after the war when Representative Tom Butler of Pennsylvania became chairman. For 10 years prior to that time he had been attached to the committee in a minor capacity.

Representative Butler died last spring. But Byron served through the summer as clerk. Then came Representative Fred A. Britten of Chicago, one of his political lieutenants.

Shortly after Britten moved into the committee rooms he noticed a note on the door, "will be back in five minutes," which was signed "F. A. B." his own initials. He was nonplussed. He could not remember having written such a notice. On inquiry he learned that Byron had put it up.

PUBLIC hearings are to be held on the question of where to locate the flagpole in Arlington National Cemetery. The old pole in front of the Lee Mansion was recently taken down because of deterioration. When the Fine Arts Commission, for example, is reasons, proposed to erect a staff in another place in the cemetery, there was an immediate and vigorous protest from the Grand Army of the Republic and other patriotic societies, which insisted that the flag should go back to the old site. Secretary of War Dwight Davis thereupon threw the dispute open to public discussion.

Frost's New Volume

WEST RUNNING BROOK. By Robert Frost. (Holt.)
I very slender book of verse should represent the achievement of a major poet between the ages of 45 and 48 when such a poet might well be expected to reach the height of his powers. But if the consensus of criticism is to be accepted as dependent on the height of the achievement, "West Running Brook" may be regarded, in that light, on the other hand, there is some reason for suspecting that Mr. Frost does not rate his work so high as do the critics, and that he may be nearer right more interested in human living than in writing verse, and there is nothing in the present volume to indicate that he has felt any really powerful creative urge during the past five years. Nearly everything in the collection has much of the character of Frost quality, both in conception and workmanship. There are some charming things here, but surely nothing of the poet's best.

THE FOLLOWING ARE REPRESENTATIVE:

SPRING POOLS.

These pools that, though in frost, still reflect the sky almost without a defect.
And like the flowers beside them, chill and shiver,
Will like the flowers beside them soon be gone,
And yet not out by any brook or river.

But up by roots to bring dark foliage on.
The trees that have it in the pent-up buds
To darken nature and be summer woods—
Let them think twice before they use their powers
To blot out and drink up and sweep away
These flowery waters and the watery flowers
From snow that melted only yesterday.

ONCE BY THE PACIFIC.
The shattered water made a misty din.
Great waves looked over other coming in.
And thought of doing something to the shore.

That water never did to land before.
The clouds were low and hairy like the skies.
Like locks down forward in the gloam eyes.
You could not tell, and yet it looked as if
The shore was lucky in being backed by cliff.
The cliff in being backed by ocean: it looked as if it a night of dark intent.

The Week

THERE need be no amount of space wasted by "Some One to Love," which happens to be the feature picture of the Missouri this week. It is light and mildly amusing. In story of the poor but peppy who falls in love with Mary Bry Mary, with a face for a fortune and $20,000,000 as well tucked down in her stocking, returns to the States and finds a handsome boy—and there was no reason why they should not have married the first reel except that the man who wrote the story had to go out for six more reels in order to get the complicated situation which clog the course of true love. But if the film is only so-so, a banjo playing of Eddie Peabody in the stage show makes up everything. ## Cascara is Your Doctor's Choice

When physicians pronounce cascara the PERFECT laxative—why experiment with things that lash the system into action? Cascara, you know, is the bark of a tree. A natural and normal stimulus to the bowels.

The Indians, who used to chew this bark, had no word in their language that meant constipation!

Perfect regularity is possible to-day, and to all of us. We have cascara in ideal form; the very delightful-tasting candy Cascaret gives us pure cascara. It has helped at least a million people to habitual regularity; millions of others, unfortunately, have stuck to stronger things and acquired only the laxative habit.

CASCARETS
They Work While You Sleep!

Your first Cascaret will demonstrate how THOROUGH this gentle laxative is, after all. Your next surprise will be the length of time before you need another. Eventually, you'll see that cascaring tends to make the bowels move thereafter of their own accord!

A modern drug store must stock many laxatives, but for your own good the druggist would rather have you ask for the inexpensive little box of Cascarets than anything else.

COLDS Gripe-Flu

Take no chances with a cold! Take HILL'S CASCARA-QUININE and stop it in a day! HILL'S combines the two necessary helps in one: 1—Breaks up the cold, 2—Checks the fever, 3—Opens the bowels, 4—Tones the system.

The Amazing Story of Two BLIND Men

One is a broom-maker; the other a salesman. So the Missouri Commission for the Blind brought the two of them together. The resultant partnership of these two blind men is bringing a comfortable income to both.

But there are many other willing blind workers who cannot attain this freedom. The Commission therefore maintains shops over the State in which they produce brooms, rag rugs, mops, etc., under the supervision of blind superintendents. In countless homes, too, workers are making dolls, aprons, shawls, toys, quilts, tea towels—for sale through the display rooms of the Commission. You can help these blind to help themselves by phoning the representative whose address is given below, and asking to see samples of work by the blind. Its neatness, attractiveness will surprise you. You will see needlework finer than that produced by many sighted persons. You will obtain brooms which, being handmade, last longer than any you have yet used.

Send for Free Booklet!
The Missouri Commission for the Blind has produced an attractive 24-page booklet called "Without Benefit of Sight," which describes the work in detail. It will give you half an hour of the most entertaining and instructive reading you have ever had.

Send free, if you write today.

BLACK CANYON URGED FOR DAM ON COLORADO

Boulder Canyon Second Choice of Congressional Engineers for $165,000,000 Structure.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Dec. 2.—The Congressional commission of engineers and geologists appointed to investigate the feasibility of the Colorado River project has recommended that the dam be built at Black Canyon and estimates the cost at $165,000,000.

In its report, submitted to Congress today by Secretary West, the Commission declared to be "basic" the engineering feasibility of the dam across the main stream of the Colorado River at Black Canyon or Boulder Canyon.

If no other site were available, the Commission reported, the "Boulder Canyon" site could safely be used so far as geological conditions are concerned. "In comparison with the Black Canyon site, however," it said, "the latter has certain advantages."

Cost Estimate Increased.
In its cost estimate, the report ranges from $25,000,000 to $40,000,000 more than any previous estimate. It recommended that the main canal to be constructed in connection with the project be entirely within the United States.

"Under the proposed plan," the engineers reported, "the water is to be diverted from the river at Laguna Dam, the present intake of the canal from the Yuma irrigation project, 23 miles by river above the intake of the Imperial Canal. This will allow water to be taken from the river at the higher elevation necessary to permit the canal to serve its purpose."

The board is of the opinion that it is feasible from an engineering standpoint to build a dam across the river at Black Canyon that will impound water safely to an elevation of 550 feet above low water.

The dam proposed by the Bureau of Reclamation is of the gravity type, curved in plan, with allowable stresses as high as 40 tons per square foot. It was the board's opinion that a dam of the gravity type is suitable for the site and that such a dam would be safe, provided the maximum stresses allowed do not exceed those adopted in standard practice.

Would Be Highest Dam.
The dam would be by far the highest yet constructed and would impound 26,000,000 acre feet of water.

If the dam should fail, the report said, the flood created probably would destroy Needles, Parker, Blythe, Yuma, and permanently destroy the levees of the Imperial district, creating a channel into Salton Sea, which probably would be so deep that it would be impracticable to re-establish the Colorado River in its normal course.

To avoid such possibilities, the report continued, the dam should be constructed on conservative, if not ultra-conservative lines. The board reported that the growing demand for power in Southern California, when considered conservatively, would be sufficient to absorb the probable power output of the proposed hydro-electric plant at the site of the dam.

"It is obvious that the power which can be generated from Boulder Dam is a valuable resource," the report said. "If the income from storage can be reasonably increased and the capital investment reduced by the cost of the All-American Canal together with a reduction for all or a part of the cost properly chargeable to flood protection, it would be possible to amortize the remaining cost with the income from power."

KELLOGG ASKED TO PROTEST
Ukrainians Want Him to Take Up Their Cause With Poland.

Meeting at the Ukrainian National House, 1523 Hickory street, yesterday afternoon, several hundred St. Louisans of Ukrainian descent adopted a resolution urging Secretary of State Kellogg to use his influence in protesting to Poland against measures which the resolution held to be repressive of Ukrainians in territory controlled by Poland since 1922.

The culmination of events to which the gathering objected came Nov. 1, when Polish police in Lemberg, Galicia, are alleged to have attacked a Ukrainian procession in honor of men who gave their lives in 1918 for Ukrainian independence.

STREET CAR RATES RAISED

Fares Three for 25 Cents at Urbana, Champaign and Danville.

DANVILLE, Ill. Dec. 2.—Announcing an increase in street car fares from 7 to 10 cents, or three for 25 cents, the Illinois Power and Light Corporation has offered a special 5-cent rate to all students in the city schools.

Street car fares in Champaign and Urbana were advanced last night from eight rides for 50 cents to three for a quarter or 10 cents straight fare, but as yet no action has been taken by the car riders. The Illinois Power and Light Corporation controls Twin City transit.

Arson Trial—Kansas City.

By the Associated Press.
KANSAS CITY, Mo., Dec. 2.—The first of three alleged gangsters charged with arson in connection with an explosion Oct. 14 that damaged an apartment building here, will go to trial before Judge Brown Harris in Criminal Court today. Robert W. Jackson, the first man selected for trial, was indicted Oct. 25 by the Jackson County grand jury, with James Martin and W. H. P. Doerr.

THROGS OF CHILDREN VIEW TOY PARADE

Santa Claus and Three Wise Men Lead Procession From Wonderland.

Throgs of children, lining Kingshighway and the Lindell-Locust parade route, saw the Santa Claus pageant and B. Nugent & Bro. Dry Good company's third annual toy parade, yesterday afternoon.

On Kingshighway, from the starting point at Oakland avenue north to Lindell boulevard, and on Lindell to Grand boulevard, the lines of children and their elders at the curb were almost unbroken. Locust boulevard had a goodly array of spectators, and downtown, from Twelfth boulevard to Nugent's store on Broadway and Washington, the crowd was continuous, and near the corners was dense.

Public personages, including Mayor Miller, Mayor Doyle of East St. Louis, Chief of Police Gerk, Fire and members of the Board of Education and the Chamber of Commerce directorate, rode in the parade. Vehicles of the past which were used in the pageant were horse-drawn fire engines.

Santa Claus had the place of honor, very much as the Velled Prophet has in his October pageant. The Three Wise Men were on a float preceding his. Floats following displayed, in easily recognizable form, Old King Cole, Cinderella, Capt. Kidd, the Old Woman in a Shoe, Little Boy Blue, Little Bo Peep, Noah's Ark, Alice in Wonderland, and, astride a goose, Mother Goose herself.

Clowns, knights, Indians and cowboys rode in the line, and cages contained realistic wild animals. Trucks containing toys were at various points in the parade. Young women in antique costumes were much admired.

The Shriners' Hospital for Crippled Children, at one of the first points passed, was the scene of a great display of enthusiasm. The little patients watched from the windows. The official reviewing stand was at the end of the line of march.

When You Catch Cold Rub On Musterole

Musterole is easy to apply and works right away. It may prevent a cold from turning into "flu" or pneumonia. It does all the good work of grandmother's mustard plaster.

Musterole is recommended by many doctors and nurses. Try Musterole for sore throat, cold on the chest, rheumatism, lumbago, pleurisy, stiff neck, bronchitis, asthma, neuralgia, congestion, pains and aches of the back and joints, strains, sore muscles, bruises, chilblains, frosted feet—colds of all sorts.

To Mothers: Musterole is also made in milder form for babies and small children. Ask for Children's Musterole.

Coughs Stopped Almost Instantly

Doctor's Prescription Relieves Without Harmful Drugs

Almost instant relief for coughs is now guaranteed in the use of a famous physician's prescription called Thoxine which contains no effort-form of dope. It works on an entirely different principle, has a double action, relieves the irritation and goes direct to the internal cause not reached by cough syrups and patent medicines. The very first swallow usually relieves.

Thoxine is pleasant and safe for the whole family. Also excellent for sore throat. Quick relief guaranteed or your money back. 35c, 60c and $1.00. All druggists.

Better Than Any Diet

Pay less attention to what you eat; not one person in a thousand needs diet; or even feebly has indigestion. Acidity, flatulence and heartburn are caused by excess stomach acid and food fermentation. Following a hasty lunch, or too hearty a dinner, a little "Pape's Diapain," instantly neutralizes excess acidity, stops that fermentation, and soothes and heals the acid-induced stomach lining as if by magic. Your recovery is quick, and complete. Make a special point of getting a 60-cent package of "Pape's Diapain" from your druggist today, and so follow the example of millions all over the world who use "Pape's Diapain" to end indigestion and allied stomach troubles.

With "Pape's Diapain" handy you can eat and enjoy whatever you fancy without fear of pain or discomfort to follow. At any rate, it's worth the trial, for lots of folks have found a new freedom at the table.

It's "clear track ahead" and smooth riding for Tracy, since he learned how to take care of himself after exposure to wet and cold. Other pay-envelopes may be short, docked from three to ten days, other men may be finding themselves out of work because of too many absences—but not Tracy.

The minute he has one of those vague feelings of ill-health; or chilliness, sneezing, or tickling in the nose and throat; he takes GROVE'S BROMO QUININE. He doesn't wait and wonder if he is going to get worse. He takes this time-tested precaution that will help him get better.

The two important things to do are: first, be sure that you are getting the genuine and original cold and grip tablets by emphasizing GROVE'S when asking for GROVE'S BROMO QUININE. Second, don't wait. Take these pleasant tablets early, when their laxative and tonic effect may help you to side-step the cold entirely. But early or late, take GROVE'S BROMO QUININE to fortify the system against grip, "flu," and other serious ills which often develop from a cold. Price 30c.

A Record of What Has Been Accomplished Toward Providing St. Louis With The Best Possible Street Railway Transportation

More Seats Per Passenger

Although passenger traffic has fallen off 3%, service has not been reduced. As a result there are more seats per passenger. In fact, St. Louis street cars run more miles per capita of population than those of any other large city. It is inevitable that during the rush hours some passengers find it necessary to stand.

Greater Speed

The average speed of street cars in St. Louis has been increased from 9.81 miles per hour to 10.91 miles per hour. Kirkwood, Webster Groves and Maplewood cars now save from 5 to 12 minutes each way. Broadway and Bellefontaine cars save 7 and 8 minutes respectively. Delmar, University and Maryland cars have shortened their schedules 4 and 5 minutes, with the aid of the selective stop system on Olive Street. On virtually every line a saving in time has been made.

Cleanliness and Comfort of Equipment

Approximately 300 old cars have been retired. Inside and outside appearances have been improved by new two-tone color scheme, orange and cream outside, gray floors and cream ceilings inside. Lighting has been bettered 50% by substituting 36-watt frosted bulbs for 25-watt clear bulbs. Cars are kept clean by new shower bath and vacuum systems. Thirty cars a month are repainted, instead of 20 as last year and the speed of overhauling cars has been doubled.

The Sunday & Holiday Pass

On January 15, 1928, the Sunday and Holiday Pass was introduced to St. Louis and became an instant success. Passes sell for 25 cents and entitle the holder to ride as often as he likes on any line within the city-fare zone. An average of 35,000 are sold every Sunday. The average number of rides on each pass exceeds seven.

ON DECEMBER 1, 1928, the Public Service Company completed its first year as the new owners and operators of the street railway system of St. Louis and St. Louis County. It seems fitting that the Company should give to the public it serves a report of its stewardship during the 12-months period.

One year is relatively a short period...but in that time a good start has been made on the many improvements in service which the company hopes to achieve. Street cars are moving upon faster schedules. There are more seats per passenger in the cars today than ever before. The cars look brighter and fresher. They are kept clean and sanitary by improved cleansing methods. Cars are now easily distinguished at a distance by a system of route numbers, installed at a cost of over $40,000.

Bus service has been extended and the fares reduced; the universal transfer system simplified; unlimited riding Sundays and holidays, on 25c passes, introduced; token holders given free to patrons; the rear entrance plan, approved by popular vote of the riders, put into effect.

Behind the scenes other changes have taken place. Power increases on county lines...more rigid inspection of equipment...consolidation of car stations, with better facilities for employees...flood lighting in yards to expedite movement of cars in and out of stations. All these give foundation for better service.

Progress has been made the first year, and improvements will continue. There are re-routings to be considered...to shorten the distance between the car rider's home and downtown. Still faster service would result. Improvements in equipment will go on. In short, the ingenuity of modern thought upon mass transportation will be utilized to the end that St. Louis may have the best possible street railway transportation.

Bus Service

Additional bus lines, supplementing street car service, were introduced in the following districts: South Kingshighway, South Grand Boulevard, Maplewood-Richmond Heights and Maplewood-Webster Groves-Kirkwood. Other bus lines were changed and improved. Ten new 40-passenger Twin Coaches were purchased at a cost of $200,000.00. Applications for further extensions of bus service now are pending.

Lower Bus Fares

On June 1, 1928, bus fares were reduced from 10 cents, with 3-cent charge for transfers, to 8 cents and no extra charge for transfers. Fares on street cars and buses are now the same, with free transfers from one to the other.

New Transfer System

Regular transfers were simplified in form to enable conductors to issue them quickly. New special transfer tickets were introduced for passengers transferring to more than one line. Greater convenience to patrons, and speeding up of service were the results.

Free Token Holders

In order to encourage the use of tokens and speed up service over 100,000 metal token-holders were distributed among passengers. A holder was given free with the purchase of 10 tokens.

Public Appreciation

Evidence that the public appreciates efforts to improve service is found in the reduction of the number of complaints received by about half and a corresponding increase in the letters of commendation.

All complaints are investigated. Writers of complaints are informed fully of action taken to correct any faults in service. Constructive suggestions from car riders always are much appreciated.

The Company has endeavored to improve service and will continue that endeavor earnestly.

$2,000,000 PAID U. S. AGENTS AS DRY GRAFT

This Is Estimate of "Tribute" to Border Patrol on Canadian Line.

By the Associated Press.

DETROIT, Mich., Dec. 3.—With estimates before it that liquor graft in the customs border patrol service in the Detroit area annually approaches $2,000,000, a Federal grand jury today will resume its investigation in an effort to determine the scope of the alleged corruption.

Thirteen customs inspectors have been arrested thus far on charges of accepting bribes and tributes in a conspiracy to permit wholesale liquor smuggling from Canada. John R. Watkins, United States District Attorney, has estimated that approximately 100 inspectors will be dismissed from the service before the investigation ends and that half of that number of "liquor barons" will be indicted.

Watkins expects it will be necessary to bring a crew of customs agents here from other cities to replace the present patrol.

The grand jury took up the case following arrest of the 13 inspectors on information supplied by under-cover investigators. Watkins said 20 to 30 other members of the patrol probably will be indicted. The under-cover men were brought here on orders from Washington and their investigation was understood to have been conducted over a period of about eight months.

Six inspectors arrested were said by Federal investigators to have talked "freely" before the grand jury.

The estimate of $2,000,000 in tribute collected annually from liquor runners was based on the statement of Watkins that an average month's split of an individual member of the patrol was $1700 and that approximately 100 men are involved. The estimate is bolstered by previous estimates of prohibition enforcement officials that the liquor smuggling business in the Detroit area amounts to approximately $50,000,000 a year.

Summer C. Sleeper, head of the customs patrol forces, was quoted as having stated that tribute has been paid on liquor smuggled into this country across Detroit River.

PAYS $234 FOR TAXI RIDE FROM NEW YORK TO NIAGARA

Chicago Housemaid Vague on Geography, Held for $2100 Theft.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Dec. 3.—Dorothy Fannie Baker, 19-year-old housemaid of Chicago, arrived in New York with $2100 stolen from her employer, Mrs. Nellie Bauer.

One of the plans she had was to visit Niagara Falls, which she knew was somewhere around. So after registering at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel she stepped into a taxicab and said to the driver: "Niagara Falls."

"Where?" he asked. "Lady, I don't know any hotel by that name."

"I mean the waterfalls," said Dorothy.

After $200 had been deposited they started north. After an all-night drive she and Joe, the driver, arrived at the falls.

Before she left New York she had written one of her friends in Chicago, whose mother knew Mrs. Bauer, telling what a good time she was having. Detectives were waiting for her when the taxicab, the meter on which registered $234, returned her to the hotel.

Mrs. Eda Flower, 4145 West Pine Boulevard, Accused of Liquor Sale in Home.

Mrs. Eda Flower, 50 years old, proprietor of a rooming house at 4145 West Pine boulevard, was arrested for liquor violations Saturday night after two detectives and two police women reported that they had purchased beer at her home.

Detective Sergts. Wille and McKenna made the arrest and seized 50 quarts of beer in the house after Detectives Fisher and Hale, accompanied by Mrs. Estelle Fritch and Mrs. Hazel Hagerty, police-women, had bought beer from Mrs. Flower. She was released on bond pending application for warrants charging her with sale and possession of liquor.

Labor Fights for Full Time for Station WCFB, Chicago.

CHICAGO, Dec. 3.—Charges that the Government had intentionally discriminated against labor in the recent allocation of radio wave lengths were made yesterday by Edward Nockels, secretary of the Chicago Federation of Labor, at a meeting of the organization.

Nockels declared the Federation, with the aid of the American Federation of Labor, would fight for a free air channel and unlimited time. He charged that the Federal Radio Commission had "deliberately conspired against labor" by giving unlimited time and free air channels to stations owned by capital, while the Federation's station, WCFB, had been limited in time.

NEW AIR SERVICE PROPOSED

10 Fokker Planes for 10-Hour Denver-Los Angeles Schedule. DENVER, Colo., Dec. 3.—Officials of Western Air Express, Inc., yesterday announced plans for the inauguration next spring of a passenger plane service whereby it will be possible to make the trip from Denver to Los Angeles in 10 hours. Ten tri-motored Fokker planes have been ordered for this service. The eastern terminus of the route has not been determined. Tentative plans call for an all-daylight service between Denver and the east. The eastern terminus of the line may be Kansas City or St. Joseph, Mo., it was said.

Childers was arrested Thursday by Sheriff Phillips of Linn County and was taken to jail at Linneus.

An All Important Stimulus to Business

The railroads of the United States expended the enormous sum of $2,168,000,000 last year for materials, supplies, new equipment, and roadway investments. This money found its way into practically every channel of industry, was an important stimulus to all business activities, and provided employment all along the line from the production of the raw materials to the delivery of the finished articles.

By purchasing $176,000,000 worth of forest products, the railroads paid one-fifth of all wages in the lumber industry; by spending $439,000,000 for coal, they provided one out of every four dollars earned by the coal miners; and the $500,000,000 spent by the steam transportation systems for iron and steel requirements furnished one-fifth of the income of employees in that industry.

Thus the railroads make a tremendous contribution to the general prosperity and living standards of the country. There is no other single industry in all America that so vitally affects the immediate welfare of all classes of people, because, when the actual number of railroad employees is supplemented by the workers in industries largely dependent on the carriers, the great business of transportation becomes the backbone of our industrial life.

Railroad progress means business progress, whereas railroad retrenchment has a depressing effect on many basic industries employing millions of wage earners.

The good health of the railroads—which can result only from a reasonable return on invested capital—insures the industrial prosperity of the entire nation.

INFLUX OF ALIEN LABOR THREATENS U. S., DAVIS SAYS

Secretary to Urge Congress to Act Quickly to Prevent Ingress From Canada and Mexico.

CITES COURT RULING AS LOWERING BARS

Decisions Allow Foreign-Born Residents of Countries North and South to Cross Border for Work.

By the Associated Press.
 WASHINGTON, Dec. 3.—Warning of an impending breakdown in the country's control of immigration and an urgent request for legislation will be conveyed to Congress today by Secretary of Labor Davis.
 In a letter prepared for transmission to the chairman of the House and Senate Immigration Committees and made public, the Secretary declares it to be "imperative that Congress tighten the immigration law," as a result of court decisions, already delivered or expected, which allow foreign-born residents of Canada and Mexico the privilege of entering the United States. These decisions, the Secretary adds, have had wide implications of further release of immigration restrictions.
 The Secretary explained that the purpose of the communication was to seek immediate action by Congress without waiting for action on the Government's appeal to the Supreme Court from lower court decisions.

Cites Court Rulings.
 The situation, he says, arose primarily from district and appellate court rulings that foreign-born residents of Canada are entitled to cross and recross the American border for employment in this country without being considered immigrants. Native-born Canadians may now exercise such privilege. Even to the extent of working daily in some of the American border cities and returning to Canada nightly to maintain residence there.

The Labor Department has attempted to require a person of European or other foreign birth resident in Canada to obtain a passport visa and immigrant status from the country of nativity, but district courts at Buffalo and Detroit and the Circuit Court of Appeals in Philadelphia have ruled in favor of the aliens.
 Though the matter now awaits final ruling by the Supreme Court, Secretary Davis declares a decision against the Government in his opinion would cause more serious results than are generally expected. "If the decision stands, it would follow that any alien," the letter says, "seeking to enter the United States at any port of entry for the purpose of working or engaging in labor of any kind must be permitted to enter, so far as concerns the immigration act of 1924, if he intends to depart at the end of each week, or month, or each six months, or even less often. A great influx of laborers, even into interior cities, could be expected.

Says Gates of South Are Opened.
 "If the decision stands, it appears that the result will be not only that gates are thrown open on the Canadian border but borders of aliens can enter along the Mexican border and from the West Indies through ports of our Southern States."

The Secretary adds that if the decision stands, there also will be nothing to prevent aliens from Europe from coming here temporarily to work at purely local jobs. He thinks tens of thousands of aliens would seize the opportunity.

Bills to tighten the law should be introduced in Congress, he urged, as soon as possible. "The decision may even not be rendered before the expiration of this session," he adds, "and, if adverse to the Government, remedial legislation would likely not be possible before the next regular session, and in the absence of such legislation there would be a serious breakdown in the control of immigration."

Eleven sticks of dynamite, with fuses and percussion caps, were found yesterday morning on the rear steps of a saloon at 2625 South Jefferson avenue.
 Edward Mentrup, the proprietor, and Frank J. Heckwolf, the bartender who found the dynamite on reporting for work, both said they knew of no motive for the apparent attempt at violence.

ORANGE JUICE SUPPLEMENTS

VITAMIN C DEFICIENCY
It is an ideal food for underweight and undernourished children.

It is especially important that babies and children should have foods that contain vitamins. The child, whose body is in the growing stage, must have the proper foods to nourish that body.

A child that is underweight, lacking in vitality, listless, nervous, fretful, delicate, with slouching posture and drooping shoulders, is likely to be undernourished. Oranges, orange juice and lemonade are good foods for such a child.

Orange juice is a regular part of the diet of many babies. This juice supplements the vitamin C deficiency sometimes found in milk, making a complete and perfect food for the infant or young child.

The calcium mineral content of the orange also makes it a valuable food for babies and children, since this is a bone-building element needed especially by growing bodies.

SUGGESTIONS FOR WINTER BREAKFASTS

Include as Wide a Variety as Possible of Fruits and Cereals.

The dried fruits—prunes, figs, dates, raisins—may be served in a number of ways.

Prunes should be soaked overnight in cold water, then cooked very slowly in the same water until tender.

When cooked in this way the fruit will be sweet enough to be entirely palatable.

Dates may be steamed in a double boiler and made into a marmalade used for sandwiches, added to cereals, salads or desserts or used as a confection.

Stewed raisins make an attractive addition to the list of dried fruits, and as they are not served as generally as the other fruits, they offer something in the way of a novelty.

Next in order to the fruits in importance come the cereals. These include oatmeal, corn, wheat, bran, added to other cereals or served by itself.

The rules for cooking cereals call for actively boiling water, the amount depending on the kind of cereal selected; thorough cooking, the time required for this again depending upon the kind of grain used.

Dates, figs, raisins added to the cereal increase the food value, add to the attractiveness and palatability of the cereal, as well as increasing the laxative qualities of the dish.

HAM WITH CREOLE SAUCE
This is a Savory Dish for a Cold Winter's Day.

Baked or boiled ham cut one-half inch thick (use one large or two small slices), two good-sized onions, one-half green pepper, two tablespoons tomato puree, two tablespoons butter, two tablespoons flour, one cup water, salt, cayenne, paprika.

Method: Simmer thinly sliced onions in butter five minutes, add green pepper shredded and simmer five minutes longer. Stir in flour, tomato and seasonings, add water and cook slowly ten minutes. Place cooked ham in sauce, cover and reduce heat to lowest point. After five minutes turn ham in sauce, cover and keep simmering until heated through.

Unusual Vegetable Dish.
Cut equal number of boiled carrots and sweet potatoes in lengthwise slices. Place these in a well-greased baking dish. Sprinkle with salt, dot with butter, and pour corn syrup over the whole. Sprinkle with spice and bake until the syrup is thick.

SALADS NECESSARY IN WINTER MENUS

Many Persons Have the Erroneous Idea Salads Are Summer Food.

There was a time, and not so long ago, when salads were considered hot weather foods, and when winter came in salads were out, or were only served on very special occasions.

To be sure, that was partly because the approach of cold weather sent the price of such foods soaring.

Lettuce, romaine, watercress, endive, curly chloery—some or all of these may be had nowadays without difficulty, and at reasonable prices.

Salads are just as important in the winter diet as in the summer. In fact, they may be almost said to have a greater dietetic value. For the tendency is in the winter months to increase the amount of protein and fat foods. As these are the foods that increase the acidity of the body fluids it is necessary, if a condition of acidosis is to be avoided, to add a liberal amount of those foods that help to neutralize this acid condition, and for this there is nothing better than the salad greens, and combinations of the salad greens and the winter fruits.

Then, too, the raw vegetable, enter, or should enter, into the salad list. Raw cabbage, shredded raw carrots, young white turnips, celery, green pepper and onions are all good salad ingredients and possess the virtue of being fine sources of minerals and vitamins as well as helping to counteract the acids formed by the protein and fat foods. Canned vegetables, or the fresh cooked ones, can, of course, all be used as well.

There is probably as great a list of winter salads possible in the summer ones, and possibly too, without drawing on foods that are decidedly out of season. It is much better both from a dietetic as well as from an economic standpoint, as far as food is concerned, to make use of the things that are in season. The dressings that are served with the winter salads, especially the fruit salads, can very advantageously make use of the fruit juices, such as orange, grapefruit, pineapple or lemon in place of vinegar as the acid ingredient for the salad dressing.

Chicken Dishes Have an Appeal for Formal Meals

There are comparatively few people who do not relish this food. After all there is nothing so good for a formal dinner than chicken. This meat appeals to almost everyone and almost all persons may eat it whether or not they are dieting.

Chickens may be cooked in innumerable ways, baked, fried, fricasseed, pan broiled, in a pie, with dumplings and countless other ways. Fricassees of chicken and Cantonese chickens are nice ways of serving this fowl and here are recipes for making these dishes.

For fricasseed chicken take a three-pound fowl, four cups water, four tablespoons flour, one and one-half cups milk, a small onion, two tablespoons butter and one teaspoon salt.

Singe and wash chicken; cut into convenient serving pieces. Place in boiling water with sliced onion and bring quickly to boiling point. Let boil 15 minutes; reduce heat and simmer gently until tender. Make white sauce of butter, flour, milk and salt; add hot chicken stock. Arrange chicken on serving dish and pour over sauce.

To cook chicken a la Cantonese take two cups minced or shredded cooked chicken, one-half cup minced onion, one-fourth teaspoon pepper, one cup diced celery, one teaspoon salt, one cup well seasoned canned tomatoes and two cups cooked macaroni.

Mix all ingredients in this order: chicken, celery, onion, salt, pepper, macaroni and tomato. Turn into a greased casserole or baking dish and bake in a moderate oven 40 minutes.

Quick Tomato Sauce.
For a quick tomato sauce take one can of tomato soup, add one half cup hot water, one teaspoon butter and salt and pepper to taste. Bring to boiling point and serve piping hot.

Holiday Salad.
Equal quantities grapefruit and white grapes. Sprinkle with chopped walnuts and add two or three marshmallows for each serving.

Cranberry Sauce Economy.
Put up cranberry sauce in sterilized jars—pouring the sauce hot into the jars and sealing tightly. Keep in a dark, cool place.

Sautéed Pineapple.
Drain pineapple; dry on a clean towel; cook in little butter until delicately browned on both sides. Delicious with roast chicken.

A Dainty Tidbit.
Rub cottage cheese through sieve, put on buttered tin, cover. Garnish with a tart sauce.

FRUIT CAKE FOR THE CHRISTMAS HOLIDAYS

The Accepted Sweetmeat for Formal and Informal Entertaining.

Now is the time to make your holiday supply of fruit cake if you have not already made it. As a matter of fact, fruit cake, being so rich, takes a long, long while to become stale, so no time is too early to bake this holiday sweet.

However, on the other hand, it really is never too late to make fruit cake, for there are so many varieties and the less rich type may be selected when Christmas day is just in the offing.

A delicious, rich fruit cake is made with one cup shortening, one and one-half cups raisins, one cup eggs, two cups candied pineapples, one cup candied cherries, three-fourths cup candied citron, one-half cup candied lemon peel, one-half cup candied apricots, one-half cup strong made coffee, two cups flour, one teaspoon baking powder, one teaspoon mace, one teaspoon cinnamon, one-half teaspoon cloves and one-half teaspoon allspice.

Cream shortening, add sugar and cream again. Add unbeaten eggs, one at a time, beating all thoroughly after each addition. Add egg whites and fold into first mixture; beat for five minutes.

Bake in paper-lined loaf pan in a slow oven three hours; or steam four hours as pudding.

Some housewives prefer making the eggless fruit cake. If so, let them try this recipe:

Eggless Fruit Cake.
Take two cups brown sugar, two cups hot water, one-fourth cup shortening, one cup raisins, one teaspoon cinnamon, one teaspoon cloves, one teaspoon allspice, one-half teaspoon mace, one-half teaspoon nutmeg, three cups flour, one teaspoon baking powder and one-half teaspoon soda.

Place first nine ingredients in a sauce pan and boil five minutes after the boiling point is reached. Remove from fire and when cold, add the sifted dry ingredients. Thoroughly mix. Place in a well-papered loaf pan and bake in a moderate oven for two hours.

Still another popular variety of fruit cake is the white fruit cake which is made with one cup butter, two cups sugar, one-half cup candied citron, one cup candied cherries, one-fourth cup candied apple, one-fourth cup candied lemon peel, one and one-half cups almond meats, three and one-half cups pastry flour, two teaspoons baking powder, one-half teaspoon salt, one teaspoon mace, one cup milk or water, four teaspoons orange extract and six egg whites.

Cream butter; add sugar and cream again; add chopped fruits and nuts and mix well. Mix and sift dry ingredients and add to first mixture alternately with milk or water; add orange extract. Fold in stiffly-beaten egg whites and bake in loaf or tube pan in a moderate oven for two hours.

A fourth type of fruit cake is known as chocolate fruit cake. To make it take two squares of bitter chocolate, one-half cup water, one-third cup butter, one cup sugar, two eggs, one-fourth cup candied cherries, one-half cup dates, one-fourth cup nuts, one-half cup sour milk, one teaspoon vanilla, one and one-half cups sifted flour, one teaspoon baking powder, one-half teaspoon salt and two-thirds teaspoon soda.

Cook chocolate in water until dissolved and set aside to cool. Cream butter; add sugar and cream again. Add unbeaten eggs, one at a time, beating thoroughly after each addition. Add chopped fruits and nuts and when well mixed add milk and flavoring; then fold in sifted dry ingredients and chocolate. Bake in a loaf in a moderate oven 45 minutes.

READY-TO-USE COOKIE DOUGH
Having Cookie Dough Always Ready to Bake Appeals to Housewives.

Ice box cookies freshly baked and deliciously crisp, help to solve the problem of the hostess.

Dough may be kept in refrigerator a week to be sliced and quickly baked as needed without the double labor of rolling and cutting.

Lemons Are Versatile.
Lemons fall so readily into the role of a household asset that the modern woman plans always to have them on hand. And for convenience as well as economy, it is an advantage to buy them by the dozen. Their cost—always small—is even less by the dozen, and you are always certain of having a supply for every need—whether for beauty, health or kitchen use.

Fried Frog Legs.
Trim and clean the frog legs, sprinkle with salt and pepper, roll in crumbs, egg and crumbs again and fry in deep hot fat, about three minutes being required. Remove from fat, drain and serve with tartar sauce on hot platter, garnished with parsley.

Something Worth Knowing.
Many questions are asked about preventing frankfurters from opening while they are in process of cooking. Expert cooks advise that if the frankfurters are seared before they are cooked they will not burst open while cooking.

Maple Syrup Icing.
If you use maple syrup instead of milk or water, to mix the powdered sugar and butter for butter icing, you will have a delicious flavored icing, and something that is a little different.

Now is the time to make your holiday supply of fruit cake if you have not already made it. As a matter of fact, fruit cake, being so rich, takes a long, long while to become stale, so no time is too early to bake this holiday sweet.

However, on the other hand, it really is never too late to make fruit cake, for there are so many varieties, the less rich type may be selected when Christmas day is just in the offing.

A delicious, rich fruit cake is made with one cup shortening, one and one-fourth cups sugar, four eggs, two cups raisins, one cup currants, one cup candied pineapple, three-fourths cup candied cherries, three-fourths cup candied orange and candied lemon peel, one-half cup dried apricots, one-half cup strong made coffee, two cups flour, one teaspoon baking powder, one teaspoon mace, one teaspoon cinnamon, one-half teaspoon cloves and one-half teaspoon allspice.

Cream shortening, add sugar and eggs at a time, beating all thoroughly after each addition. Add finely cut fruits and coffee, and mix well together. Stir together dry ingredients and fold into first mixture; beat for five minutes. Bake in paper-lined loaf pan in a slow oven three hours; or steam four hours as pudding.

Some housewives prefer making the eggless fruit cake. If so, let them try this recipe:

Eggless Fruit Cake. Take two cups brown sugar, two cups hot water, one-fourth cup shortening, one cup raisins, one teaspoon cinnamon, one teaspoon cloves, one teaspoon mace, one-half teaspoon allspice, one teaspoon salt, three cups flour, one teaspoon baking powder and one-half teaspoon soda.

Place first nine ingredients in a sauce pan and boil five minutes after the boiling point is reached. Remove from fire and when cold, add the sifted dry ingredients. Thoroughly mix. Place in a well-papered loaf pan and bake in a moderate oven for two hours.

Still another popular variety of fruit cake is the white fruit cake which is made with one cup butter, two cups sugar, one-half cup candied citron, one cup candied cherries, one-fourth cup candied pineapple, one-fourth cup candied lemon peel, one and one-half cups almond meats, three and one-half cups pastry flour, two teaspoons baking powder, one-half teaspoon salt, one teaspoon mace, one cup milk or water, one teaspoon orange extract and six eggs whites.

Cream butter; add sugar and cream again; add chopped fruits and nuts and mix well. Mix and add dry ingredients and add to first mixture alternately with milk or water; add orange extract. Fold in stiffly-beaten egg whites and bake in loaf or tube pan in a moderate oven for two hours.

A fourth type of fruit cake is known as chocolate fruit cake. To make it take two squares of bitter chocolate, one-half cup water, one-third cup butter, one cup sugar, two eggs, one-fourth cup candied cherries, one-half cup dates, one-fourth cup nuts, one-half cup sour milk, one teaspoon vanilla, one and one-half cups sifted flour, one teaspoon baking powder, one-half teaspoon salt and two-thirds teaspoon soda.

Cook chocolate in water until dissolved and set aside to cool. Cream butter; add sugar and cream again. Add unbeaten eggs, one at a time, beating thoroughly after each addition. Add chopped fruits and nuts and when well mixed add milk and flavoring; then fold in sifted dry ingredients and chocolate. Bake in a loaf in a moderate oven 45 minutes.

COOK CHOCOLATE IN WATER UNTIL DISSOLVED AND SET ASIDE TO COOL. Cream butter; add sugar and cream again. Add unbeaten eggs, one at a time, beating thoroughly after each addition. Add chopped fruits and nuts and when well mixed add milk and flavoring; then fold in sifted dry ingredients and chocolate. Bake in a loaf in a moderate oven 45 minutes.

READY-TO-USE COOKIE DOUGH Having Cookie Dough Always Ready to Bake Appeals to Housewives.

For box cookies freshly baked and deliciously crisp, help to solve the problem of the hostess. Dough may be kept in refrigerator a week to be sliced and quickly baked as needed without the double labor of rolling and cutting.

Lemons Are Versatile. Lemons fall so readily into the role of a household asset that the modern woman plans always to have them on hand. And for convenience as well as economy, it is an advantage to buy them by the dozen. Their cost—always small—is even less by the dozen, and you are always certain of having a supply for every need—whether for beauty, health or kitchen use.

Fried Frog Legs. Trim and clean the frog legs, sprinkle with salt and pepper, roll in crumbs, eggs and crumbs again, and fry in deep hot fat about three minutes being required. Remove from fat, drain and serve with tartar sauce on hot platter, garnished with parsley.

Something Worth Knowing. Many questions are asked about preventing frankfurters from opening while they are in process of cooking. Expert cooks advise that if the frankfurters are scalded before they are cooked they will not burst open while cooking.

Maple Syrup Icing. If you use maple syrup instead of milk or water, to mix the powder sugar and butter for butter icing, you will have a deliciously flavored icing, and something that is a little different.

TUTTI FRUTTI CRACKERS

Easily Prepared and Attractive for the Afternoon Tea Table.

Boil one cup of sugar and one-half cup of water until it spins a thread, or to 235 degrees Fahrenheit on the sugar thermometer. Drop in six marshmallows cut in small pieces. Let stand until marshmallows are dissolved, then pour in a small stream on to the whites of two eggs beaten until stiff.

Add two tablespoons of shredded coconut, one-half cup of seeded raisins cut in halves, one cup of chopped English walnut meats and one-fourth teaspoon of vanilla; continue beating until cool. Spread thickly on suitcases and brown delicately in a hot oven.

This quantity will cover from three to four dozen crackers. These are always a favorite with children, are quickly and easily made, and good hot or cold. Wrap in heavy waxed paper for the lunch box.

APPETIZING CHILI

This Is a Cold Weather Dish Which Is Easily Made.

Two tablespoons fat, one pound beef cut in cubes, one-half teaspoon paprika, one green pepper, one cup kidney beans, one-half cup tomato, one onion, chopped. Salt and pepper.

Brown the meat in the hot fat, add the pepper and onion and fry golden brown. Add tomato, seasoning and water and cook until meat is tender. Cook beans separately. Combine meat and beans and bring to the boiling point. Serve hot.

Poached Eggs.

If you wish to have your poached eggs white-topped and creamy looking, just cover the pan and let the steam cook a film of white over the yolk. They are much more attractive.

Made with pure Concord Grape Juice. You'll like the Grape Flavor.

GOOD COOKS KNOW

The quantity of vanilla called for by the better recipes is based on pure vanilla extract. Price's Vanilla is the true essence of the world's choicest vanilla beans aged slowly in wooden casks to develop uniform strength and rich and mellow flavor. It is impossible to make a finer product. ## CONCERNING THE FOOD VALUE OF CHEESE

Choice of the Kind We Use Depends Largely on Individual Taste.

The popularity of cheese as a regular article of diet is rapidly increasing, and people are more and more becoming familiar with the many ways in which this wholesome, nutritious food can be used.

Time was, not so long ago, that here in America we looked upon cheese as something to eat with pie, or we wanted to be particularly festive, to use in making a Welsh rabbit. Once in a great while we would sprinkle a few shreds over macaroni and bake it, but that was the limit of our knowledge as to its uses.

When popular interest in nutrition became more general, cheese began to come into its own. Its high nutritive value has long been recognized, and this in combination with its flavor has helped a great deal in bringing it into wider use, for after all we eat those foods whose flavor we like.

And there are so many types of cheese that there is a flavor for every taste for they vary decidedly in flavor, ranging from a mild cream or cottage cheese to the strong Camembert and odoriferous Limburger.

The foundation of all cheese, however, is the same, namely, the curd of milk. It can, in fact, be considered as a concentrated form of milk and can be used to supplement part of the milk used in the diet.

It must be remembered that the curd of milk contains all of the protein of milk and a large part of the minerals. The amount of fat present varies according to the kind of cheese; when made from whole milk it is about the same as in milk.

CHEESE CRUST ADDS ECLAT TO PLAIN PUMPKIN PIE

You Will Never Be Satisfied With the Common Variety Again.

Cheese crust is suitable for apple pie, but it really is at its best with pumpkin filling. For special occasions, party lunches, etc., there is nothing better at any season of the year than individual pumpkin pies with a spoonful of whipped cream on top for a garnish. The whipped cream is not needed for its food value but it does add to the party effect as well as to the flavor, for there is something about a combination of pumpkin filling and whipped cream that is very smooth and delicious.

Pumpkin filling is really a variety of custard and it should be treated during baking as a custard pie. For, as you know perhaps, the secret of good custard lies largely in the baking. It is rather difficult to reconcile the baking of a custard at a low temperature with the baking of pie crust which needs a hot oven—there is nothing to do except compromise and start the pie in a very hot oven to set the crust, then reduce the heat so that the custard may be cooked slowly. Any mixture that is rich in egg will separate or curdle if it is cooked at too high a temperature.

To make cheese crust take two cups flour, one-half cup shortening, one cup grated cheese and one-half teaspoon salt and water.

A nice pumpkin filling is made with two eggs, one and one-half cups pumpkin, canned or fresh, one and one-half cups milk, one-half teaspoon salt, two-thirds cup sugar, brown or white, one teaspoon cinnamon and one teaspoon ginger.

Blend sugar, salt and spices. Mix with pumpkin. Stir in beaten eggs and milk. Fill the unbaked shell almost to the top. Bake in a hot oven until edges of crust start to brown, then reduce heat and cook slowly until filling is thick, about 40 minutes.

Canape De Luxe. This tempting little appetizer is served at the beginning of the meal, and is delicious when made of a round of toast spread with any of the following mixed mayonnaises and Worcestershire sauce or tabasco; grated cheese; ground nuts; chopped olives; minced ham; egg or sardines mashed to paste. Garnish with a slice of tomato or cucumber, and a spoonful of mayonnaise.

Peanuts are Valuable Food. Peanuts contain two proteins, both of which contain all of the essential amino acids. Shelled peanuts contain 40 to 50 per cent of oil which can be very satisfactorily used for making salad dressings and for cooking purposes.

Grapefruit Salad. Wash, dry and chill endive. Arrange on salad plates and place a mound of grapefruit pulp on each plate. Sprinkle with crumbled Roquefort cheese. Pour well seasoned French dressing over all.

Apricot and Prune Sandwich. Cook fruits and mash them. Mix thoroughly together and spread on thinly cut slices of buttered nut bread.

FUNNY FACE SANDWICHES

Just the Thing to Serve at Parties for Little Boys and Girls.

Sixteen rounds of Boston brown bread, two inches in diameter, one-quarter cup butter, one-quarter cup pimento cheese, one-eighth teaspoon salt.

Cream the butter and cheese. Add the salt and carefully spread on eight of the rounds of bread. On the other eight cut out facial features. Place the cut-out rounds on top of the buttered ones and arrange flat on a serving tray or platter.

A thimble may be used to make the eyes and a sharp knife for the nose and mouth. Various comical features may be made with little effort.

F. M. PEBBLES, ARTIST, DIES

He Painted Portraits of Grant and Ingersoll.
By the Associated Press.
ALAMEDA, Cal., Dec. 3.—Frank M. Pebbles, 89 years old, who painted portraits of Ulysses S. Grant, Robert Ingersoll and Premier Laurier of Canada, died here yesterday.

Pebbles started studying art at the age of 17, and moved to Chicago after the Civil War. Many of his earlier works were destroyed in the Chicago fire of 1871. He came here for the Panama-Pacific Exposition of 1915, and remained in California.

WOMAN WITH CHILD IN ARMS IN HOLDUP PARTY

Filling Station Man Fixes Tire, Then Is Robbed of Pay and $13.
Two men and a woman with a young child in her arms drove up to the service station at 1617 Tower Grove avenue last night and had the manager, John S. Hughes, fix a flat tire for which they paid him half a dollar. While the others remained in the car, one of the men followed Hughes to his cash register, held him up and took $13.50, which included the half dollar. The party then drove away.

Burglars netted $442 from the safe of the Joseph Peters Furniture Co., 1427 North Fifteenth street, over the week-end, it was discovered this morning.

A safe in the office of Manne Bros. Furniture Co., 5615 Delmar boulevard, was forced open during the night and about $200 stolen.

Two men held up two clerks at the Kingsbury Pharmacy, 5960 Kingsbury avenue, and escaped with $30. This was the third holdup in a machine which he admitted stealing from near Delmar and Grand boulevards in St. Louis.

He told police the prisoners dug the hole in the wall Friday night and replaced the brick to await an opportunity to escape.

James Hamilton, 16, under two-year sentence for automobile theft, was recaptured at his home in St. Louis by police this afternoon and he had previously pleaded not guilty.

The fugitives still at large are Charles Dyanick and his brother, William Spede, W. H. Healy and Elwood Selds, a Negro.

Mrs. Dorothy Dolgin, 1380 Clara avenue, reported a tin box into which members of the family dropped coins intended for charity was looted yesterday by a sneak thief who took about $4 and left 100 pennies.

Bernard Routh, 1445 Carr Lane, one of a group of applicants to join the police force who were examined at Police Headquarters Nov. 28, reported he missed his $52.50 watch later.

THREE CONVICTS RECAPTURED, ONE SHOT, AFTER ESCAPE

By the Associated Press.

MORRIS, Ill., Dec. 3.—Three convicts who escaped from the Joliet prison today after hiding a guard and taking a prison truck were captured shortly after noon today on the outskirts of Dwight, by a state highway policeman who shot and wounded one of the men before they surrendered.

Milton Beier, the officer, was patrolling Highway No. 4 when he saw the three men in a corn field. As he approached one of them showed fight and the patrolman shot him through the shoulder.

The others surrendered and the wounded man was taken to a hospital and his companions to jail. The men were Melvin Smith, 26 years old; Leroy Sapp, 22 and Frank Trossan, 43, who was shot.

SHOE STORE SAFE ROBBED; CLERK AND EX-MANAGER HELD

The safe at the Hanover Shoe Co., 715 Olive street, was forced of $251.65 last night under circumstances which caused police to detain the assistant manager, Roy Richrath, 20 years old, 1617 Beitz avenue, and the former manager, Walter Shipp, 30, 2636 Delmar boulevard.

At 2 o'clock this morning Richrath telephoned the present manager, Charles Orndy, 4258 Oregon avenue, and announced he had been robbed of the key to the store and the combination to the safe. He said he had been on a drinking spree with Shipp and later had found himself alone in Forest Park.

Richrath and Shipp were questioned at headquarters. Police announced the two confessed that Richrath had taken the money from the store safe and turned it over to Shipp, who wanted to gamble, Shipp promising to return the money and share his winnings with Richrath. However, Shipp lost all the money in a game at Venice and Richrath invented the robbery story to cover up, police reported.

7 OF 13 EAST ST. LOUIS JAIL BREAKERS CAUGHT

Four Captured in Stolen Auto at Carlyle, Ill. — One Surrenders.

Six of the 13 prisoners who escaped Saturday night from the East St. Louis Police Headquarters, through a hole dug in the rear brick wall of the building, have been recaptured and a seventh gave himself up at noon today.

Four were caught at Carlyle, Ill., yesterday in a stolen automobile. They are Henry George, James Mosley, Melton George and Norman Goins. The capture resulted from their refusal to pay for four gallons of gasoline at a Trenton filling station. The station attendant notified deputy sheriffs, who caught them at Carlyle. They were returned to East St. Louis last night. The car in which they were riding had been stolen from Walter Jeffers, an employee of the Louisville & Nashville roundhouse, Saturday night.

Thomas de Blase, Negro, was retaken by East St. Louis police several hours after his escape as he drove over the Municipal Bridge in a machine which he admitted stealing from near Delmar and Grand boulevards in St. Louis.

He told police the prisoners dug the hole in the wall Friday night and replaced the brick to await an opportunity to escape.

James Hamilton, 16, under two-year sentence for automobile theft, was recaptured at his home in St. Louis by police this afternoon and he had previously pleaded not guilty.

The fugitives still at large are Charles Dyanick and his brother, William Spede, W. H. Healy and Elwood Selds, a Negro.

Three New Members of Bench, Democrats, Attend General Session of Jurists.

Assignments of the Circuit Judges for next year were made at a general session of the judges today, to which were invited the three Democrats elected to the bench, who will be the only new figures in the courts on taking office Jan. 1.

The assignments given the Democrats are: M. N. Sale, one year in Division No. 2, an equity section, succeeding Judge Mix; J. H. Ryce, six months in No. 4, a jury room, succeeding Judge Frey, son-in-law of Sale, who did not seek re-election; James J. Green, six months in No. 2, a jury room, succeeding Judge Landwehr, who goes to No. 14, an equity division, for a year.

Judge Peary will become presiding judge for six months by virtue of his transfer to the assignment division, No. 1, in place of Judge Hogan, who goes to No. 15, Court of Domestic Relations and Juvenile Court, for a year. Judge Ossing, who was in No. 14, will take charge of No. 2, a jury division, for six months, succeeding Judge Itner, who failed of re-election. Judge Taylor will have No. 16, Court of Domestic Relations, for six months, in place of Judge Killore, who will follow Judge Peary for six months in No. 5, a jury section.

In the criminal divisions, Judges Hall, Hartmann and Rutledge will retain their places. Judges Rosskopf, Calhoun, Falkenhainer and Hamilton will not move from their present civil jury rooms.

Choosing an all-star team of any kind is never an easy job, and in making my selections for the All-Pacific Coast eleven this year I was certainly not confronted with any fewer problems than usual. As usual, a number of very good men had to be relegated to the second and third teams, and some received only honorable mention because there were better players for their positions.

DETROIT MOVES WITHIN 1 POINT OF HOCKEY LEAD

NEW YORK, Dec. 3.—The New York Rangers, leaders of the American division of the National Hockey League, find themselves hard pressed by the battling Cougars of Detroit.

The Rangers lead the American division last night, the Americans being the only team from that group to swing into action. The Montreal Maroons are the leaders at present with nine points. A point behind are the Americans, the Canadiens of Montreal, and the Toronto Maple Leafs. Ottawa brings up the rear with seven points.

The standings, including the Detroit-Americans game of last night, follow:

ITALIAN AND SPANISH SOCCER PLAYERS RIOT IN GAME AT FRISCO

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 3.—Fifteen minutes of rioting ended a soccer football game here yesterday between Union Sportiva Italiana and Union Espanola, respectively Italian and Spanish athletic clubs.

The trouble started over a disputed goal which the referee allowed the Italians, making the score 4 to 2 in their favor. Onlookers said two Spanish rioters struck referee George Hynd, who retorted in kind. Nearly 100 excited spectators rushed into the fight, which lasted for 15 minutes in a downpour of rain. Umbrellas and fists were the weapons.

After order had been restored without police interference, Union Espanola refused to continue the game. Both team and rioters left the field.

Amateur players in Mexico show natural aptitude, Johnson said. The second game of the double-header was won by a home run in the eleventh inning. The winning team represented Mexico City's Police Department. So delighted was Johnson at the fast baseball played, he said, that he would present the victorious team with new uniforms.

Johnson's offer was promptly accepted, and on the day following, he was given the measure of the list even including the sizes of shoes for the players. The order was filed with a sporting goods house, and the Police Department team will soon be playing in equipment supplied by Johnson.

PITTSBURG TO MEET HUSKERS NEXT FALL

LINCOLN, Neb., Dec. 3.—The University of Pittsburgh Panthers, the team that battled the Cornhuskers to a scoreless tie this fall, will meet Nebraska here again Oct. 19, 1929. Herbert D. Gish, director of athletics at the University of Nebraska, announced yesterday.

The Panther-Huskies date is the one that formerly was assigned to Southern Methodist University of Dallas Texas. Negotiations with S. M. U. were suspended this week when the contract was returned unsigned by the authorities of the Dallas institution.

Ban Johnson, Home From Mexico, Finds Baseball Booming There

By Damon Kerby.

Ban Johnson, former president of the American League, in better condition physically than at any time since his breakdown in health, sometime ago, was in St. Louis today, enroute from Mexico City to Chicago. Johnson went to the Mexican metropolis three weeks ago to present the Amateur Baseball Federation there with a large trophy as a means of stimulating interest in baseball. On his arrival here yesterday he reported that the game has advanced remarkably in the Southern Republic.

Johnson first visited Mexico eight years ago. He said he was given such a cordial welcome that he since has retained friendly contacts with high Government and baseball officials there, and his presenting the trophy is only one of several moves he has made to popularize baseball in Mexico. Amateur teams of Mexico City will compete for the right to have their names inscribed on the trophy.

The three strongest teams in the federation, two weeks ago yesterday, competed in a "Johnson day" doubleheader in honor of the former American League head. More than 5000 persons watched the games, according to Johnson, many of whom were players from the 22 teams which comprise the federation.

There is a likelihood that baseball will take the place of bull fights as the popular sport attraction of the southern country, Johnson asserted, but the latter sport still has a strong grip on the public there.

Baseball-Bull Fight Doubleheader. One indication of this was shown when the Johnson day doubleheader was started at 10:10 a. m. so that it might be completed before a bull fight was scheduled to start in the afternoon. The bull fight drew 20,000 spectators, it was reported.

When other cities in Mexico have become better acquainted with baseball, it is not unlikely that a professional league will be formed, Johnson said.

Newspapers of Mexico, particularly the Excelsior, Mexico City's leading newspaper, have recognized the possibilities of baseball, Johnson reports. The Johnson day celebration was given precedence over all other sport news in the newspapers of the city.

Although Johnson is no longer connected with the game officially in any form or manner, the trip to Mexico City solely in the interest of baseball, shows that the game still holds as it has for the past 40 years, Johnson's chief interest.

A St. Louisman, Walter Pritch, vice president of the Browns, accompanied Johnson. The latter will leave for Chicago today.

EDGEMONT A. C. AND SLACKS WIN AT SOCCER

The Edgemont A. C. and the Slacks took the lead as the second half of the East St. Louis Municipal Soccer League split-season opened, the Edgemonts winning from the Waverlys, 2 to 0, and the Slacks downing the Madisons, 3 to 0. In each game the first half was scoreless.

How They Finished

EAST -- Boston College by beating Holy Cross, finished with best record, nine victories, no defeats or ties. Villa Nova, undefeated in smaller college group, but tied once. Pennsylvania, Princeton, Brown, Lafayette and Carnegie beaten only once each but New York University, Army, Georgetown, West Virginia and Pittsburgh beaten twice in spite of otherwise impressive performances.

BIG TEN -- Illinois retains title after close race, with Wisconsin runnerup. All teams beaten at least once.

BIG SIX -- Nebraska, the champion, winning all five conference games, but beaten by Army and tied by Pittsburgh.

SOUTHERN CONFERENCE -- Florida and Georgia Tech, each with eight straight victories, in lead prior to final conference game this week when Florida plays Tennessee, tied once, and Tech meets Georgia.

SOUTHWESTERN CONFERENCE -- Texas holds title, with five victories and one defeat in conference play. Arkansas runnerup.

ROCKY MOUNTAIN CONFERENCE -- Utah captured championship, finishing conference slate with four victories, no defeats and one tie. Colorado University runnerup.

PACIFIC COAST CONFERENCE -- Southern California, with four victories and one tie, tops list by narrow margin over California, showing three victories and two ties.

"CHING" JOHNSON OUT FOR TWO MONTHS WITH SEVERE HOCKEY INJURY

MONTREAL, Que., Dec. 3.—"Ching" Johnson, star defense man of the New York Rangers of the National Hockey League, will be out for two months with a severe injury to his right leg, sustained in a game at Montreal last night.

Johnson sustained the injury while playing for the Rangers in a game at Montreal last night. He is expected to be out for two months.

JOPLIN GOLFER IS THIRD IN HAWAIIAN EVENT

HONOLULU, Dec. 3.—A golf tournament between "Wild Bill" McGee of New York and Fred Morrison of Alhambra, Cal., to determine the winner of first prize in the $25,000 open golf tournament will be held tomorrow.

Mehlhorn and Morrison were tied at 291 for the low score in the 72-hole tournament. Morrison won yesterday. Horton of Joplin was in third place with a 292. Fourth place was shared by Al Espinosa of West Glendale, and Francis Brown, an amateur champion of Hawaii, with 293. Tommy Armour, Washington, was next with 297.

LIGHT MEETS TEST IN BOUT WITH ROBERTS

CHICAGO, Dec. 3.—Billy Light, St. Paul's slashing welterweight, is expected to get one of the hardest tests in his ring career when he meets Johnny Roberts of Huntington, W. Va., in a 10-round bout at the Hippodrome arena tomorrow night.

Roberts has impressed the St. Paul crowd as a real contender in the welterweight crown because of his shiftness and ability to punch hard with either hand. Light is expected to win a match for the title if he can dispose of Roberts.

SCHULZE RUSSELLS HELD TO A TIE SCORE BY THE SHREVES IN SOCCER UPSET

The intense rivalry which has been in evidence between the Angelicas and the Schulze team, leaders in the Group Two race at Fairground Park, led to a general fight in the second half of yesterday's Municipal Soccer League match. No wounded were carried off but Halfback Jim Worden of the Schulze team suffered what was thought to be a fractured rib. Worden continued to play for five minutes after he was injured. The game ended in a scoreless tie. The Schulze eleven thus retaining its advantage of one point in the standings.

A strong wind from the east enabled the Angelicas to force an end into the Schulze territory in the second half. All of the Angelica players except the goalkeeper, Kloss, engaged in the offensive. Play grew rough. When Halfback Panny of the Angelicas, jolted goaltender Bernot, the latter landed a punch on Bernot's head. A general give-and-take followed while Referee Tommy Lyster looked on. A truce was declared and the game went on with no players ejected by the referee. Earlier in the match, Halfback Gamewell of the Schulze club and McQuill of the Angelicas, exchanged punches in midfield but neither was punished.

In the opening game of the double-header on Group 2 grounds, the Russell team met with a surprise at the hands of the Angelica team. The Russell team, which had a lead of 2 to 0 early in the second half when suddenly the Shreves came to life, scoring their first goal of the season and forcing the Russell team to a tie. of the convention were that little if any hope could be held out for the passage of the revised plan through the conventions as such action must be unanimous and formal objection to it has been voiced by two leagues.

Although the convention proper will not be called to order until Wednesday morning the 400 or more baseball men expected to attend have reached Toronto to sit in on committee meetings and annual sessions of some of the leagues.

City Officials Planning to Submit Additional Bond Issue Probably of $1,000,000 for Work.

Developed at a conference in Controller Norris' office today that at least $1,000,000 more will be needed to complete the imposing new civil courthouse, for which $1,000,000 was provided in the 1923 bond issue, and city officials are planning to submit an additional issue for the structure, probably $1,000,000, at the April municipal election.

The conference was called at the request last week of Judges Killman and Calhoun, representing the circuit bench, and they were joined today by Judge William Decker of the St. Louis Court of Appeals. The judges had understood that the original $4,000,000 would suffice to make the Circuit Court rooms and offices available, and that $175,000 recently advanced from municipal revenue would pay for finishing the space of the Court of Appeals and the St. Louis Law Library, presence of the latter being regarded as essential by the judges.

Last week, when the Circuit judges' representatives protested against the need for more money, city officials told them only $120,000 would be needed in addition to the $175,000. Today, however, President Kinsey of the Board of Public Service, which has charge of public buildings, submitted a plan showing that at least $1,000,000 more will be needed, disregarding the temporary advance of $175,000, which would have to be repaid to the general treasury.

Additional Work Costs.

Kinsey estimated the additional work required would cost $750,000, as follows: Completing furnishings of the 14 Circuit and Probate court rooms immediately, $150,000; cabinet work, $55,000; heating in courtrooms, $100,000; lighting fixtures for the building, $55,000; automatic elevator in Circuit Court's office, $70,000; temporary entrance steps at the main doors, $20,000; food lights at night as a civic asset, $12,000; cork tile floors in the courtrooms, $15,000; finishing Court of Appeals and Law Library, $250,000; granite entrance steps, $15,000; completion of 13 Circuit Court rooms needed in the future, $410,000.

Offsetting this total, there is an appropriated but unexpended balance of the bond issue of $1,000,000, a total of $355,268. The $400,000 in bonds were sold at a discount of $19,000. Expended for completion of contracts have amounted to $1,232,402. Kinsey reported, and for contracts under $2,500,328, a total of $3,925,721. Extra work under the contract included in the foregoing figures has amounted to $43,315, net, and would have been $71,269 higher but for certain credits.

No provision was made in Kinsey's accounts for embellishment of the grounds surrounding the courthouse, which occupies a site covering a city block. Kinsey declared that this feature would be paid for as part of the Memorial Plaza project. In the past, he has stated that the plaza bond item likely would suffice only for acquisition of the site, that city center, and that another bond issue would be needed for consummating it.

Attitude of Comptroller.

Comptroller Nolte proposed the bond issue for the courthouse and asked Kinsey to write him in official recommendation of it. Nolte insisted, in reply to the judges, that he could not advance any more funds for the structure from municipal revenue, as city finances could not stand the burden that he did not favor submission of any other bond items in April, for fear of the effect on the city, unless the final decision of the Supreme Court of Missouri on the $2,000,000 airport bond issue voted last August should make it necessary to resubmit that measure.

In a letter read to Nolte at the meeting, Kinsey explained that the Courthouse was designed to meet the needs of the city for many years to come and that those who planned the 1923 bond issue could not possibly have foreseen the amount necessary to erect it with proper provisions for the future. He said it would have been an insupportable waste for city officials to have erected a smaller and less pretentious structure that would soon prove inadequate. There is an apology, he asserted, for the present situation, but the policy should be to complete the building as and when the funds become

PLANE WRECKED AT LAMBERT FIELD; TWO ESCAPE INJURY

Machine Piloted by William Chaudet Overturned After Unsuccessful Takeoff.

A Travel-Air plane, owned and piloted by William Chaudet, president of the General Brake Service Co., 2727 Locust boulevard, was wrecked yesterday morning when it turned over following an unsuccessful attempt by Chaudet to take off with a passenger at Lambert-St. Louis Field.

According to witnesses, Chaudet tried to take off down wind and after getting off the ground found that he could not clear the Thirty-fifth Division Air Service hangars in his path. He attempted to land and the plane turned over on its back as the undercarriage gave way. Neither Chaudet nor the passenger, whose name was not learned, was hurt. The plane will have to be rebuilt.

WOOTEN'S LAWYER WITHDRAWS

Ex-Convict Now Has No Attorney for Trial Set for Next Monday. Special to the Post-Dispatch.

With his trial on a charge of bank robbery scheduled to begin here a week from today, Freddie Wooten, former Birger gangster and convicted kidnaper, has withdrawn his lawyer, C. W. Burton of Edwardsville, has notified him of his withdrawal from the case and it is possible because of that fact that Wooten may ask a continuance.

Wooten is charged with complicity in the robbery of the Bond County State Bank at Pocatocah on Nov. 30, 1928. Wooten, who was arrested yesterday for questioning by police of the Wyoming street district because they had been spending money freely, admitted they had held up four police officers in the same district, obtaining $38. One is 18, the other 16 years old. The younger boy said he carried a pistol loaded with blank cartridges in the robberies.

ACTION ON SINCLAIR'S PLEA EXPECTED SOON

Supreme Court Sets Hearing for Jan. 7 on Inquiries by Lower Body.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2.—Prompt action by the Supreme Court in the contempt proceedings against Harry F. Sinclair for refusal to answer questions put to him by the Senate Oil Investigating Committee was forecast today when his case was advanced for hearing Jan. 7.

Sinclair was sentenced to 30 days in jail and fined $500 by the District of Columbia Supreme Court, and took his case to the Court of Appeals. After having it several months, that court asked for instructions from the Supreme Court on five points raised in challenging the conviction.

It asked whether a witness summoned before a Congressional committee in an inquiry being conducted to aid legislation is permitted to refuse to answer questions calling for the disclosure of his private affairs, and whether the information sought by the Senate Committee could lawfully be obtained only by judicial proceedings. Other questions were whether he was justified in refusing to answer should it be found that the committee's inquiry related to matters which had already been referred by Congress to the courts and had resulted in proceedings in which Sinclair was a defendant; whether the questions of the committee would be determined only by a jury trial or were solely questions of law for the judge, and whether Sinclair, being a party to an alleged conspiracy to defraud the United States, with court proceedings instituted against him, could lawfully refuse to answer questions which involved his connection with the contracts, forming the basis of the contempt proceedings.

CORN CLOSES HIGHER ON LOCAL EXCHANGE

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Dec. 2.—Notwithstanding a decline in the price of wheat, corn closed higher today on the local exchange. The market was influenced by continued trading in the futures, which was heavily influenced by the fact that the crop of 1929 is expected to be about 1,200,000,000 bushels, or about 100,000,000 bushels more than the crop of 1928. The market was also influenced by the fact that the crop of 1929 is expected to be about 1,200,000,000 bushels, or about 100,000,000 bushels more than the crop of 1928.

Cools Itching
Skin Troubles

Exema torture yields to famous antiseptic

"No longer do I suffer from burning itching skin irritations. Now my skin is clear and velvety smooth. The secret is Dr. Denon's famous prescription called D. D. D. For quick relief from pimples, blotches, eczema, scales, rashes, and other skin troubles, try pure cooling liquid D. D. D. Its healing elements penetrate the skin and soothe the irritated tissues, itching stops instantly. Clear, greasy, and stinging almost immediately. The bottle will prove the merits of this famous antiseptic to your money back. At all drug stores or send to D. D. D. Laboratory, Batavia, Illinois.

For quick relief from sore throat

Whether among the children or adults, sore throat is a condition which calls for prompt and proper treatment. Neglect is often dangerous. Do not, therefore, trust ordinary antiseptics, cold remedies or cure-alls to correct this serious trouble, but use Tonsiline—made especially for sore throat and for over 30 years recommended, sold and used successfully for sore throat and nothing else. Use it as soon as you notice the first symptoms. Any druggist will tell you it is the most dependable treatment. 35c and 60c. Hospital size $1.00.

COLDS MAY DEVELOP INTO PNEUMONIA

Coughs from colds may lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medical discovery with two-fold action: it soothes and checks the growth of the germs, heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for coughs from colds and bronchial irritations. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs. Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

MRS. BERMINGHAM,
FRIEND OF BLIND, DIES

Funeral Tomorrow at Institution of Which She Was President.

Mrs. Anna Bayless Bermingham, president of the Blind Girls' Home, 5235 Page boulevard, since 1917, and for the last 50 years devoted to charitable work for the blind, died Saturday at Christian Hospital of pneumonia that developed after an operation. She was 66 years old and lived at 1012 Irma avenue, University City.

Funeral services will be held tomorrow at 2 p. m. in the institution where activities she has directed for 11 years, and where 23 residents she knew personally. The body will remain at a funeral chapel at 3846 Lindell boulevard until tomorrow morning.

Mrs. Bermingham, according to a sister, Mrs. J. T. Lynch, who lived with her, first became interested in work for the blind when she was a child of 10. A blind fiddler played on a street corner near her home, and she made his acquaintance and gave him pennies. Later, through an organization to help the blind, she visited the homes of persons who had not the use of their eyes and read to them.

Twenty-five years ago, Mrs. Bermingham became a member of the Blind Girls' Home Association and had since taken an active part in its affairs. She organized entertainments for those who lived at the home, made it a point to know each of them and had much to do with the founding of the small hospital at the home that made it possible for the sick to be treated on the premises, instead of at other institutions.

The Blind Girls' Home is a charitable institution and none of the officers receive a salary. Mrs. Bermingham's work, as that of the other officers, was purely philanthropic.

She is survived by three sisters, Mrs. Lynch, Mrs. E. F. Donzelot and Mrs. Elizabeth Goehring, and by two brothers, J. E. Bayless and George Bayless. Mrs. Bermingham's husband, William Bermingham, who was associated with the Cupples Woodenware Co., died 16 years ago.

KANSAS CITY WOMAN WINNER
IN MID-WEST RADIO AUDITION

Gladys Morrison Ball, Coloratura Soprano, Will Compete in National Grand Finals.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3.—Gladys Morrison Ball of Kansas City, coloratura soprano, and Wilfred A. Engelmann, Detroit, baritone, today were selected as winners in the semifinals of the Midwestern states in the National Radio Audition completed at Station WMAQ, Chicago, Nov. 24.

The announcement, made by headquarters of the National Radio Audition, said they would compete in the grand finals at New York, Dec. 15, with winners from other sections.

Other sectional champions are:—Hazel Arth, Washington, D. C., contralto, and Kenneth Hines, Buffalo, N. Y., tenor. "Dixie"—Carmen Rossell, soprano, and Ernest Ferrara, baritone, both of New Orleans. Southwest—Anna Chandler, Fayetteville, Ark., coloratura soprano, and Patrick Henry Wilson, Galveston, Tex., baritone. Far West—Irene Kilgore, Oakland, Cal., coloratura soprano, and Donald Novis, Pasadena, Cal., tenor.

Thelma Vallette, Cleveland, soprano, won second place in the girls' division of the Mid-West semifinals, and Phyllis D. Nowak, Milwaukee, Wis., soprano, third place. Chester Ewers, Evanston, Ill., tenor, was runner-up in the men's division, with Emerson W. Brown, St. Louis, third.

Mrs. Ball, the winner, a bride of less than six months, was the runner-up in the Midwest finals of 1927. Engelmann, who is 24, attended Notre Dame University and sings with St. Aloysius choir of Detroit.

The young man and young woman who win the grand finals each will receive $5000 in cash and a two-year conservatory scholarship.

VETERANS' HOSPITAL HERE MAY GET $900,000 FUND

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

EXCELSIOR SPRINGS, Mo., Dec. 3.—Unless the people of Excelsior Springs pledge $2250 by tonight, the $900,000 appropriation for enlarging the Veterans' Bureau Hospital here, will be diverted to a hospitalization program at Jefferson Barracks, according to word received from E. L. Morse and Representative L. C. Dyer, who are in Washington striving to assure the completion of the special project.

The $2250 would be used to make up the difference between the amount the Government is willing to pay for the desired land and the lowest option figures the Government has been able to obtain, Dyer said.

THE CRAWLEY ROBBERY

By Evelyn Johnson and Gretta Palmer

AT THREE in the afternoon the snow that had been falling steadily for several hours appeared to be stopping. Tommy Gallagher swung his cab into the main street of town and headed toward the Leighton National Bank with a reasonable expectation of picking up one final fare before finishing the day's work.

As he neared the banking institution an unimpressive little man carrying a newspaper and a small package emerged from the doorway, and hailed the approaching taxi with a wave of the newspaper. Beside him was a slight woman of indeterminate age and coloring. They gave an address a good two miles away, on the very outskirts of town, and in precisely the opposite direction from Tommy's own ultimate destination. Tommy spat expressively. "Rotten roads. Long drive, come back light, and a dime tip. I know 'em!" Tommy considered seriously the advantages of joining the police force like his brother Patrick. Pat got free drinks, anyhow.

Behind him the couple for whom he felt such a lively scorn were in a far more cheerful frame of mind. During the halt necessitated by the passing of a railroad train even the harassed driver was forced to smile as his lady passenger undertook to describe to her spouse the elaborate garment which she planned to wear to a party that evening.

"All right, Mary," said her husband indulgently. "Here, you better take them now and put them in your bag. Don't want to forget them in the taxi, Mrs. Crawley. Here, take 'em and be careful of 'em."

"I certainly will, and remind me to phone the drugstore before I go upstairs, Henry. I have to have those curlers by the time I've had a bath." Just then the gates lifted, and they went on.

The car ultimately drew up before a neat suburban villa such as one would have expected. The snow had ceased, and a thoughtful Negro was languidly sweeping the top of it from the 10-foot brick walk that led to the front door. As he had anticipated, Tommy Gallagher's tip was in strict accordance with the budget system by which the Crawleys had regulated their lives for the past decade.

Tommy glanced to light a cigarette and strolled over the house. Then he started back to town and headed for his brother's apartment. Patrick would be there with that quart of rye that he received every week as honorarium from the bootlegger on the beat.

Mrs. Crawley's preparations before the dinner they were attending that night were somewhat more elaborate than one might expect from her unassuming appearance. Her charms were of the mousy order not calculated to set off emeralds to advantage, and the honey-colored taffeta she wore to reduce her to the single tone of an albino carrot. None the less she commenced to dress a good two hours before the time that they planned to leave, and at six-thirty, when the telephone rang, she was by no means ready. Mr. Crawley, who was downstairs at the time, answered the call, and heard a man's voice ask for Mrs. Crawley. He called upstairs to her, and presently she appeared in a mouse-colored dressing gown, and came down fervently hoping that no unexpected contingency had arisen which might interfere with the plans of the evening.

By the time that she reached the telephone, however, the gentleman had either been disconnected or had grown tired of waiting, for she received no response. She replaced the receiver and planned to wait a few moments before returning upstairs, on the chance that it would ring again. As she stood a moment undetermined, there was a low knocking at the front door.

Mrs. Crawley stepped into the library as her husband answered it. She heard soft voices for a moment, and soon he appeared, several shades paler than her poudre blanche had rendered his wife.

"The emeralds!" she exclaimed. "On the dresser!"

They re-entered the hall together and stood, rapt in horror, while the intrepid Irishman tried to reassure them in hoarse whispers. They remained huddled at the foot of the stairs while he mounted cautiously with drawn revolver. They heard him move about, and utter a hoarse command.

After a few breathless minutes, their champion reappeared and de-when the door bell rang. He had let the policeman in, and in the excitement, she had forgotten her natural modesty and had stood with him at the foot of the stairs while the policeman had rushed up only to find the burglar gone. He was most likely tracking down the culprit while the sergeant stood around asking idle questions of honest householders. No, he had not noticed his number. There was no other entrance to the house except the back door. The sergeant could see for himself that there were no tracks at all from the back door. He didn't see why it was necessary to make insinuations about George who was certainly far more trustworthy than policeman. They had no garage, so when Mr. Crawley had borrowed Mr. Jeff's ladder to fix some weatherstripping, he had left it by the house. No, he did not think that was a foolish thing to do. Any one was likely to leave a ladder around for a little while.

George was hardly more illuminating. He certainly did not go around catching his death of cold by propping ladders up against windows in the dead of winter. Anyhow, his Sarah wouldn't like them like the green stones. The sergeant could see for himself that George's feet were built on more distinctive and massive lines than the footprints on the lawn. The sergeant was disgruntled. Then he had a bright idea. He had the operator trace the call that Mrs. Crawley had answered. He came back smiling and said, "Mr. Crawley in disagreeable triumph. 'I guess you won't see them fools again,' he observed. 'That phone call was from the cigar store at the corner here.'"

What became of the emeralds? The solution of this mystery will be printed in The Post-Dispatch tomorrow.

Newspapers as Fuel

ONE thrifty housekeeper converts old newspapers into fuel and here is how she does it: She puts newspapers into a tub, half fills it with water and weighs the papers down with a large stone. Then she fills the tub to the top with water and leaves it until papers are thoroughly soaked and quite pulpy. She then molds the newspapers into compact balls and places them in the sun to dry out. The balls become solid as wood and burn nicely in a stove or fireplace, giving out intense heat.

She always has large quantities of newspaper balls on hand, for she likes them better than real fuel, because they are so clean to handle and then, too, she considers their use a thrift item quite worth while.

Sunburn Shoe Style Is Set for Next Summer

SUNBURN has become so fashionable that next summer will see it simulated in shoes. Sun-tan shades have been added to the color card of leather tanners and will make their appearance in calf, reptile and 'old sk' shades. A few blues and greens, "vin rouge," and another reddish tone or two are included, the leather makers are centering upon "sunburn beige," "lido sand," "silvering" and other very light shades. The idea is to make the leathers as nearly as possible like the human skin in color. Even suedes will appear in champagne and sun-scorched hues.

BACKS ON DISPLAY.

GRACEFULLY upright must be the back worthy to be called beautiful—and supple and flat (meaning minus humps, bumps, knobs or wing effects) and above all else satiny smooth and as white as can be.

Far rarer than lovely faces are lovely backs, as witness the samples on display at almost any formal evening function. Indeed so very few and far between are the backs beautiful that one wonders why so many couturiers turn out so many with necks beginning at the waist line. Maybe the object is to improve the backs of the Nation!

Very well, let's take the hint. This is the back beautiful movement: Stand erect, feet pointing straight ahead. Raise the arms to a position at right angles to the sides of the body, palms down. Carry the arms backward slowly until the palms meet. There will be a sensation of pulling on the shoulder and back muscles.

Next, place the hands at the hips and elaborately shrug the shoulders five or six times in succession. Follow this stunt by raising the shoulders high, then push them forward, then backward, pulling them downward and upward again. Incidentally, this particular movement happens to have a most salutary effect upon the nape of the neck. It has a decided tendency to wear away the little mound of fat which occurs on nearly all necks after 30. And upon an unfortunate few before 30.

Now as to the cultivation of the smoothness and whiteness of the back. That can be accomplished, in most cases, at a single stroke, so to speak. The "patient" will provide herself with an ordinary scrubbing brush and—hold your breath—a cake of good, old-fashioned sand soap, and with their aid she will give her back an extra special scrub-down twice a week.

Rather drastic treatment, we'll admit, but so effective—and in such a short time, too! Ladies with supersensitive backs will do well, however, to follow the scrub-down by anointing the skin with a mixture of some soothing, cooling face cream and bicarbonate of soda; to eight parts of the former add one part of the latter.

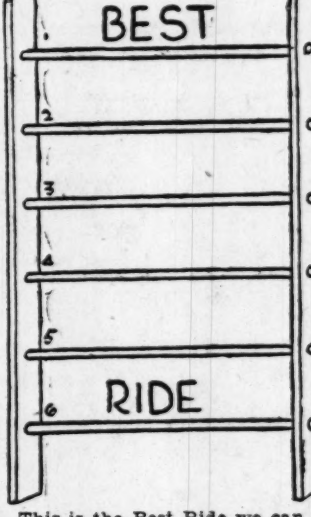

But to secure a simply dazzling back effect, not only will one exfoliate and scrub the back, but make it up ever so carefully before slipping into the party frock. Mother, big sister or chum can first "white-wash" the back with a good liquid powder or whitenor specially designed for the purpose, and then with the help of a powder puff on a stick the owner of the back can add the finishing touch.

Always allow chicken to thoroughly cool before covering it with a lid. This is most important. Harmful toxins develop if chicken is covered while hot.

Will alimony for husband soon be awarded in New York as well as in Chicago?

Will wives in New York—like Chicago wives, if we credit Judge Sabath—refuse to ask alimony if they can earn their own living and have no children?

Here is, it seems to us, the only attitude for a truly modern woman to take. Unfortunately it is not, at present, the attitude taken by many a wife. Her point of view and course of action are more accurately expressed in Falt Baldwin's provocative autumn novel, "Alimony."

It is the story of a decent New York man married to a selfish pleasure-loving wife, who bullies him into a divorce by something closely resembling blackmail, collects more than half his income in alimony, comes down on him for more when he has remarried and is expecting a child, and in general works to the queen's taste what one of the men in the book bitterly describes as "legal gold digging . . . marriage, nice legal marriage—get it over as soon as possible, and then take your money and your freedom and get out."

A sordid graft, in our opinion. Yet Miss Baldwin's fiction frequently is duplicated as fact in New York divorce courts, according to statements by divorce court judges. Several of them have denounced the institution of alimony awards to the able-bodied, childless wife. They say the system is not only unjust to the husband, but that it tends to break up marriage and to promote immorality.

Our own chief reason for opposing it is that we hate to think any woman is so lacking in self-respect as to graft her living from a man she doesn't love when she can work for it honestly.

Many a woman, according to Judge Sabath, now shares this point of view. Maybe he has hit on the means whereby the other type of woman—the one who thinks alimony a divine right and marries with the idea in the back of her head—can be educated.

Maybe a few local awards of alimony to husbands instead of FROM them, would scare off from matrimony the gold-digger alimony man. What's sauce for the goose should be sauce for the gander, and all alimony to husbands means!

ALIMONY TO MEN?

YES, the proposition in the is right—it should read in men, not "FROM" men.

the thing has happened, though it's enough to make a matrimonially licensed gold-digger think the world's coming to an end.

Alimony to men seems to have its beginning as a legal institution in California; although in New there is a law that, if the husband is unable to support himself, he has no separate property, the wife must support him. But the actual accounts we ever read of money awards to husbands came from the Golden Gate about year ago.

Eastward—thus reversing course of empire—the course husbands' alimony takes it. It is now being awarded—and, sumably, paid—by wives—in Chicago. That city's famous Colonel of Justice, Judge Sabath, has heard more than 25,000 divorce cases, announces that he has written the twenty-fifth alimony provision for a husband into a case issued in his court.

It is not that I am trying to develop the male gold-digger," he explains, "but men are entitled to money just as much as women. Male matrimonial castoffs now enjoy regular stipends because of money from this court range from disabled war veterans to tottery members of the old men's home."

He instances, as one of the cases within his knowledge, that of a young woman who married a man 25 years older than herself. He came an invalid necessitating nursing care. She was good to him, he did not love him. She fell in love with another man, and the aged husband permitted a divorce on grounds of cruelty. It was stipulated in the divorce that she should pay alimony. She remarried in month and is happy, and the man realizes that it is better off all of them that events have taken their course. She pays the alimony regularly, and he has not become a public charge.

"Of course," adds Judge Sabath, "able-bodied husbands who do support themselves are not entitled to alimony, and neither are wives without children nor dependent who seek their freedom."

But, he adds, it is a fact, presumably a fact only in Chicago—a condition of affairs which has always advocated.

"Woman's independence," says, "is so increasing her self respect that not more than 20 to 25 filing suit for divorce asks for alimony after the decree if she self-supporting and has no children."

Dining Out With the Stars at Hollywood

Or Watching Them Eat, Which Is About the Same Thing as Far as the Thrills Are Concerned, as Experienced by a St. Louis Girl Who Watched Them.

By ELOISE L. FRAZIER

"WHO WAS THERE?" when asked in St. Louis, means "Who of our friends was there?" The same question in Los Angeles indicates something quite different. It means "What Movie Stars were there?" So, in spite of the seeming indifference of the native sons and daughters, they are really just as interested in the doings of actors and actresses as any visitor, and that's plenty.

A date in Hollywood means not only going places, but it also means seeing people; there is always the possibility that your favorite Screen Star will tread on your foot while dancing at some hotel, or will use the same mustard ladies as some hamburger joint. Oh, yes, they do. They bat around places just like all the rest of the dating public. While most of the big parties are given in these homes, they patronize certain restaurants and hotels, chief among which is the Montmartre (pronounced mon-mar), a rather unassuming restaurant, on the second floor of a building on Hollywood boulevard. It is not very large, the decorations are extremely conservative, and the music, composed of two alternating orchestras, one playing jazz and the other tangos, is good, but nothing to write home about. The only film personage I saw there on a particular Saturday night was Tom Mix. He talked animatedly to a group of young men who were at his table, and occasionally danced with a very attractive blond that he was escorting.

SATURDAY NIGHT in St. Louis is the big night, but in Hollywood all public orchestras are hushed at 12 o'clock. Imagine! Going home at 12 on Saturday night. Of course, you don't have to go home. There are dandy drives up the sides of the surrounding hills from which you can look down at the lights of Los Angeles. That is, if you want to look at the lights. The whole thing is worked on the same principle as Art Hill, only there is more of a view. That is, if you want a view.

I was told that the best time to see people at the Montmartre is at noon, when the stars drop in from the surrounding studios for luncheon, and about 5 o'clock in the afternoon, when there is tea dancing. This bit of information you may take advantage of some time, I didn't.

Coffee Dan's is quite the rendezvous for not so much the picture people as for vaudeville actors. It is tucked down in the basement of a downtown building, and boasts a dancing spot large enough to shuffle your feet. There is always a big argument as to the best way of making an effective entrance. You have your choice of wrapping your skirt or coat about you, holding your breath and descending informally on the curving slide which lands you smack at the feet of the is furnished by the patrons who are in the profession. How the master of ceremonies is able to determine who is who in that jam, I can't understand. But he'll swing his little spot on some guest and introduce him. The guest will arise, if he is able, and sing, dance or what not. The master of ceremonies sometimes pulls awful boners getting people to do impromptu numbers. At his urgent request one young man arose and after having a long confab with the pianist, turned to the audience, wiggled his Adam's-apple and started to sing. He sang twice, then he started, and each time he was either ahead or behind the music. After much blushing on the part of the young man and smirking by the pianist they finally started off on the same note, but therein the similarity ceased. It was a dual rendition of the "Road to Mandalay" in two keys, with the young man reaching home base first.

CALIFORNIA is a great place for unique-shaped places to eat. There is an ice cream parlor built in the shape of a huge ice cream freezer two stories high, with a handle that slowly revolves all the time. There is the Brown Derby that resembles... you're a mammoth derby plopped down on a vacant lot, and they serve food a la Garavelli. It is also considered to be one of the stars' hangouts, but they didn't seem to be hanging the night I was there.

However, I saw Lew Cody and his wife, Mabel Normand, at the Plantation, a roadside building in front that indicates a Southern colonial homestead as the model. The interior was intimate and cozy (if you are in a good humor, and hellishly jammed, if you're not), and the walls and ceiling were covered with trellis and vines. There were various celebrities in the jovial crowd (or angry mob), at least the master of ceremonies introduced them as being important, but the only ones from the picture world were Lew Cody and Mabel. They speak of Lew Cody as the publicity men's darling because he is game to do anything they suggest. He got up and cracked some jokes, murmured a few compliments about the shining faces before him, and then presented his wife, who,

BUSTER GROWS CRAFTY.

—Buster Bear.

BUSTER Bear had had the worst fright of his life. He had been shot at and hit. The bullet had done no great damage, but it had hurt. It is doubtful whether the bullet, or the bang of that terrible gun, had frightened Buster most. Buster was lucky, though he didn't know it. He thought he was unlucky. He was sure he was unlucky. But that bullet might have killed him, or it might have broken a leg. It might have done a number of things that it didn't do. So, you see, Buster really was lucky.

It was a very fortunate thing for Buster that the night had been so very dark. Had there been moonlight, or even starlight, the farmer who had been hiding, waiting for Buster to come back to steal another pig, would have been able to make sure of his shot. But Buster didn't think of these things. All he could think of was the fact that he had been hurt and the other fact, that he had been chased out of another pig. It is a question which troubled Buster most. You see, having had a taste of pig, it seemed to him that he just must have another.

Buster ran a long way from that farm. At first he intended to keep right on going and never come back. When he had gone far enough for him to think that it was safe to do so, he made himself a bed under a windfall and slept. When he awoke, he should have kept right on going. But he didn't. He got to thinking of those pigs over in that pen back on the farm where he had been shot.

"I suppose," said Buster to himself, "that that man with the terrible gun will be watching for me. Yes, sir, I suppose he'll be watching for me. He'll expect me to come back. But I won't do it. That is, I won't do it right away. I'll wait until he has decided that I'm no longer around here. Then one fine night I'll slip back there and get another pig. My, how that terrible fun can hurt!"

So Buster was crafty enough not to go back for almost a week. He felt sure that by that time the farmer would be sure that he had gone away. It was very hard work not to go back where he could keep an eye on things, but he was afraid that if he did the man with the terrible gun might discover him, and he had no desire to be shot at again. So he contented himself with hunting for wood mice, digging open ant hills, digging out a few roots and picking up whatever he could find that was edible.

"These are slim pickings," said Buster, "but I guess I can stand it. I know I can, if I can only get a pig a little later. Pigs certainly are good eating. They are the finest eating of anything I have ever tasted. But I mustn't think about them now. If I do, I shall be getting into trouble again."

Now, the farmer who owned the pigs had set night after night hoping to get another shot at Buster Bear. But one cannot sit up nights and work days, so the farmer after three or four nights gave it up. But every morning he went out and very carefully examined the ground around the pig pen to see if he could find any tracks of Buster Bear. Of course, he found none, because Buster hadn't returned. Finally he decided that Buster had had a fright that he wouldn't return.

"I must have hit that Bear," said the farmer, talking to his wife. "Anyway, I gave him an awful fright. There hasn't been a trace of him since. I've been over to the woods looking for him tracks, but I couldn't find them. Bears are pretty smart. Now that he's been shot at, he won't take the chance of being shot at again."

Soda Water for Pans

SCOT and stove blacking, together with burnt-on food, makes enamel or agate cooking utensils difficult to keep spotless. They may be cleaned by putting all the pans in hot soda water, says the American Housewife. To a dishpan of hot water add soap powder or plain washing soda, about two tablespoons to the quart.

The grease on the pans and the soda cause a soft soap to form, and so the pans are cleaned without time spent on them. As each pan is clean and like new, it is ready for a good hot rinse.

The iron kettles and frying pans may be cleaned in the same way. If tin is cleaned this way, it must be left in the soda for only a few minutes, otherwise the tin will dissolve and the pan become rusty.

CHOICE FISH MEAT AND NOTHING ELSE

When you buy 40-FATHOM fish you buy only the selected portions of fresh ocean fish—the tender white sides. Heads, tails, fins, backbones and all waste are removed from 40-FATHOM fish at the pier. Then each of the clear fish steaks is wrapped in vegetable parchment paper and fast-expressed to your meat fish or provision dealer.

40-FATHOM fish is always fresh, never frozen. Ready to cook for a good "shore dinner" at home.

Ask your butcher, grocer or fish dealer for 40-FATHOM fish by name. Be sure it is wrapped in the special wrapper that has the name 40-FATHOM fish printed on it. For fish not in this wrapper is not 40-FATHOM fish! Bay State Fishing Co., 30 Fish Pier, Boston.

Too Many Clubs, Says Over-Clubbed Woman

NATIONAL control of women's clubs, designed to reduce the number of such organizations and see that needless bodies were not permitted to operate, is suggested by a clubwoman calling herself "over-organized" in the Woman's Home Companion.

Declaring that "women's clubs are clubbing women to death" the writer lists her organizations as follows, first asking how she can be expected to do her duty to her club life and also to her home: the D. A. R., the Ladies Aid, the Young Women's Society, the Association for Civic Planning, the Committee to Establish a Bird Sanctuary, the State Women's Republican Club, the League of Women Voters, the Women's Non-Partisan League and certain college alumni organizations.

"Suppose," says the harassed writer, "that every 10 years all organizations were to disband for 90 days, with the understanding that only those should start up again for which there was an insistent demand. This would not deprive us of our schools, our churches, our hospitals or our really vital clubs. But wouldn't it weed out a lot of things that just keep going because they were started?"

A lot of organizations deserve to be discontinued, thinks the writer. "Making better homes," she says, "raising better children, and leading a better life is worth more to society than being 10 times a chairman and a dozen times a secretary."

If you are going to rearrange the furniture, be sure and remove the old varnish—use three tablespoons of washing soda to one quart water and apply with a rough cloth.

COOLIDGE IN HIS MESSAGE URGES CONGRESS TO HOLD TO ECONOMY PLAN

Indicated Surplus of $37,000,000 Not Sufficient on Which to Base Another Tax Cut, He Says.

CALLS KELLOGG PACT GREAT PEACE MOVE

Opposes Increase in Military Personnel—Wants Farmers, Aided by Public Policy, to Plan Relief.

The text of the President's message will be found on page 18 of this edition

By CHARLES G. ROSS, Chief Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4.—The annual message of the President to Congress, read by clerks in both Houses today, presents a glowing picture of the present state of the Union. The tone of the message is set by the opening sentence, in which the President asserts that no Congress of the United States has ever "met with a more pleasing prospect."

"Tranquillity and contentment" at home and "peace and good will in the foreign field"—these and collateral blessings are attributed by the President to "the integrity and character of the American people."

The document breathes satisfaction with the achievements of the American people and of the current Federal Administration. The American people have had "great faith" and have done "mighty works"; they have trusted one another and their Government, and "their order in dealing with foreign governments has commanded respect and confidence."

"Yet," the Chief Executive adds, "these remarkable powers would have been exerted almost in vain without the constant co-operation and careful administration of the Federal Government."

Altogether, the President sets the accomplishments of his administration at a very high mark for his successor to shoot at.

The House heard the message with occasional pattering of applause, notably for the references to the renunciation of war treaty and the President's disclaimer of imperialistic intentions on the part of the United States. The Senate, as is its custom, listened to the reading in silence. Both houses adjourned after the message had been read.

Stresses Constructive Economy.
"Constructive economy" is again emphasized as a cardinal Coolidge policy. By means of it, the message says, "we have substituted for the vicious circle of increasing expenditures, increasing tax rates and diminishing profits the charmed circle of diminishing expenditures, diminishing tax rates and increasing profits."

The President estimates that under the "sound and healthful" encouragement which has been given to business by the four successive tax reductions from the war-time rates, the national income has increased nearly 50 per cent, until it now stands at more than $90,000,000,000.

He calls vigorously for continuance of the economy policy. Though a surplus of about $37,000,000 is indicated for the current fiscal year, ending next June 30, the President points out that this is a margin of less than 1 per cent on expenditures. It is not a sufficient surplus, he says, on which to base another tax reduction. He urges and the President indicates that Congress in the present session to "refrain from new appropriations for immediate outlay," or, if such appropriations are absolutely necessary, to provide new money with "care."

Warns Against Unbalanced Budget.
"Otherwise," he warns, "we shall reach the end of the year with the unthinkable result of an unbalanced budget. For the first time during my term of office we face that contingency. I am certain that the Congress would not pass and approve legislation which would involve us in that financial disgrace."

As concrete indications of the generally satisfactory condition of the national finances, the President cites the reduction of the national debt last year by about $90,000,000 and the prospective saving of
